Mrs. Besant Is Dead.
Our Poor Dollar.
NRA and Unions.
Gold in Manila.

—By ARTHUR BRISBANE—

DR. ANNIE BESANT, a leader in theosophy, is dead at 85. Some years ago she introduced as "The New Messiah" a good-looking young Hindu, Jeddu Krishnamurti, who was to save the world. He took to white flannel trousers and tennis, and decided to let the world save itself.

Disappointed, but not discouraged in young Krishnamurti, who refused to be "the reincarnation of Christ," Mrs. Besant was about to produce another Messiah when she died.

She was an able woman, did excellent work for the working people in London when she was young. Theosophy was the relaxation of her old age, as spiritualism has been that of various elderly persons seeking to "penetrate the veil" that is never penetrated.

OUR PAPER dollar OFF the gold standard, and not ON anything in particular, reached a new low price for all time early yesterday. At the same time gold reached the highest price ever known.

A dollar worth forty cents and gold at forty dollars an ounce would present an interesting topic of discussion for financial highbrows who kicked the dollar off the gold basis and then forgot about it.

If you have any property of real value hold on to it. It may soon be worth more of our cheap dollars than you would have thought possible.

While our dollar's value drops below 65 cents the Canadian dollar is worth 99 cents. Congratulations to Canada.

IN BRITAIN the Labor party is dwindling. Its membership now is 2,500,000 below the 1920 figure. MacDonald, who went in as labor prime minister, and stayed as a compromise between labor and Toryism, still rules, and labor shrinks.

On the other hand, with the NRA looked upon by labor in this country as its ally, Mr. Green, head of the American Federation of Labor, announces that its ranks have been increased by 500,000 men.

Washington's union weekly, "Labor," prints a cartoon of a little employer, much frightened, struck by lightning labeled NRA. "Labor" adopts NRA as a branch of union labor activities.

Some still believe that if any union is to govern the United States, it will continue to be a UNION OF THE FORTY-EIGHT STATES, and not any privately managed organization, but they may be old-fashioned.

NUMEROUS GOLD mines have, it is said, been discovered in the Philippine Islands. Manila is "enjoying" a terrific boom in gold stocks, and a second stock exchange for dealing in gold securities has been opened.

If gold turns out to be as plentiful as suggested, this government may be sorry that it decided to get rid of the Philippines, after investing so many benevolent millions in them.

POOR OLD Uncle Sam seems to have been born a victim of misplaced confidence.

People were starving in China, and people there were naked. Uncle Sam had millions of bushels of wheat, unlimited bales of cotton, and he didn't know what to do with either. So he let China have $50,000,000 worth of wheat and cotton, saying:

"Pay me later."

Now he discovers that China is selling the cotton to Japan, at marked-down prices, without first having paid for it.

Will Uncle Sam get paid for that cotton? Will he get paid by the European nations to whom he lent ten thousand millions when their backs were against the wall?

EVERYTHING can be improved. In this column was quoted the saying of the late President Ripley, of the Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe Railroad, that the three words in the language that mean success are "ORGANIZE, DEPUTIZE, SUPERVISE."

Gerard Swope, president of the General Electric Company, writes that one word should be added to the formula, making it read "ANALYZE, organize, deputize, supervise." Says Mr. Swope:

"Before you organize, you ought to analyze and see what the elements of the business are."

TO CELEBRATE the seventeenth anniversary of the Russian revolution that brought Bolshevism, Moscow will open the first station of an underground railroad that now employs 25,000 men and will soon employ 65,000 men. Several big American cities have TALKED about a subway system, while Russia has actually BUILT one. How do you explain that?

Can it be that there is really something in letting the government run things? Some will hope so, since we all rely so greatly on the success of the NRA.

IDAHO AND New Mexico repudiate prohibition, making 31 states wet, not one voting dry.

Five more states and there will be an end of the "noble experiment" that has cost the United States tens of billions in crime, fastened organized kidnaping on the country, and bathtub gin on the national bill of fare.

THROW BOMB INTO PLANT OF CLEANERS

Blast Plot Follows Court Attack On Strikers

BULLETIN.

Judge Gray in Common Pleas Court today granted an injunction to three Pittsburgh cleaning and dyeing concerns, restraining strikers from threats and intimidation and limiting their pickets to one at each plant.

A bomb was hurled into a cleaning and dyeing plant here today within en hour after charges of threats against dyeing plants and of intimidation of employes and patrons by union agents were aired in Common Pleas Court here.

Inspection revealed its nature and he called police, letting it soak in water while he waited for them.

PROBE BEGINS

In the court action, three firms are seeking an injunction to prevent strikers from interfering with operations.

L. Henderson, Jr., vice president of Crandall, McKenzie & Henderson, Inc., testified that on September 11 when employes attempted to take out trucks they were threatened by a group of men. He added that customers who came to the plant to get their own garments were annoyed.

Maurice Schneirov, counsel for the union, declared no emergency exists that requires the present hearing.

Judge James H. Gray did not agre with Schnirov about th lack of an mergency.

JUDGE'S STAND

Judge Gray said:

"The question is whether you are doing what they say you are. If you are, it is not justified. The law says you have no right to put people in fear."

Oswald H. Werner, of the Oswald Werner & Sons Company, testified a driver told him that eight men jumped on one truck and told the driver to take the truck in or it would be "just too bad for him." The driver, according to Werner, said he could "lick four, but not eight."

Meanwhile, committees representing both employes and union, were meeting this afternoon at the Chamber of Commerce. They have been seeking an agreement to end the strike affecting 1,400 cleaners and dyers in 45 plants in this district.

Coolidge's Shotgun Given 'Bill' Starling

WASHINGTON, Sept. 21.—(Universal.)—The late President Coolidge's favorite shotgun arrived at the White House today, a present from Mrs. Coolidge to Col. (Bill) Starling, of the Secret Service, who taught him to shoot and fish.

Reading over Mr. Coolidge's papers, the widow discovered one indicating he intended "Big Bill" to have the gun.

West Va. Bans Strike March of Fayette Miners

By AL GOUGH
Staff Correspondent.

UNIONTOWN, Pa., Sept. 21.—Fayette County's mines still were idle today despite the suggestion of union officials that miners resume work pending the conclusion of labor contracts now that the coal code has been signed.

An attempt by coke region miners to extend their strike to West Virginia was balked when the Sheriff of Monongalia County and West Virginia state police halted a march at the state line near Point Marion. The marchers were warned their invasion would be prevented "by force, if necessary."

MINE PICKETED

Picketing went on all over the county, and at the Edenborn mine of the H. C. Frick Coke Company more than a thousand miners from Fayette, Greene and Washington counties gathered this morning in a mass meeting.

Wandering out of the picket line at Edenborn, Earl Batch, employe of the Warden mine of the Pittsburgh Coal Company, was cut on the face and chest with a razor today.

Batch is the fourth man to be attacked at Edenborn in the last week. Yesterday Steve Gaydosh was found unconscious near the mine.

It had been reported that the Edenbern mine would resume operations today, but there was no indication that the company had tried to reopen it. The picketers sat in groups around fires, or walked the roads to keep warm in the cold, raw morning.

Yesterday a group of several hundred miners from this county went towards West Virginia in automobiles with the intention of attempting to spread the mine holiday to that state.

They were met at the state line by Sheriff Charles Hickman, of Monongalia County, and state troopers under Corp. Paul McClung, who turned them back.

END PRICE WAR, NRA STORE AIM

By WILLIAM S. NEAL

WASHINGTON, Sept. 21.—A plan designed to save retailers of the nation from destructive price wars without committing the NRA to a policy of price-fixing was being prepared today by economists of the Consumers' Advisory Board for submission to Hugh S. Johnson, administrator.

With members of the consumers' board visibly disturbed because the retail code was submitted to the administrator without consulting the board, the new plan presented a definite issue which may be decided by Johnson or may go to President Roosevelt.

The retail code was being studied by Johnson and his aides in the hope of composing differences between leaders in the key business of the nation, but final ac-

PITTSBURGH PRIEST MADE BISHOP

Elaborate Ceremony Marks Consecration Of Father Hayes

The peeling bells of St. Paul's Cathedral today called forth Father Ralph Leo Hayes—not so long ago a Crafton schoolboy—to become a prelate of the Roman Catholic Church.

Amid the richest ritual and the most impressive pomp the church employs he was consecrated Bishop of Helena, Mont., diocese and became vicar of his Lord in an area covering half a state.

He was the first native Pittsburgher to be elevated to the prelacy of the church, and his consecration was the first ceremony of its kind here since the consecration of Bishop Hugh C. Boyle in 1921.

At the first sound of the bells, 500 priests and 20 monsignori walked slowly from the Cathedral Girls High School.

They moved slowly down Craig street past the Synod, and, as the end of the line went by, 23 bishops and two archbishops joined their rank from the Synod house.

The friars and monks led the procession, stepping reverently to the slow tolling of the bells.

ENTER CATHEDRAL

In the van were black-cloaked Benedictine Friars and brown-garbed Franciscan monks. Behind them walked the priests in red vestments—this was a feast day.

Last of the priests was the Rev. Ralph Leo Hayes, nephew of Bishop Hayes, bearing a golden cross, with an altar boy on either side, a lighted candle held high.

The monsignori, in ecclesiastical purple, followed, and behind them were the bishops. Bishop Hugh C. Boyle walked resplendent in the red and gold episcopal robes, wearing the mitre of his office and carrying his crozier.

Bishop Hayes, garbed in white surplice and red biretta, was flanked by the co-consecrators, Bishops A. J. Smith, of Nashville, and J. A. Griffin, of Springfield.

The bells ceased tolling as the procession moved into the cathedral, to be met there by the re-

HERRON WINS ALL BUT 2 WARDS

Ex-Mayor Only One to Survive Machine Steamroller

Arriving from Washington by airplane, former Mayor William A. Magee was in Pittsburgh today to protect his apparent nomination to Council on the Republican ticket.

Magee was the lone survivor of the Herron-Coyne steam roller at Tuesday's primaries.

He appeared definitely to have won one of five places on the Republican ticket for Council by displacing Clifford B. Connelley, but his friends, fearing an attempt to count him out, sent him a message to come home. He returned last night.

FOURTH PLACE

With only seven of 408 districts missing Magee was in fourth place. He was leading George S. Oliver, the fifth nominee, by 1,883 votes and Connelley, sixth on the list, by 3,031 votes. Magee won by a heavy vote in the Fourteenth and Nineteenth wards.

Mayor John S. Herron had scored a smashing victory for the Republican Mayoralty nomination by a clear majority over his two opponents, Register of Wills Joseph N. Mackrell and Councilman P. J. McArdle of nearly 9,000 votes. The vote in 388 of 408 districts:

Herron	65,008
Mackrell	31,112
McArdle	25,104

Herron carried all wards except the Eighteenth and the Twenty-seventh, which went to Mackrell. A heavy soldier vote is believed to have carried the Register of Wills over the top in those wards.

McArdle failed to carry a single ward. His own, the Nineteenth, went to Herron by a plurality over McArdle of 1,200. The Citizens' League candidate, however, ran up a big vote in several wards, notably the Fourteenth. His highest proportionate vote was in the small Thirtieth Ward.

State Senator James J. Coyne's home ward, the Fourth, rolled up a majority for Herron of nearly seven to one over his two rivals. Herron likewise was given heavy pluralities in the North Side and

JUDGE TO HEAR DAVIS PLEA

By WILLIAM PFARR
Staff Correspondent.

NEW YORK, Sept. 21.—In the private chambers of a federal judge in the Woolworth Building today the fate of United States Senator James J. Davis, of Pittsburgh, is being decided.

The jury has been dismissed for two days and the judge and the lawyers have left the courtroom to thrash out legal arguments.

Attorney Charles Margiotti is arguing that testimony concerning the 1930 alleged lottery conducted by the Moose should not be allowed, because the Senator is being tried only for the one alleged in 1931, although indicted for both. If Judge Johnson Hayes rules for Margiotti, Uncle Sam may be in a hard way to convict the Carrick statesman.

The second argument is even more important. Margiotti contends that the government should be made to prove that Davis' membership contract with the Moose was still in force in 1931—while the alleged lottery was being held.

If the court upholds Margiotti here, the senator may well smile, for then the government would not be allowed to try to show that Davis profited $173,000 from the two lotteries.

Davis contends that he sold his Moose contract in 1930 to two Pittsburghers, Fred W. Jones, his secretary, and Joseph Jenkins, a Moose organizer.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 21. — (INS.)—President Roosevelt was back at work today after a three-day period of slight illness during which he suffered from a cold.

The President's temperature was normal. He had a full list of engagements, but remained away from the executive offices. He worked in his study in the White House proper.

Treason Charged In Trial Over Reichstag Fire

LEIPZIG, Germany, Sept. 21.—(AP.)—Incendiarism in the German Reichstag became a secondary issue and high treason the primary point today as the Supreme Court trial of five men charged with setting the fire last February got under way.

The court moved the phrase, "attempt forcibly to overthrow the constitution," in the foreground of the indictments and put the charges of incendiarism second.

This indicated that the whole realm of Communist activity in Germany will be investigated.

The defendants were brought into court shortly before 9 o'clock accompanied by two policemen. They were taken to the court building under heavy police guard.

VOTE MACHINE QUIZ SPEEDED

The County Commissioners moved ahead today with plans for a speedy investigation of the failure of voting machines in scores of districts during the primary election.

The probe, to be conducted by a committee to be named by the Commissioners, is to be concluded in two weeks.

In authorizing the probe, Commissioner Charles C. McGovern said:

"We want to go into these complaints against machines and, district by district, sift out the facts so responsibility can be fixed. If the Bureau of Elections or the Board of Commissioners is to blame we want the evidence to give to the public."

Meanwhile, officials of the Bureau of Elections announced that plans for one change which they said will make the voting machines "tamper-proof" for all time were being prepared. The section remaining unprotected is

Post Hurt in Takeoff, Winnie Mae Smashed

QUINCY, Ill., Sept. 21.—(AP.)—Wiley Post, round-the-world flier, was severely injured when his plane, the Winnie Mae, crashed today at the local airport as he was taking off.

Post was rushed to a hospital, where Dr. E. L. Caddick said his injuries were severe but not critical.

The Winnie Mae, in which Post flew around the world in seven days 18 hours and 50 seconds, will have to be rebuilt.

The crash occurred while Post, who is on a speaking tour, was taking off for Davenport, Ia.

Dr. Caddick said that the flier suffered an extensive v-shaped cut on his forehead from the hair to each eyebrow. His shoulder also was injured, but apparently there were no fractures.

Post was able to crawl, unassisted, from the plane in which he flew alone around the world and to survey the damage of his first serious accident.

Gambling Ship Murder Confessed in Grilling

International News Service.

LONG BEACH, Cal., Sept. 21.—Under grilling by officers, a patron of the gambling ship Johanna Smith confessed today that he shot and killed Norman Lorraine, 22, Baltimore seaman, on the ship last night, Long Beach police said.

The confession was said to have been made after the killer, whose name was not disclosed, attempted to make his way ashore in a boatload of persons which was not allowed to land and was forced to go back to the gambling ship.

A few minutes later, the death gun was found on the ship and the suspect, informed that his fingerprints were to be compared with prints on the death gun, admitted the killing.

The slaying at sea had held more than 200 persons, 100 of them gay revelers of la . night, imprisoned aboard the rakish gambling ship off Long Beach while federal Department of Justice agents and Long Beach police looked among them for the midnight assasin.

It was the second murder aboard a gambling ship here in less than a month, the third in a little more than a year and a second on the same ship where death struck last night.

HEARST PLAN FOR INFLATION UPHELD BY ECONOMIST

BRITISH EXPERT TALKS ON U. S. PROBLEM

By WILLIAM HILLMAN
Universal Service.

LONDON, Sept. 21.—"If the United States is going to have inflation, then the method suggested by William Randolph Hearst is the way to do it."

This comment was made today by Sir Walter Thomas Layton, financial adviser to the British government, director of the League of Nations economic section and editor of the London Economist, in a discussion of Mr. Hearst's nation-wide broadcast Saturday on "Inflation, Deflation, and Reflation." Sir Walter continued:

"But America must judge for herself whether it is possible to control and check inflation or, as Mr. Hearst puts it, 'As prosperity returns and the amount of deposit currency increases, governmental currency can be decreased by retiring government notes, thus preventing over-inflation.'

U. S. MUST JUDGE

"Experience shows this is not easy. Other countries which tried inflation did not succeed in stopping inflation when they wanted. The United States must judge whether it thinks it really can do so.

"The real problem is: Can you, by ladling out increased purchasing power by an issue of notes, create such an impetus or a rolling snowball, as it were, that will restore normal prosperity?

"In 1928, the national income of the United States was around 80 billions of dollars. This represented the total spending power of the country.

"This has now dropped to about 40 billions of dollars. How can you get normal prosperity back? How can you get a circulation of the equivalent of 80 billions of dollars?

"This does not mean that you have 80 billions of dollars in circulation at one time. The circulation medium is actually considerably less, and this amount going round and round brings the total of 80 billions or whatever the national income is.

NOTE ISSUE

"Now, suppose notes are issued as suggested by Mr. Hearst, to the tune, say, of three or four billions of dollars. Will this three or four billions create such a snowball and to enable 80 billions of dollars worth of business eventually to be transacted?

"What you do is print notes and hand them to somebody. This will increase purchasing power. But how much effect it will have depends upon a great variety of circumstances. Is the money being placed in the right hands?

"It is essential, of course, for the unemployed to have greater purchasing power. But will that alone restore the housebuildings, factory and farming activity to the 1928 level?

"And if this three billion fails to do the trick—what then? Will another three billion be tried?

"My opinion is that unless you get the purchasing power into the hands of foreign purchasers of cotton and wheat, you will not restore the balance of pre-1929 American activity.

PRICES WILL RISE

"Prices will be increased by inflation. But the essence is not merely to boost prices—especially a speculative increase in prices. That is not lasting.

"The claim may be made that inflation puts money into the hands of the farmer and is therefore helpful. But to get the ball rolling this is not enough, for something more is needed. The farmer is not helped if there is only speculative buying of wheat. That is not based on ability to sell more wheat abroad, which is fundamentally the only sound basis to restore normal American activity.

"I believe that in the long run, hope for America depends upon underlying improvement in the world situation. For with an improved world situation, external buying power is improved. This external buying power is necessary for the United States in connection with internal inflation to adjust internal buying power."

FARMER UNION HINTS STRIKE

DES MOINES, Ia., Sept. 21.—(AP.)—A threat of a farm strike, coupled with a demand for the "immediate resignation" of Secretary of Agriculture Henry A. Wallace, was heard as members of the Iowa Farmers' Union met in annual convention.

The threat was voiced by the organization's state president, Glenn B. Miller, who told the convention in his address that unless currency inflation and other methods of farm relief are forthcoming soon, there would be a farm strike that would "overshadow anything ever seen in this country."

Petitions demanding Secretary Wallace's resignation were circulated, and Miller, both in his annual report and address as president, assailed the Secretary, as well as the state and federal administrations and the method of crop and livestock reduction now being used under the Agricultural Readjustment Act.

Weather Conditions.

The low pressure that traveled eastward along the Canadian border, was centered over Eastern Ontario yesterday morning, and is now centered over the state of Maine, is causing cloudiness over the lake region and from Eastern Ohio eastward to the coast, with light showers at many places. Another low is centered over western South Dakota this morning, and is causing cloudiness and a shower condition over the Rocky Mountain states. It is also causing a rise in temperature over the plains states. The ridge of high pressure, which overlies the Mississippi Valley, and which separates the eastern and western lows, is attended by clear skies from Western Ohio to the Rocky Mountain states, and is causing somewhat cooler weather than yesterday morning over practically the entire country east of the Mississippi River. High maximum temperatures yesterday were limited to the extreme South, and to shattered places in the far West.

WEST VA. HALTS MINE MARCH

The miners protested, but finally got into their cars and did a peaceful about-face.

Sheriff Hickman later said:

"These men coming down into our state to stir up strikes can not be United Mine Workers. Our own United Mine Workers are not troubled and do not wish to strike.

"There seems to be some insidious element coming down over the state line, and it is not welcome. We will resist any effort from Pennsylvania to reproduce the Frick situation down here . . . I mean resist it forcibly."

RESUMPTION BALKED

The mine holiday continued in Westmoreland and Allegheny counties today, despite union officials' suggestions that work be resumed under the coal code.

Some 8,000 miners picketed Westmoreland county roads yesterday and prevented resumption of work by 2,000 men who had voted to return.

When a crew with dinner pails and tools arrived at the Jamison No. 2 mine of the Jamison Coal and Coke Company, 1,500 pickets met them. The pickets' leaders addressed the men briefly and the would-be workers returned home.

Machado Considers Sojourn in Florida

MONTREAL, Sept. 21.—(AP.)—Gen. Gerardo Machado, former president of Cuba, will remain in Montreal for fully another month, it was learned today. Not until rigors of Canadian winter force his departure will he leave for a more southern climate, probably Florida.

The general declines to discuss Cuban affairs.

LABOR ACCUSED OF HAMPERING RECOVERY

Manufacturer Assails A. F. of L. Policies as 'Destructive'

WASHINGTON, Sept. 21.—(AP.)—The American Federation of Labor today was charged by an industrial leader with efforts to secure control of labor which "already" were having the effect of destroying the NRA program.

Robert L. Lund, president of the National Association of Manufacturers, made the assertion in reply to a statement by William Green, federation president, assailing some employers for forming company unions.

This employer-labor interchange accentuated anew the differences which have prevailed between capital and organized workers under the NRA. It coincided with a further demand from the boot and shoe industry for a merit clause permitting employers to handle labor on an efficiency rather than union affiliation basis.

Hugh S. Johnson, busy studying retail price control proposals, was silent on these latest labor developments, but President Roosevelt has rejected definitely any code interpretation of the recovery law's collective bargaining provision.

Lund's statement said labor conditions in plants objected to by Green "are the best in the country." He added:

"None of the labor difficulties which are so seriously obstructing the recovery program have arisen from such organizations. On the other hand, the efforts of the American Federation of Labor and the other organizations which co-operate with it, to secure control of labor, have proven the most serious obstacle to the attainment of the objectives of the recovery act.

"Perhaps the control of this situation does not lie entirely with Mr. Green and the leaders associated with him. They have started agitation which, perhaps, they will not be able to guide.

"This situation is fraught with great danger because there is reason to fear that these activities may, in a large degree, destroy the recovery program. In fact, they are already having this effect."

the motor and propeller shaft. It has been proposed to encase these in sheet metal, which may be opened with a key in the possession of the bureau when repairs or adjustments are necessary.

The breakdown of voting machines was blamed on use of "wholly untried and unfit machines" in a statement by the Allegheny County Voting Machine Committee today, through its chairman, State Senator Frank J. Harris.

The statement pointed out that the committee from the first had vainly tried to block purchase of the Poole machines and to obtain purchase of another make, used successfully in other states. The committee urges use of fit machines. The statement concludes:

"The experience of this committee plus that of the voters last Tuesday establishes the necessity for the use of voting machines in all elections and emphasizes the need of providing machines that have proved their practicability in actual tests.

"This committee is now considering what action is advisable to protect both the taxpayer and the sanctity of his franchise under all these circumstances".

SQUIRE DELAYS SUNDAY FILM WAR RULING

Wilkinsburg Pastors Attend Hearing But Do Not Testify

Acting Burgess John H. Rhodes' opposition to benefit Sunday night movies in Wilkinsburg was jolted today when Justice of the Peace George B. Shields reserved decision in case of five employes of the Rowland Theater, charged with violating the blue laws of 1794.

Nathan McDowell, to whom the proceeds of the performances were given, testified all the money was used for charity, and Shields said he was convinced that it was.

William Bateman, of 7730 Susquehanna street, testified he had witnessed last Sunday night's performance at the request of Police Chief James Harris.

A half dozen Wilkinsburg clergymen attended the hearing, but took no part. Richard Brown, manager of the theater, testified Sunday night performances have been held for the past five months.

The fight started in the closing days of Wilkinsburg's hectic primary which saw the nomination of the acting burgess on the Republican ticket over William P. Yocum, former commander of the veterans. Yocum, also a candidate in the Democratic primary, won the nomination by 400 votes. He was beaten by Rhodes by 120 votes.

The arrests of the theater employes was made last night by Police Chief James Harris. Those arrested were Brown, Assistant Manager Walter Woznack, L. J. Goehring, ticket taker, and L. W. Bauman and J. S. Kiser, operators.

McArdle was the first to send a congratulatory message to Mayor Herron. He said:

"Congratulations on your nomination."

William N. McNair, who won the Democratic nomination for mayor by 8 to 1 over John M. Henry, also received a note of congratulation from his opponent. It read:

"The primaries are over and the voters in the Democratic party have made their choice. I congratulate you upon your winning the nomination."

Three hundred and eighty-eight districts out of 408 gave:

McNair	20,381

McNair's Council slate was victorious. The Democratic nominees for this office are John M. Huston, Thomas J. Gallagher, John J. Kane, George E. Evans and Walter R. Demmler.

The vote on Republican Council with 401 districts out of 408 stood:

English	48,725
Duggan	46,746
Little	45,669
Magee	45,501
Oliver	43,618
Connelley	42,470
Malone	36,475

Judge Michael A. Musmanno, of County Court, scored the outstanding victory in the Republican race for Judge of Common Pleas Court. Musmanno led the ticket over Judges Harry H. Rowand and Ralph H. Smith, incumbents. He likewise won one of the three nominations on the Democratic ticket for the same office. Smith today had passed Rowand for second place.

Gus Sonnenberg Asks Separation From Actress

JUDITH ALLEN

Charges Cruelty To Judith Allen Of Scren

RENO, Nev., Sept. 21.—(AP.)—Gus Sonnenberg, former claimant to the world heavyweight wrestling title, filed suit here late yesterday for dissolution of his secret marriage to Marie Elliott Sonnenberg, known on the screen as Judith Allen.

Sonnenberg charged cruelty. The wrestler's attorney, A. P. Johnson, said trial of the case would be delayed until Mrs. Sonnenberg files a cross complaint.

He said Sonnenberg would not object to the granting of a decree to his wife. The two were married in New York, March 12, 1931.

U. S. WARSHIPS CLOSE IN ON HAVANA

Cuba Preparing to Withstand New Outbreak

BULLETIN.

HAVANA, Sept. 21.—(AP.)—The United States Destroyer No. 240, with her Marines and sailors drawn up in formation on the deck, and the American ammunition ship Nitro entered Havana harbor today as opposition troops pressed their demand that the government of Provisional President Grau San Martin resign.

HAVANA, Sept. 21.—(AP.)—Two American warships drew in close to the city today as the revolution-born regime set up 11 days ago made hurried but complete preparations to withstand a rumored revolt.

The vessels, which came here to protect American lives and interests, at once established heliographic communications, using lights atop the United States embassy and aboard the craft.

Cavalry reinforcements, a mobile arsenal on a truck, extra guards, and machine gun units were placed about the presidential palace as reports persisted that civilian anti-government forces and soldiers prepared to fight.

RADICALS ARMED

An army truck brought rifles and ammunition to headquarters of ABC radical society members, who thereupon went to police headquarters as reinforcements supporting President Ramon Grau San Martin.

In the face of these and other preparations, the executive declared that "everything is all right; I am staying right where I am."

Reliable sources predicted that a climax was fast approaching in the many troubles the President and his supporters have had.

Since he took the helm September 10, Grau San Martin has found an ever-stiffening line of opposition among five of Cuba's most powerful politico-revolutionary factions.

Revolt broke out in Camaguey province, where old Juan Blas Hernandez, who harried former President Machado for two years, led his well-armed veterans into the field. He was reported surrounded by government troops, but refused to treat for peace.

MANY PROBLEMS

Other storm clouds lowered today:

Defiant refusals from nearly all Cuban industrialists to let Secretary of the Treasury Manuel Despaigne levy taxes.

Threats of disease and famine over a large area, near desolation because of a hurricane September 1.

Strikes, labor unrest, violence, disorder and bloodshed.

Increasing lawlessness which police and soldiers were powerless to halt.

Food shortage in Havana and the provinces due to strikes, the closing of warehouses, destruction of crops and other causes.

A mob shortly before midnight tried to loot the home of Jose Emilio Obregon, Machado's son-in-law. Guards fired into the crowd, killing two and wounding several. Fifty-one were arrested.

Notwithstanding all this the President went on with routine business at the palace, hearing businessmen's pleas for a tax amnesty and attending various political conferences.

U. S. Warships Off Cuban Shores Reinforced

WASHINGTON, Sept. 21.—(AP.)—Naval vessels hovering off Cuba's shores today were reinforced at trouble zones for the greater protection of any Americans needing armed shelter.

The State Department emphasized there was no present intention of landing Marines or Blue Jackets in Cuba. Instead, Secretary Hull said nationals endangered by interior difficulties should move toward the warships.

But the Navy's sudden speeding four destroyers from the Guantanamo base in Cuba to various troubled spots were interpreted by observers as indicating a serious situation on the island. Some Americans were know to be moving within the gun range of their country's warships.

Consular advices meanwhile reported Communist demonstrations, mob violence and spreading strikes east of Havana. Hull disclosed also that in the interior some Americans were virtually prisoners.

The shifted navy cordon put two vessels off Antilla, two more off Santiago and an equal number near the Isle of Pines. Only two destroyers remained in Guantanamo Bay where eight were a few days ago.

The destroyer McFarland was sent to join the Overton at Antilla. The Bainbridge sped to Santiago to reinforce the Reuben James and replace the Taylor, which steamed to Manzanillo.

The destroyer Goff was ordered Fairfax. The Bernadou was en route to the Isle of Pines, where the Cole was anchored.

Boy Must Stand Trial For Killing of Chum

A sixteen year old Heidelberg youth today had been indicted for murder by the county grand jury—one of the youngest ever indicted in Allegheny county on this charge.

He is Bernard Walthones who was held responsible for the fatal shooting of Mike Thomas, Jr., 9, in Walthoner's home in Collier avenue, May 9. Walthoner at the time of his arrest told detectives Thomas had entered his home and had taken a shot gun from the wall. When he attempted to take it away from him, it was accidentally discharged.

Meta Miller, 4315½ Stanley street, has been indicted for the murder of Fred Miller, 61, shot in their home August 9.

Charles Norris, Negro, was indicted for the fatal stabbing of Earl Smith, 33, of 5 Townsend street, July 27.

GERMANS IN HOLLYWOOD FACE RECALL TO VATERLAND

NAZIS TO ORDER ACTORS HOME, THEY HEAR

Hitler Reprisals Loom For Disobedience, Berlin Reports

Universal Service.

A report from Berlin spread consternation in the ranks of film producers and among high-salaried German actors, actresses, directors and technicians here.

The amazing news, affecting Marlene Dietrich, Dorothea Wieck, Ernst Lubitsch and many other Hollywood celebrities who are German citizens, was this:

"Pure Aryan" German film stars will be ordered to return to Germany to participate in the "cultural rebirth" of the nation, inspired by Chancellor Adolph Hitler.

RETURN TO GERMANY!

The "return to Germany" order, according to word reaching here today, now is being discussed in the Film Reichsfachschaft, the controling motion picture organization in the Vaterland.

If the film organization's plans are allowed to mature—and Hitler is said to be favorable to them—those who fail to heed the stern command to return immediately will be disciplined and barred from German films.

They will, in effect, lay themselves open to Nazi reprisal.

It is planned to apply the order to all non-Jewish German stars, regardless of when they left the country; but the command will apply particularly in the cases of those who left Germany after Hitler and his Nazis came into power.

PENALTY OF REFUSAL

Artists who refuse to obey will be classed as "non-Aryans."

What was construed as a defi to the Reichsfachschaft was hurled by Miss Wieck, the beautiful heroine of "Maedchen in Uniform," whose brilliant performance in that German production won her a Hollywood contract. She said:

"Before I left Germany, I obligated myself to remain in Hollywood for a definite term of five years.

"That was a business contract, made between a buyer and a seller. That contract would have to be taken into account by any German governmental agency before it considered requesting my return."

Miss Dietrich sailed from Havre, France, yesterday on the first leg of her return to Hollywood from a sojourn abroad.

Studio officials regarded it as significant that Miss Dietrich, although she is a German citizen, did not visit Germany on her European trip this year. Instead, she passed most of her time in Paris.

HIGH TREASON, FIRE CHARGE

in the Hitler salute, to which the judges replied in like manner.

Decapitation has been recommended as the penalty upon conviction.

The defendants are Marinus van der Lubbe, 24-year-old brick mason and alleged Dutch Communist; Ernst Torgler, 42, former Communist party whip, and three Bulgarian political refugees, Georgi Dimitroff, Blagoi Popoff and Wassil Taneff.

Among the spectators were Frau Torgler and van der Lubbe's two step-brothers.

ONE HANDCUFFED

Van der Lubbe alone of the accused was handcuffed. He kept staring ahead, and later, when called on the stand, replied almost inaudibly and often incoherently.

Torgler appeared considerably thinner than in the days when he lead the Reichstag Communists. His face was emaciated, but his eyes were keen as he looked over the courtroom and observed other details of the proceedings.

Of the three Bulgarians, Popoff, a law student, made the most intelligent impression.

Before anybody was permitted to enter the court, he underwent an elaborate inspection of credentials and a double search for weapons and cameras.

The indictment, as read by Wilhelm Buenger, the presiding officer, accused the men of "attempt partly and conjointly in one and the same continued act to overthrow the German Constitution by firing the Reichstag with malice aforethought, as preliminary to starting an insurrecion.

While the choir chanted a processional the pageant moved down the aisle to the altar and halted.

KISS OF PEACE

Bishop Hayes walked to the side altar while Bishop Boyle and the co-consecrators occupied the main altar. As Bishop Boyle celebrated the mass, Bishop Hayes repeated the liturgy.

Then, at a sign from Bishop Boyle, he walked to the main altar, prostrated himself at the faldstoll, and remained while the choir chanted the litany.

When the last syllables of the litany had died away in the great Gothic vault, he ascended the altar and knelt before Bishop Boyle. The consecrator touched him with the book of Gospels and pronounced:

"Receive the Gospel and go preach to the people committed to thee. Peace be with thee and thy spirit, for God is powerful to increase His Grace in thee, He who liveth and reigneth, world without end."

Bishop Hayes responded:

"Amen."

Bishop Boyle and the co-consecrators laid their hands upon Bishop Hayes' head; he rose, and was embraced by his three fellow-bishops with the kiss of peace.

RECEIVES MITRE

Then the papal bulls appointing Bishop Hayes to his prelacy were read and he was invested with his crozier, ring and mitre.

The offertory—reminder of days when Bishops were feudal lords—was given to Bishop Hayes—two loaves of bread, two candles and two small casks of wine.

The new bishop donned his mitre, "helmet of protection and salvation" and as the organ boomed out the "Te Deum" he walked to the door of the cathedral.

There he blessed the multitude within and those who had waited outside through the long services. Held back by a line of police they stood outside the cathedral in the chill wind until the procession emerged.

Officers of the consecration mass included the Very Rev. Monsignor William J. McMullen, vicar general, assistant priest; the Right Rev. Monsignor John Gorzynski and the Very Rev. Monsignor Thomas J. Carroll, chancellor of the arch-diocese of New York, assistant deacons; the Rev. Thomas F. Coakley, deacon, and the Rev. Ralph L. Hayes, nephew of the bishop, sub-deacon.

After the ceremonies there was a banquet at the William Penn Hotel for the visiting priests and church dignitaries. The speakers were the Rev. J. B. Gilmore, chancellor of the Helena diocese, and Bishop Bernard Mahoney, of Sioux Falls, S. D. The Rev. Paul E. Campbell was toastmaster.

PUBLIC RECEPTION

There will be a public reception for the new bishop tonight in the South Hills High School auditorium, in the district where is situated Bishop Hayes' last pastorate, St. Catherine's Church of Beechview.

There will be music by the Duquesne University orchestra and speeches by the Revs. George T. Sullivan, Thomas R. Rea, James O'D. Hanlon, Bishop Hayes, Bishop Boyle and F. W. Reis, Jr. Harry T. Murphy, of St. Catherine's Church choir, will sing.

On October 5 Bishop Hayes will be installed in his Montana bishopric. In the next few days a delegation of Pittsburgh and Helena priests will accompany him there.

FARRELL HITS LOW TARIFFS

COLORADO SPRINGS, Col., Sept. 21.—(AP.)—James A. Farrell, former head of the United States Steel Corporation, declared today that recovery of the nation's export trade "does not call for a drastic lowering of our tariff."

In an address for delivery to the Inter-Mountain Economic Conference, he said the theory that exports could be stimulated by an increase in imports through a lowering of tariffs by a 10 per cent horizontal reduction, "is based apparently on the mistaken assumption that there is a direct connection between our tariff and the decline in imports in the last four years."

He said the history of America's import trade shows that the rise and fall of imports "does not correspond with tariff changes,

ROAD PATROL'S PERILS CITED

International News Service.

CARLISLE, Pa., Sept. 22.—Because state highway patrolmen cannot approach an automobile with drawn revolver they are at the mercy of drivers, Secretary of Revenue Leon D. Metzger, explained to Rotary Club members here yesterday.

Metzger said three patrolmen have been murdered during the 10 years the patrol has been in existence. He said:

P. O. RAMP BID LOWEST HERE

WASHINGTON, Sept. 21.—W. F. Trimble & Sons Company, general contractors, of 1719 Pennsylvania avenue, North Side, Pittsburgh, were the low bidders for the construction of the ramp for the new Pittsburgh postoffice building.

Their bid, announced by the supervising architect of the Treasury, is $510,000, and it was said they doubtless would be awarded the contract.

The contract will call for the completion of the work 180 calendar days from the date of notice to proceed. There were three other bidders.

In event the contract is awarded to the Trimble firm, the construction of the ramp will employ approximately 125 men from this district, William F. Trimble said today. Work will begin, he said, with the signing of the contract.

URSCHEL DEFIES DEATH THREAT BY KIDNAPERS

Witness Creates Stir By Seeking to Make Speech in Court

OKLAHOMA CITY, Sept. 21.—(AP.)—An electrifying defiance of gangdom by the Charles F. Urschel clan greeted George (Machine Gun) Kelly's death threats today as the government moved to close its case against a dozen others on trial for conspiring in the oil millionaire's kidnaping.

"We are in this fight to the finish."

So spoke a spokesman for the family as a letter from the fugitive Kelly, who has been called "a human rat" by Assistant Attorney General Joseph B. Keenan, was made public by Keenan and the Urschels.

STIR IN COURT

A stir was created at the opening of the trial today as Fred Coleman, son of T. M. Coleman, on whose Stratford (Okla.) farm the government contends the plot was hatched, tried ineffectually to make a speech.

Coleman walked into the room as court opened, pulling his 72-year-old father in behind him. He said, raising a hand as in school:

"Judge, may I speak for about five minutes?"

Coleman declared, as he was being taken from the room:

"It's the most important thing I could say in this world."

He had been called as a government witness but had not been placed on the stand.

W. C. Geers, United States marshal, talked to Coleman and later told newsmen he believed a threatening message had been sent him.

THREATEN SLAUGHTER

Kelly's letter of hate, bearing his fingerprints and apparently writen by his wife, Kathryn Cleo Kelly, also wanted for the kidnaping, warned that the Urschel family will be "brutally murdered" and informed Urschel that Harvey Bailey and Albert Bates, outlaws on trial, will be "out for the ceremonies—your slaughter."

At another point it said:

"I am getting my plans laid to destroy your so-called mansion and you and your family immediately after this trial."

To this the family replied:

"We have thrown our lot with law and the government. The Urschel family does not want one moment's delay in giving gangland its answer."

SHELVE KIDNAP CHARGES FOR 7

International News Service.

NEW YORK, Sept. 21.—Feeling certain of obtaining convictions for murder and robbery, authorities today temporarily shelved the kidnaping charges against five men and two women seized in raids yesterday in connection with the abduction of Lieut. John J. O'Connell, Jr., of Albany.

The kidnaping investigation was swept aside when various cities put in claims for the right to try members of the band on charges growing out of their long careers as outlaws.

Three of the men, including Leonard Scarnici, the leader, and Anthony Reino, alias Russo, were slated to face a murder charge in Rensselaer County for the death of a policeman during a bank robbery.

The state of Connecticut put in a claim for two of the gang in connection with a double murder during a gas station holdup at Woodbridge.

Mrs. Eleanor Scarnici and Mrs. Emma Reino, the two women caught in the O'Connell dragnet, face prosecution in Mt. Kisco, N. Y., for possession of an arsenal which included a machine- gun, a shotgun and a Luger revolver, as well as a large quantity of ammunition.

Guard Daughter Of Gov. Landon

TOPEKA, Kan., Sept. 21.—(AP.)—A kidnap plot in which his 16-year-old daughter, Peggy Ann, was to have been held a prisoner until he granted executive clemency to members of the notorious Harvey-Wilbur Underhill gang now confined in the Kansas Penitentiary was made public today by Gov. Alf M. Landon.

While denying receipt of any "actual threat," the Governor said "so much confirmatory evidence" had been disclosed by investigators that guards have been maintained at the Executive Mansion.

Germany Forms Fleet for Whaling

HAMBURG. — (INS.) — A scheme for forming a German whaling fleet is now being promoted by a combination of Hamburg interests, according to Consul John H. Bruins. At present, it is pointed out, Germany has no such fleet and imports considerable amounts of whale oil used in the margarine industry. Hitherto, there has been opposition to a whaling fleet from farming interests based on the fear of sharper competition in the German fat market.

HOURS, WAGES REGULATED IN CODE FOR RETAILERS

TRADE PRACTICE RULES GIVEN IN TEXT

WASHINGTON, Sept. 21.—(AP.)—Among the major provisions of the general retail code now before Hugh S. Johnson, the NRA administrator, for decision are the following:

CHILD LABOR

On and after the effective date of this code, no person under the age of sixteen (16) years shall be employed by any retailer, except that persons fourteen (14) and fifteen (15) years of age may be employed either

(A) For a period not to exceed three (3) hours per day on six (6) days per week; or

(B) For one day per week, such day not to exceed eight (8) hours. In either case, all such hours of work shall be between 7 a. m. and 7 p. m., and shall not conflict with the employe's hours of day school.

It is further provided, that where a state law prescribes a higher minimum age no person below the age specified by such state law shall be employed within such state.

STORE HOURS AND HOURS OF LABOR

Section 1—Basic store and working hours.

On and after the effective date of this code, establishments in the retail trade shall elect to operate upon one of the following schedules of store hours and hours of labor:

Group A—Any establishment may elect to remain open for business less than fifty-six (56) hours but not less than fifty-two (52) hours per week, unless its store hours were less than fifty-two (52) hours prior to June 1, 1933, in which case such establishment shall not reduce its store hours; no employe of these establishments shall work more than forty (40) hours per week, nor more than eight (8) hours per day, nor more than six (6) days per week.

Group B—Any establishment may elect to remain open for business fifty-six (56) hours or more per week but less than sixty-three (63) hours per week; no employe of such establishment shall work more than forty-four (44) hours per week, nor more than nine (9) hours per day, nor more than six (6) days per week.

Group C—Any establishment may elect to remain open for business sixty-three (63) hours or more per week; no employe of such establishment shall work more than forty-eight (48) hours per week, nor more than ten (10) hours per day, nor more than six (6) days per week.

No employe shall work for two or more establishments a greater number of hours, in the aggregate, than he would be permitted to work for that one of such establishments which operates upon the lowest schedule of working hours.

No employes not included in the foregoing paragraphs, and not specifically excepted hereinafter, shall work more than forty (40) hours per week, nor more than eight (8) hours per day, nor more than six (6) days per week.

Section 2—Schedule of hours to be posted.

On or within one week after the effective date of this code every retail establishment shall designate under which of the groups set forth in the preceding section it elects to operate and shall post and maintain in a conspicuous place in the store a copy of such election showing its store hours and employe working hours.

Section 3—Changes in store hours and employe working hours.

No establishment may change from the group in which it has elected to operate except upon December 31 of every year.

Any establishment, however, may at any time increase its store hours, provided it maintains the basic work week of the group in which it originally elected to operate.

Any establishment may, for a period not to exceed three (3) months during the summer, temporarily reduce its store hours, but the weekly wages of its employes shall not on that account be reduced.

Section 4—Exceptions to maximum hours of labor.

(A) Professional persons, outside salesmen, outside collectors, watchmen and store detectives. The maximum hours of labor prescribed in Section 1 of this article shall not apply to professional persons employed and working at their profession, or to outside salesmen, outside collectors, watchmen and store detectives.

(B) Maintenance and outside service employes. Maintenance and outside service employes may work four (4) hours per week in addition to the maximum hours prescribed in Section 1 of this article, or more, provided they are paid at the rate of time and one-third for all hours over such additional four (4) hours per week.

(C) Executives. Subject to the conditions set forth in section 4 of this article, executives receiving $35.00 or more per week in cities of over 500,000 population, or receiving $30.00 or more per week in cities of 100,000 to 500,000 population, or receiving $27.50 or more per week in cities of 25,000 to 100,000 population, or receiving $25.00 or more per week in cities, towns, villages and other places under 25,000 population, may work in excess of the maximum hours prescribed in section 1 of this article.

(D) Peak periods. At Christmas, inventory and other peak times, for a period not to exceed two (2) weeks in the first six (6) months of the calendar year and not to exceed three (3) weeks in the second six (6) months, an employe whose basic work week is forty (40) hours may work not more than forty-eight (48) hours per week and nine (9) hours per day; an employee whose basic work week is forty-four (44) hours may work not more than fifty-two (52) hours per week and nine and one-half (9½) hours per day; an employee whose basic work week is forty-eight (48) hours may work not more than fifty-six (56) hours per week and ten (10) hours per day. All such work may be without the payment of overtime.

Section 5 — Limitation upon number of persons working unrestricted hours.

Notwithstanding any provisions of the foregoing sections of this article, no establishment comprised of twenty (20) workers or less, whether or not such workers are executives, proprietors, partners, or persons not receiving monetary wages, shall be permitted to exempt from all restrictions upon hours of labor more than one worker (except professional persons, outside salesmen, collectors, watchmen and store detectives) for every five (5) workers or fraction thereof. No establishment of more than twenty (20) workers shall be permitted to exempt from all restrictions upon hours of labor more than one worker (except as above), for every five (5) workers for the first twenty (20) workers, and more than one worker (except as above) for every ten (10) workers above twenty (20).

Section 6—Hours of work to be consecutive.

The hours worked by any employe during each day shall be consecutive, provided that an interval not longer than one hour may be allowed for each regular meal period, and such interval not counted as part of the employe's working time. Any rest period which may be given employes shall not be deducted from such employe's working time.

Section 7—Extra working hour on one day a week.

On one day each week employes may work one extra hour, but such hour is to be included within the maximum hours permitted each week.

Section 8—Conflict with state laws.

When any state law prescribes for any class of employes shorter hours of labor than those prescribed in this article, no employe included within such class shall be employed within such state for a greater number of hours than such state law allows.

WAGES

Section 1—Basic schedules of wages.

On and after the effective date of this code, the minimum weekly rate of wages which shall be paid for a work-week as specified in article V shall be as follows:

(A)—Within cities of over 500,000 population, no employe shall be paid less than at the rate of $14 per week for a forty (40) hour work-week, or less than at the rate of $14.50 per week for a forty-four (44) hour work-week, or less than at the rate of $15 per week for a forty-eight (48) hour work-week.

(B)—Within cities of from 100,000 to 500,000 population, no employe shall be paid less than at the rate of $13 per week for a forty (40) hour work-week, or less than at the rate of $13.50 per week for a forty-four (44) hour work-week, or less than at the rate of $14 per week for a forty-eight (48) hour work-week.

(C) Within cities of from 25,000 to 100,000 population, no employe shall be paid less than at the rate of $12.00 per week for a forty (40) hour work week, or less than at the rate of $12.50 per week for a forty-four (44) hour work week, or less than at the rate of $13.00 per week for a forty-eight (48) hour work week.

(D) Within cities, towns, villages from 2,500 to 25,000 population, the wages of all classes of employes shall be increased from the rates existing on June 1, 1933, by not less than twenty (20) per cent, provided that this shall not require an increase in wages to more than the rate of $11.00 per week and provided further that no employe shall be paid less than at the rate of $10.00 per week.

(E) Within towns, villages and other places with less than 2,500 population, the wages of all classes of employes shall be increased from the rates existing on June 1, 1933, by not less than twenty (20) per cent, provided that this shall not require an increase in wages to more than the rate of $10.00 per week.

The minimum wages of professional persons, outside salesmen, outside collectors, watchmen and store detectives shall be upon the basis of a forty-eight (48) hour employe work week. The minimum wages of maintenance and outside service employes shall be upon the basis of the basic employe work week upon which the establishment by which they are employed has elected to operate.

Section 2—Juniors and apprentices.

Junior employes may be paid for the first six (6) months of their employment at the rate of $2.00 less per week than the minimum wage otherwise applicable; apprentice employes may be paid at the rate of $1.00 less than the minimum wage otherwise applicable; it is provided, however, that the number of employes classified as junior and apprentice employes combined, shall not exceed a ratio of one such employe to every five employes or fraction thereof up to twenty (20), and more than one such employe for every ten (10) employes above twenty (20).

Section 3—Part-time employes.

Part-time employes shall be paid not less than at an hourly rate proportionate to the rate specified in Section 1 of this article for the basic employe work week upon which the establishment by which they are employed has elected to operate.

Section 4—Southern wage differential.

In the South all minimum wages specified in the foregoing sections may be at the rate of $1.00 less per week.

Section 5—Weekly wages above minimum not to be reduced.

The weekly wages of all employes receiving more than the minimum wages specified in this article shall not be reduced, notwithstanding any reduction in the number of working hours of such employes.

Section 6—Conflict with state law.

When any state law prescribes for any class of employes of either sex a higher minimum wage than that prescribed in this article, no employe of such class of either sex employed within that state shall be paid less than such state law requires.

LIMITATIONS TO PRICE INCREASES AND PRIOR CONTRACTS

Section 1—Limitation upon price increases.

No retailer shall increase the price of any merchandise sold after the effective date of this code over the price existing June 1, 1933, by more than is made necessary for the amount of increases in production, operating, replacement, and/or invoice costs of merchandise, and/or by taxes or other costs resulting from action taken pursuant to the National Industrial Recovery Act and/or the agricultural adjustment act since June 1, 1933, and in setting such price increases retailers shall give full weight to probable increases in sales volume. It is provided, however, that if any price on June 1, 1933, was a distress price, an equitable adjustment may be made.

Section 2—Adjustment of prior contracts.

Where costs of executing contracts entered into before June 16, 1933, by any retailer for the purchase of goods at fixed prices for delivery during the duration of this code are increased by the application of the provisions of the National Industrial Recovery Act and/or the agricultural adjustment act, it is deemed equitable and promotive of the purposes of the act, that appropriate adjustments of such contracts to reflect such increased costs actually incurred be arrived at by mutual agreement or arbitral proceedings or otherwise, and the National Retail Trade Council provided for in Article X hereinafter is constituted an agency to assist in effecting such adjustments.

STOP-LOSS PROVISION

Section 1—Stop-less provision.

In order to check predatory price cutting and manimize retail operating losses resulting therefrom, and in order to assure that the retailer shall be at least partially compensated for the service he renders the consumer, on an after the effective date of this code no retailer shall offer for sale, sell, exchange, or give away any merchandize, except as provided in section 2 of this article and in Schedule A hereafter, below a minimum price which shall be the wholesale delivered price as hereinafter defined with the addition of a charge of ten (10) per cent.

"Wholesale delivered prices" as used herein means the lowest gross billing price, as of any date within thirty (30) days prior to the date of resale, made to any retailer in the given market area less only such discounts as are extended to all retailers and plus delivery costs paid by the retailer.

Section 2—Exceptions.

Notwithstanding the provisions of the preceding section, any retailer may sell at less than the prices specified above, merchandise sold at a bona fide clearance, if advertised, marked and sold as such; highly perishable merchandise, which must be promptly sold in order to forestall loss; imperfect, or actually damaged merchandise clearly advertised, marked and sold as such; bona fide discontinued lines of merchandise clearly advertised, marked and sold as such; merchandise sold upon the complete, final liquidation of any business; merchandise sold in quantity on contract, not for resale and not for redistribution to individuals; and merchandise sold or donated for charitable purposes or unemployment relief agencies.

TRADE PRACTICES

All retailers shall comply with the following trade practices:

Section 1—Advertising and selling methods:

(A) No retailer shall use advertising, whether printed, radio or display or of any other nature, which is inaccurate in any material particular or misrepresents merchandise (including its use, trade-mark, grade, quality, quantity, size, origin, material, content, preparation or curative or therapeutic effect) or credit terms, values, policies or services; and no retailer shall use advertising and/or selling methods which tend to deceive or mislead the customer.

(B) No retailer shall use advertising which refers inaccurately in any material particular to any competitor or his merchandise, prices, values, credit terms, policies or services.

(C) No retailer shall use advertising which lays claim to a policy or continuing practice of generally underselling competitors.

(D) No retailer shall secretly give anything of value to the employe or agent of a customer for the purpose of influencing a sale, or in furtherance of a sale render a bill or statement of account to the employe, agent or customer which is inaccurate in any material particular.

Section 2—NRA label.

No retailer shall purchase, sell or exchange any merchandise manufactured under a code of fair competition which requires such merchandise to bear an NRA label, unless said merchandise bears such label. Any retailer rightfully possessing the blue eagle insignia of the NRA who has in stock or purchases similar merchandise which has been manufactured before the effective date of the code of fair competition requiring such merchandise to bear an NRA label may attach thereto a blue eagle label.

Section 3—Company scrip.

No retailer shall accept as payment for merchandise any non-negotiable scrip, company checks or other evidence of wage payment issued by any individual or private, non-charitable organization in payment of wages or as an advance upon unearned wages. A negotiable instrument issued by any individual or private, non-charitable organization in payment of wages shall be accepted only if it is payable in cash within one month of the date of issue. This paragraph shall not apply in cases where the cash funds of any individual or organization are rendered temporarily unavailable due to the closing by state or federal order of the bank in which such funds are deposited.

No retailer shall extend credit in the form of goods, money or services to any person, other than its own employes engaged exclusively in the retail trade, upon any employer's guaranty of part or all of said person's future wages or pursuant to a wage deduction arrangement entered into with said employer, unless an identical guaranty or wage deduction arrangement is available to all retailers.

Section 4—Prison-made goods:

On and after the effective date of this code no retailer shall buy or contract to buy any merchandise produced in whole or in part in any penal or reformatory institution or by the inmates thereof. After May 31, 1934, no retailer shall sell or offer for sale such merchandise. Nothing in this section, however, shall affect contracts made with respect to such merchandise before the approval of this code by the President of the United States.

tion may be delayed for several days.

Economists of the Consumers' Advisory Board, who oppose the stop-loss price provisions of the retail code as submitted to Johnson by Deputy Administrator A. D. Whiteside, were seeking a definition of "ruinous price-cutting."

Their goal was to prevent destructive competition without resorting to anything which could be labeled as price-fixing, believing that price-fixing would be injurious to businessmen and consumers alike.

The NRA continued to enroll industries under the Blue Eagle through the President's temporary re-employment agreement. Modifications of the agreement for bakers and confectioners' supply, linen supply and roller and silent chain manufacturing were announced.

CHILD LABOR SETBACK SEEN

WASHINGTON, Sept. 21.—(AP.)—Fear was expressed today to the NRA that employers in the commercial printing industry are about to nullify President's Roosevelt's recently expressed gratification at the outlawing of child labor.

This statement was made by Miss Lucy R. Mason as the NRA neared the end of hearings on more than 20 codes submitted to cover many branches of the commercial printing industry.

Directing her attack at the agreement presented by the National Editorial Association for the graphic arts industries, including non-metropolitan newspapers and periodicals, Miss Mason, representing the National Consumers League, said:

"Under no circumstances should a clause permitting boys and girls under 16, without limitations as to age, hours of work or night work, be allowed."

DIVORCE ASKED FROM 'LIFER'

Kathryn Boggs, 1335 Wall avenue, Pitcairn, whose husband, Paul E. Boggs, was sentenced to the Western Penitentiary for life, has asked Judge James H. Gray for a divorce.

According to the record introduced, Boggs killed Francis J. McGreevey, February 27, 1931, in Westmoreland County, and was tried at Greensburg. Mrs. Boggs offered no evidence other than the record of her husband's conviction.

KAISER FEARED BRITISH QUEEN, SAYS MARGOT

LONDON, Sept. 21.—(AP.)—The former German Kaiser's alleged fear that the late Queen Alexandra of England intended to poison him is one of the many stories related by the Countess of Oxford and Asquith, better known as Margot Asquith, in a book of reminiscences published today.

Following the visit of King Edward and Queen Alexandra to Berlin in 1909, Mrs. Asquith, as the author was then known, asked the queen what she had discussed with the Kaiser during meals. She replied:

"The Kaiser ate so little that one day I said to him: 'You work and worry—why don't you eat? Eating is good for the brains.'

"Looking affronted the Kaiser said, 'You find me stupid?'"

Then the Queen described how she made a little twist with her fingers in front of the Kaiser's face saying:

"Well what about all this kidoodle over your navy?"

KAISER 'STUPID'

The Kaiser, the Queen added, appeared to take this in good part.

But the poisoning fear comes in here, where according to the reminiscences, Queen Alexandra maintained she gave the Kaiser a box of meat lozenges to stimulate his appetite. They were inspected by the Kaiser and a doctor. The Queen exclaimed to Mrs. Asquith:

"Stupid man. He thought I wanted to poison him."

The writer recalls another conversation with Queen Alexandra concerning King Edward's terrier Caesar, which followed his hearse at the King's funeral. The Queen said:

"Horrid little dog. He never went near my poor husband when he was ill."

DISCUSSES LEADERS

The countess passes some judgments on present-day leaders: "Baldwin's subtle mind and sterling character are the greatest asset the Conservatives posses today," in reference to Stanley Baldwin, the Conservative party leader.

And, "When I first knew David Lloyd George I thought him the most nimble-minded, spontaneous and fascinating man I had ever met, and now that political and other circumstances have estranged us I have not changed my opinion."

"Churchill," she writes of Winston Churchill, "has a touch of genius. He is unchangeable, irreplaceable and lovable."

Of herself, the countess merely says:

"I have always been an artist and a woman of moods. My sort of looks are of the kind which in other people bore me."

LAMSON JUROR UNDER PROBE

Universal Service.

SAN JOSE, Cal., Sept. 21.—Delving into every angle that may help to secure a new trial for David A. Lamson, former Stanford University press executive, now awaiting a hanging sentence for the murder of his beautiful wife, Allene, defense attorneys today had said they have uncovered evidence that one member of the jury which convicted Lamson is a deputy sheriff.

The juror is R. E. Graham, orchardist. Edwin M. Rea, chief of defense counsel for Lamson, said that an examination of the records of Sheriff William J. Emig showed that Graham is registered there as an unpaid deputy.

Rea added that when each juror was examined he was asked if he knew Sheriff Emig or any of his deputies or had any connection with this office, and all had replied in the negative, including Graham. This point, with many others, will be used as a basis for a new trial when Lamson appears for sentence tomorrow before Superior Judge Robert R. Syer, said Rea.

The defense forces, including Rea and Maurice J. Rankin, said they will cite other instances of misconduct on the part of the jury.

Did Washing, Cooking, Says Husband in Suit

His wife called him names and threw a fork at him, Joseph E. Renner, of Ingram, testified yesterday, asking Judge James H. Gray for a divorce from Marie Renner, Mt. Oliver street, Mt. Oliver.

Judge Gray asked how he treated his wife, and Renner said:

"Well, I have done washing and scrubbing and cooked my own meals. I did the best I knew how by her."

Mrs. Renner, a witness testified, swore at her husband and pitched his clothes out.

Geraldine F. Hartman, attractive brunette, with dark flashing eyes, asked a divorce from Arthur A. Hartman, testifying he would not take her out evenings, but went alone.

Mrs. Hartman, who lives at 325 North Beatty street, said her husband once dragged her out of their car and when he went out, would stay out until 5 or 6 o'clock in the morning. She said he frequently struck her.

She charged cruel and barberous treatment.

Epidemic Afflicts 25,000 Peruvians

LIMA, Peru, Sept. 21.—(AP.)—A telegram received yesterday from Cuzco, a Peruvian seaport, reported 25,000 persons in two inland valleys afflicted with a marsh disease akin to malaria which authorities said would develop into malaria if government assistance is not sent.

The dispatch added that 5,000 persons had died of malaria in these localities since the first of the year.

Tardy Taxpayers May Lose Police

HUNTINGTON WOODS, Mich., Sept. 21.—(AP.)—With only $1,845.25 in the treasury to last until next July 1 and a 72 per cent tax delinquency, the City Commission has given delinquent taxpayers their choice of paying up by October 1 or doing without police and fire protection thereafter.

As the tax list stands now, 127 homes would be placed upon the police and fire departments' black list with the passing of the deadline.

Freshly Dressed and Guaranteed CHICKENS, lb. 19c

It isn't often that freshly dressed, stewing chickens sell for as little as nineteen cents a pound. Why a round steak costs more than that! So by all means plan to serve a chicken dinner this Sunday. These plump meaty stewing hens promise some good fricassees, chicken pies, noodle soup or whatever your favorite chicken dish may be.

U. S. BUILDING PROGRAM SLOW

International News Service.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 21.—Out of 942 public building projects recommended to the Administrator of Public Works by the Treasury Department only 62 have been approved, it was learned today.

The projects recommended would entail an expenditure of $170,000,000 and those approved $23,000,000. The 62 buildings have been referred back to the Treasury and bids are now being taken.

It was expected that the process of approving the projects, which are scattered through every state, would be expedited and that within a comparatively short time sites will be selected and contracts let.

$80,000,000 SPENT

So far, the public building expenditure this year has amounted to about $80,000,000. The Treasury has expended $23,457,000 and the emergency Administrator of Public Works $56,858,000.

The slow progress in bringing about unemployment relief through public building operations has been due to the apparently necessary red tape surrounding the obtaining of sites, taking bids and eventual letting of contracts.

After the approval of the projects they are submitted to the Treasury for advertisement for bids and the letting of contracts.

Machinery has been set up for prompt action on the building projects submitted from the Emergency Relief Administrator.

6-MONTH WAIT

Normally it requires about six months after the approval of a project before it is possible to let a contract. Acquisition of the site and of title require several weeks. The type of building is then determined, followed by the advertisement for bids. Letting of the contract usually is possible within 10 days of the receipt of bids.

Under emergency legislation the Administrator of Public Works may authorize building construction without further congressional authority. So far the only projects recommended by the Treasury have been those authorized by Congress in the original building program.

Five Generations Celebrate Two Birthdays

RICHMOND, Cal., Sept. 21.—(AP.)—Five generations of the Linnell family assembled today to celebrate two birthdays.

Mrs. Abigail Dona Linnell is 101. Beverly Jean Whittlesey, great-great-granddaughter, is 1 month. Between them lie three generations and a round century. Mrs. Linnell's recipe for a long life is:

"Never get angry. Don't quarrel. Eat three meals a day, and have regular habits."

When Mrs. Linnell was born, in Sparta, Canada, Andrew Jackson was President of the United States.

BALCHEN, FLIER, UNDER KNIFE

CAPE TOWN, Union of South Africa, Sept. 21.—(AP.)—Bernt Balchen, the American flier yesterday underwent an appendicitis operation described as completely successful.

The mystery of his whereabouts which caused Sir Hubert Wilkins and his shipmates on the Wyatt Earp some hours of inquiry was cleared up by a statement that when he left the ship he met a friend during dinner at a hotel.

It was explained he spent the evening in his friend's company and returned shortly before midnight, going to bed quite ignorant of the excitement created by his "disappearance."

Yesterday he telephoned Sir Hubert and his associates, who are en route to the Bay of Whales with the Lincoln Ellsworth expedition. At noon he showed up at the Volks Hospital.

Balchen, who was Rear Admiral Richard E. Byrd's chief pilot on his last South Pole expedition, is 35 years old. He and his wife, the former Emy Soerlie, of Oslo, Norway, became American citizens a year after their marriage in 1930. Mrs. Balchen is in Oslo.

POLE BALLOON RACE WINNER

WASHINGTON, Sep. 21.—(AP.)—On the basis of official calibration of barographs and checking of landing certificates, the Polish entry was today declared by the National Aeronautical Association to be winner of the 1933 international balloon race for the James Gordon Bennett trophy.

Second place was given to the United States Navy balloon piloted by Lieut. Com. T. G. W. Settle; third by the Goodyear IX piloted by Ward T. Van Orman.

All of these results confirmed the unofficial standing indicated by landing positions.

ATTERBURY PAY CUT ON DEMAND OF EASTMAN

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 21.—(AP.)—A salary reduction of $49,000 a year for W. W. Atterbury, president of the Pennsylvania Railroad, has been announced.

Atterbury's salary was reduced at his own request from $109,000 a year to $60,000. The cut is the second he has taken this year.

The railroad executive announced the reduction in a letter to Joseph B. Eastman, federal coordinator of railroads. The letter was accompanied by a copy of a resolution adopted by the board of directors September 13, fixing the salary at the lower figure as of September 1.

'HOLDOUT' ENDED

NEW YORK, Sept. 21.—(INS.)—Capitulating to the request of National Co-ordinator of Railroads Joseph B. Eastman that executive salaries be limited to a maximum of $60,000 a year, the Pennsylvania Railroad has reduced the pay of its president, W. W. Atterbury, from $109,000 to $60,000.

Eastman was notified of the reduction in a letter from Gen. Atterbury.

All the other railroads several weeks ago notified Eastman of their agreement to trim their top salaries to the level he fixed as the maximum. The Pennsylvania had been viewed as a "holdout."

The board of directors of the Pennsy was understood to have viewed Eastman's demands as an infringement of their management rights.

LINDY INSPECTS FINN AIRPORTS

International News Service.

HELSINGFORS, Sept. 21.—Col. and Mrs. Charles A. Lindbergh planned to inspect a proposed airport outside this city today following their arrival in Finland after a flight from Karlskrona, Sweden, en-route to Leningrad U. S. S. R.

They probably will remain in Finland until tomorrow before continuing toward Russia.

They spent the night at a hotel where they were carefully guarded from disturbers by the entire personnel.

Mrs. Lindbergh was recovering from a slight cold which she contracted yesterday and which was believed responsible for the decision to stop in Finland before proceeding on to Russia.

3RD CANDIDATE THREAT FACES TAMMANY

NEW YORK, Sept. 21.—(AP.)—Talk of a third candidate to run under independent Democratic auspices agaist Tammany and fusion mayoralty candidates in the November election, arose today as a sequel to Tuesday's stirring Democratic primary upsets here.

John F. Curry, Tammany leader, had little to reconcile him in the primary results that saw Frank J. Prial break the Wigwam lines in the comptroller's race, that ousted three Tammany district leaders, and gave a decisive though unimpressive vote for Mayor John P. O'Brien.

The name which ran through Democratic ranks in New York's boroughs today, however, was that of Joseph V. McKee, whose short term as acting Mayor between the Walker and O'Brien regimes aroused such keen interest.

In many quarters, particular significance was attached to a meeting yesterday of Postmaster General James A. Farley and Edward J. Flynn, Bronx Democratic leader and New York's Secretary of State. McKee's name was linked with the meeting.

What was regarded as open revolt in the rock-ribbed organization forces of Tammany Hall occurred when 18 of the 23 Brooklyn district leaders called on John McCooey, Brooklyn leader, and demanded another candidate than O'Brien. Their plea was a candidate with better chances of victory than the Mayor's.

Armed Trio Robs Service Station Aide

VARE POLITICAL LIFE AT STAKE

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 21.—(AP.)—With his political future apparently in peril, William S. Vare, national committeeman and leader of the strong Philadelphia Republican organization, has abandoned a trip to Florida to personally direct a counter-attack against a menacing combination of Democrats and Independents.

Observers generally agree that upon Vare's success in turning back the opposition, developed since the election of President Roosevelt, rests the immediate political future of Pennsylvania.

They say that a smashing victory in the November elections would put him in a position to "dictate" the slating of the next Governor, and perhaps a new United States Senator. But defeat or even a close contest likely would preclude this.

At Tuesday's primary election leading opposition candidates polled a larger combined vote than that given the national committeeman's candidates for the same offices.

Wears Lovely Dresses Now Since Losing 49 Pounds of Fat

Get That Youthful Feeling of Spirited Activity—That Glorious Kruschen Feeling

A roly-poly, overweight woman can't possibly wear the new flattering styles—besides the best bargains and most charming dresses come in the smaller sizes.

So get busy, girls, with Kruschen Salts—get rid of double chins, chunky legs and ugly bulging rolls of fat above the corset line—without starving and without loss of strength or pep.

As a matter of fact when you faithfully take your "little daily dose" of Kruschen first thing every morning in a glass of hot or cold water—you gain in energy and vitality—you increase physical charm (skin clears, eyes grow bright) all while you're achieving your goal—a youthful, slender figure.

Mrs. Di Salvo of Woodhaven, L. I., writes: "Only a few months ago I weighed 187 and never could get a nice dress to fit. Now from a 44 dress to a size 20—weight, 138. Many thanks to Kruschen. I've recommended it to all my friends."

A jar of Kruschen that lasts 4 weeks costs but a trifle at any drug store the world over. Money back if not joyfully satisfied with results. But for your health's sake—make sure you get Kruschen—it's the SAFE way to reduce—prescribed by physicians.

DENIES DEATH CONFESSION

International News Service.

ERIE, Pa., Sept. 21.—Thomas E. Smith, held on charges of murder in the double fatal beating of Alfred and Johanna Biegert, aged recluse brother and sister, today charged he was forced to confess the killings and repudiated his written statement.

State police also are holding Smith in connection with an alledged plot to kill George Luther, 48, of Girard in order to consummate a reputed love affair between Mrs. Luther and Len Sloan, half-breed Indian. The women and Sloan also are being held.

In denying the confession to the Biegert killings and to his purported part in the scheduled slaying of Luther, which police said was set for next Saturady, Smith admitted no physical violence was used in "forcing" him to confess.

2 Men Look Ahead 3 Years

No. 1 has an old automatic water heater
No. 2 has a plugged hot water boiler

If you are one of the two, you simply can't avoid buying a new water heater very, very soon . . . at the most, within two or three years.

The RUUD Automatic Water Heater thus becomes the wisest of investments . . . NOW. Prices are at pre-war levels, but must soon move upward to keep in step with sharply advanced manufacturing costs.

The difference between the price NOW and the price THEN will be substantial and much larger than the small sum you will save by keeping your present water heater in use until it fails completely.

This is COMMON-SENSE and reason enough to warrant a special visit to the RUUD store to see the new improved models and to hear about our liberal allowance policy and monthly payment plan. If you can't come, let us know via coupon or phone and a factory-trained man will come to you.

FREEZE . . . . . BURN FREEZE . . . . . BURN

In the boiler-supplied home, hot water is either a feast or a famine with temperatures that jump up and down like the stock market on a busy day. The too-hot, too-cold stream is rusty and the gas waste is something you should think about.

Trade this daily nuisance for RUUD Hot Water . . . instant . . . inexhaustible . . . no rust . . . pure . . . fresh . . . never-failing . . . one-temperatured . . . and with a cost that you control because you pay only for the hot water you actually use.

GERMAN SAVANT ARRIVES FOR TECH JOB

Kindly Ernst Berl, of Darmstadt, Germany, was at Carnegie Tech today establishing himself in his new post as professor of chemistry.

No sign of regret and no sign of somesickness cropped out as he settled down in a strange city of a strange land which will probably be his home until death.

Hitler's rise to power in Germany threatened his scientific freedom. An offer of Carnegie Tech's brought him to hospitable Pittsburgh.

FAMED CHEMIST

Dr. Berl, famed for his chemical work on rayon, poison gases and munitions, cellulose products, ether, starches, coal by-products, water purification, liquification of fuels — both gases and solids, cracking of oils and asphalt, anti-knock compounds, received newspapermen.

Political questions? Hitler? With a shake of his head and a sly glance at his youngest son, Arthur—blond and Teutonic—Dr. Berl refused the questions. But he did say:

"In biochemistry we are discovering much about life.

"We have already found chemical matter the equivalent of the hormones—most vital elements in human life. We can, for instance, develope a cancer chemically. That may lead to cure.

"The sex hormones are found in coal tar. In the future, chemistry may supply them when they are deficient in persons, or take them away when they are over-abundant.

LIKES AMERICA

"I like this country.

"I am convinced the next war will be more horrible than the last war. Chemistry will be extremely important, in attack and defense.

"One of the most important chemical developments is to change a solid—coal—into a liquid fuel. You can store it easily in less space. You can do the same with gasses. That is important to Europe.

"To America and to Pittsburgh, the by-products of coal—artificial silk, ammonia products, the hydro-carbons — are most important."

—Spend a Dollar and Make a Job—

ICKES REFUSES COAL 'CZAR' JOB

WASHINGTON, Sept. 21.—(AP.)—Secretary Ickes, already charged with supervising the public works program and the oil industry, has declined an informal invitation from President Roosevelt to become administrator of the bituminous coal code.

Meanwhile NRA officials continued today with the task of settling the basic minimum rates for the Alabama and Western Kentucky coal regions—the only basic rates not yet included in the bituminous code.

Other groups of operators, all signatories to the code, also were engaged today in negotiations with officials of the United Mine Workers on tonnage rates and on other details of the application of the basic rates to the various mines.

—Spend in September—

Indian Creek Strike Ties Fayette Mines

CONNELLSVILLE, Pa., Sept. 21.—Closing of operations at three mines in the Indian Creek Valley completely paralyzed Fayette County's bituminous coal business as upward of 300 miners walked out.

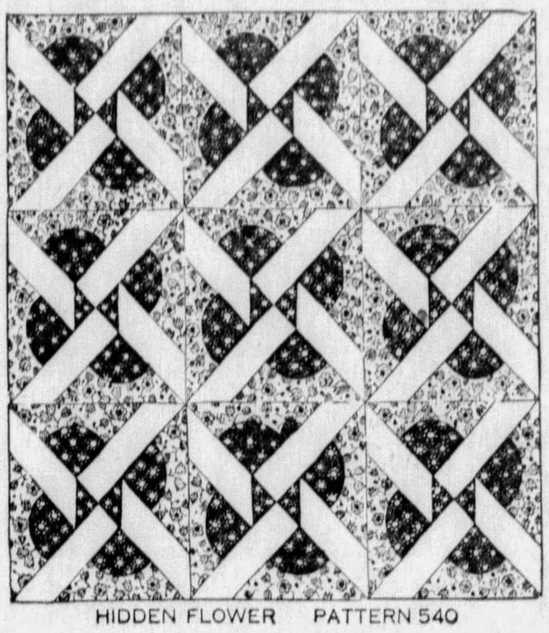
The miners demand recognition of the union and the check-off. Checkweighmen already have been accepted. The plants closed today are operated by the Melcroft Coal Company, Indian Creek Coal and Coke Company and Sagamore Coal Company.

Course in Cocktails Planned for Schools

ST. LOUIS, Sept. 21.—(AP.)—How to mix and serve highballs and cocktails will be taught prospective Negro butlers at a vocational school conducted by the St. Louis city Board of Education.

Students will be taught to serve martinis in the library with an olive for the women and a small white pickled onion for the men. This, of course, is taught as a detail in the business of serving a full meal.

EASY TO USE QUILT PATTERN



HIDDEN FLOWER PATTERN 540

By LAURA WHEELER

Though this flower may be hiding behind a lattice, there is nothing elusive about making it. The block is composed of but five simple pattern pieces, that are easily put together. The finished quilt is most effective made in three materials and has long been a favorite among quiltmakers, probably because it is so different in appearance than the usual quilt.

Pattern 540 comes to you with complete, simple, instructions for cutting, sewing and finishing, together with yardage chart, diagram of quilt to help arrange the blocks for single and double bed size, and a diagram of block which serves as a guide for placing the patches and suggests contrasting materials.

Send 10c for this pattern to Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph Needlecraft Department, 82 Eighth avenue, New York City.

CHILDREN MARK JEWISH HOLIDAY

Eight hundred children of the Squirrel Hill district gathered in the Manor Theater, Murray avenue, this morning for a children's community service for the High Holidays, sponsored by the Hebrew teachers and children of the Rodef Shalon Hebrew school.

Dr. J. E. Rosenberg, professor at Duquesne University, spoke on the significance of the Rosh Hashana or New Year at the service. Attorney M. L. Tolachka will be one of the main speakers at tomorrow's service.

The shofar, a traditional part of the service, was blown by Eugene Lippman and Howard Landy of the Rodeg Shalom congregation.

These two services are similar to those being held by adult congregations in many parts of the city.

One-Sentence Will Disposes of $60,000

In a one-sentence will, Harry E. McBride, of Rankin, left $60,000 to his parents, brother and sister. His brother, W. C. McBride, is executor.

The will, dated December 29, 1932, was written on a letter head of the McBride Lumber Company.

$15 PAID DAILY FOR RECIPES

Where is there a woman who doesn't boast of a favorite recipe of her own. It may be for a pudding—or a salad—a sauce—a pie—a cake—a stuffing for the turkey—perhaps for a fudge or some other confection.

Recipes for cooking good things to eat are hobbies of many women, and, strange to say, some men. Now what Prudence Penny wants to get is the best and the most appetizing of these favorite recipes and she invites the women of Pittsburgh and vicinity to send their choice ones to her. Day by day these will be examined by a board of experts and 11 cash prizes awarded. A check for $5 will be given for the recipe selected as the best for the day—for each of the other 10 $1 will be awarded.

Now, housewives and others, if you have a favorite recipe for cooking foods of any kind in any particular form of your own, send it to Prudence Penny in care of the Sun-Telegraph. You may have the satisfaction of seeing your name printed as a prize winner, and best of all, seeing your pet recipe in print.

CAB CALLOWAY, VALLEE -:- Cap'n Henry 'Pied Piper' -:- ON RADIO TONIGHT

Harlemites, Show Boat On Air

Cab Calloway and his "hi-de-ho" horn blowers from Harlem; Yosie Fujiwara, Japanese tenor; Joe (Wanna buy a duck?) Penner and a one-act play by Edna St. Vincent Millay are presented in Rudy Vallee's variety program tonight, over WCAE at 8 o'clock.

Capt. Henry's Show Boat, following Rudy on WCAE at 9, seems pretty much the same sort of show—Molasses 'n' January in blackface roles and a dramatic sketch based on "The Music Master."

For Canada

A half hour of Negro music constitutes the American-Canadian broadcast over NBC-KDKA-CBS networks at 10. Featured on the program are Eva Taylor, the Southernaires quartet, a choir and Joseph Littau's orchestra.

Rosie O'Grady is eulogized in song by Singin' Sam in his broadcast over CBS-WJAS at 8:15. Sam's deep bass voice is also lifted to the night sky in two melodies, "Take a Picture of the Moon" and "Pale Moon." "Shadow Waltz" is his fourth selection.

New Year

"Eli Eli," beautiful Hebrew melody appropriate to the Jewish holiday season, is Gladys Rice's featured selection with the Columbia Orchestra, heard over WJAS at 10:45.

If your girl friend or your boy friend doesn't treat you right, tell it to Aunt Emily. In a new program heard over WWSW this evening at 6:30, "Aunt Emily" will answer questions of "heart interest." She says one young radio editor has already asked her advice. It must be Darrell: Si and I know all the answers.

* * *

Pied Piper

"All the little boys and girls, with rosy cheeks and flaxen curls, tripping and skipping, ran merrily after the wonderful music, with shouting and laughter!"

The Columbia Dramatic Guild's dramatization of Browning's "The Pied Piper of Hamlin" tonight, over WJAS at 9:30, recalls the dim days of childhood. And who doesn't remember the musician who agreed to rid the town of rats and, because he was not paid, lured the village children into a cave in the mountain? And the moral: Pay the piper.

It's a far "ahoy" from Death Valley to Nantucket. The adventures of Mrs. Bickett, a sea captain's widow who, despite her ambition to own a seaside cottage in Nantucket, opened a restaurant in the salt wastes of the desert is the Old Ranger's drama theme, on KDKA at 9.

Echoes

From the home of Charles M. Schwab, across the Hudson from the echoing Palisades, comes a delightful organ recital, over KDKA at 10:30. Gounod's "Benedictus;" Saint-Saens' "Le Cigne," (the Swan) and MacDowell's "To a Wild Rose" are among the selections.

Screams of Intended Victim Rout Bandit

Screams of Florence Costello, 24, of 132 Stanahan street, East End, routed a Negro highwayman late last night when he attempted to hold her up as she walked in Brushton avenue.

The Negro, armed, menaced the girl and demanded her money. She screamed for help and ran. The Negro fled in the opposite direction.

51 Tech Freshmen Enter Drama School

Fifty-one freshmen have enrolled in the school of drama, Carnegie Institute of Technology, Elmer Kenyon, head of the drama department, said today. Applications for admission have been received from students from this country, China and Holland. The first week of the school year will be devoted to tryouts.

Boy Seated on Curb Injured by Auto

An automobile backed into Louis Goldstein, 7, of 3717 Parkview avenue, last night as he sat on the curb at Parkview and Oakland avenues. He was taken to Mo...efiore Hospital suffering from a probable fracture of the pelvis and internal injuries.

Accused Man Seized When He Meets Girl

A 14-year-old Wheeling girl today had caused the arrest of Jeno Parse, 21, of 800 Watson street, whom she accused of enticing her into an automobile a month ago. City detectives arrested the man when he kept a tryst with the girl at Fifth avenue and Tunnel street.

Dramatic Debate On Beauty vs. Love

Jean Colbert and Alice Davenport, renowned radio and stage stars, raise the question, "Must a Woman be Beautiful to be Loved"—a subject that has recently caused turbulent discussion throughout Europe—in their dramatization, "The Case of Sally Smith," heard over 11 stations in the Tri-State area today and tomorrow.

Miss Colbert

The dramatic debate, based on a two-page feature story in next Sunday's American Weekly, big feature magazine distributed with the Sun-Telegraph is heard over WFBG, Altoona, this afternoon at 3.

The 10 stations broadcasting the program on Friday are: WSAZ, Huntington, W. Va., 1:30 p. m.; WHBC, Canton, O., 2 p. m.; WKBN, Youngstown, 4 p. m.; WALR, Zanesville, 5 p. m.; WJAC, Johnstown, 5:15 p. m.; WOBU, Charleston, W. Va., 5:15 p. m.; WADC, Akron, 7:45 p. m.; WAIU, Columbus, 8 p. m.; WLBW, Erie, 9 p. m., and WJAS, Pittsburgh, 9:15 p. m.

Local Highlights On WJAS Tonight

Another shift in the WJAS schedule gives the Banjonians, six banjos and a piano, the 6:15 spot tonight.

Outspoken views from Dr. Springer and close harmony from the Weston Sisters—that's the menu for the half-hour of entertainment, starting at 7:15.

Patsy Shannon does several request numbers during her early evening song program with Marie Havicon.

Eddie Peyton has the "Limehouse Blues." At least that's the feature number for his 11:30 frivolities.

Viscount Cecil Sees Arms Ban Possible

TORONTO, Sept. 21.—(AP.)—Viscount Cecil, British statesman attending the British commonwealth relations conference here, told a meeting of the Women's League of Nations Association that the abolition of weapons of offence was not only possible "but can be done." He said:

"While I see the possibilities of failure, I believe the coming disarmament conference will be a success."

Radio Show, Mystery Heard

By AIRCASTER

Another season has rolled around, and the Radio Show, which includes the latest in waffle irons, hair curlers and instant water heaters, in the exhibition at Madison Square Garden, has opened again.

According to time - honored ritual, Monsieur Rothafel, whom you might know better as "Roxy," wielded a baton in the crystal studio last night, and officially opened the electrical festival.

Whether you attend, to see such things as an electric tongue, a high frequency knife for cutting pies and appendices, the latest models in radio sets, the workings of the police alarms, etc., or merely sit at home, you'll hear plenty about the show. Roxy's program last night was only the beginning.

Tomorrow, and throughout all the 10 days of the show, NBC, CBS and various other outlets will put on some of their best programs from the glass enclosed studio.

Radio Week

There is really reason this season to call the exhibition a Radio Show. The radio exhibit takes up an entire floor, and thereon are visible the biggest and littlest, and a lot of in-between sizes of radio receivers and appurtenances associated with the function of making life easier and more pleasant for those of us who listen.

There won't be any organized radio show in Pittsburgh this fall, but Radio Week will be celebrated in every shop that vends radio equipment, over every broadcasting wave-length and in the Sun-Telegraph. The tremendous improvements in receiving sets, the better to enjoy the improving programs, will be described over the air and in print.

Air Scare

And speaking of improved radio receivers, Leslie Hughes, from over Etna way, sat in his automobile last night, in front of his Mt. Royal boulevard home, listening to the receiving set installed under the dash of his car, and heard:

An airport radio operator answered:

"Listen to WXBC for further instructions."

A few tense minutes elapsed, then the pilot called:

"Newark — Newark! Engine's dead! I'm going to jump!"

Then an outburst of silence.

Mr. Hughes, and a few minutes later, Mr. Winsborough, of Dennison avenue, called the Sun-Telegraph to report the startling incident, including the plane's number (12).

Globe-Trotting

By LOUIS L. KAUFMAN

Hello, ladies and gentlemen:

During the recent political campaign the question arose whether a judge, appointed by the Governor to fill the unexpired term of a deceased member of the bench, completes the entire term of his predecessor before submitting himself to the voters.

The law provides that all appointees must be voted on in the odd years regardless of how many years remain of the term of the judge whom he succeeded.

To feel tremendously impressed with the dignity and beauty of our city and country flags visit Supt. Franklin McQuaide's office. A friend sent him two flags of unsurpassed workmanship. One with the municipal emblem and the other is Old Glory. They stand 15 feet high on pedestals, and flank each side of his desk.

Ken Nevins requests an announcement for "pasteboard warfare to the limit of the players ability to absorb veiled insults under the guise of a 'social card party'."

Only I'm not to say that.

Catherine Smith, Youngstown—Nice card. Thank you.

Brookline Reader — Boys under 16 are admitted to a special section at the Duquesne football games for 25 cents. Adults who bring boys and wish them to sit with them will have to pay adult admission prices for them.

Laura A. Saylor, Steubenville—Your best bet is to ask the Patent Department, Washington, D. C.

Delphine—Instead of a beautiful hand contest for the ladies, as you suggest, how about one for the mushball players so that they can all get together at one time and say, "Boy, see that finger. I got that stopping a hot one."

New Engineering Instructor at Pitt

Announcement was made today by E. A. Holbrook, dean of the schools of engineering and mines, University of Pittsburgh, that A. D. Studybaker has been added to the faculty as instructor in industrial engineering. Mr. Studybaker will succeed Myron Lewis, who resigned to accept a position with Mellon Institute.

50 Pitt Freshmen Enroll for 'Y' Camp

More than 50 University of Pittsburgh freshmen have enrolled for the annual pre-school camping period conducted by the University Y. M. C. A. at Camp Kono-Kwee, near Zelienople, Friday, Saturday and Sunday.

The camp program has been designed to enable new students to become acquainted.

Rhyme with Reason

September First, when the bills came due,
Her husband stormed, as husbands do,
"Cut out the buying, Grace, my girl,
Or into debt us both you'll hurl."

We know this doggerel isn't hot,
But facts are facts, or are they not?
Despite her hub's emphatic "No's,"
Remained the fact, Grace Needed Clothes.

And so to Harris' Gracie went,
And bought her fill, and had it sent,
And when her husband asked, "How come?"
She answered, "Darling, don't be dumb."

"At Harris' you CAN'T over-buy,
You're on a Budget there, that's why—
Look, here's my li'l book and there
Is what I owe, with months to spare."

And that's true, folks, as true can be,
You've months to pay, no extra fee,
And that you can't be deep in debt,
Is also true here you can bet.

Just come and get the clothes you want,
We'll let no monthly bills you haunt,
For NRA says, "Do Your Part"—
But Harris' adds "And LOOK your Part."

Curtains

$1.25 pr.

We bought these curtains back in May—before most of us were giving much serious thought to "Cotton Tax," "Process Tax" and such like, and they are sold on exactly that basis.

To reorder today we would have to sell them at $1.50 and $1.75 pair. A month hence $1.75 and $2.00 will be reasonably their price.

Tomorrow—come choose from several styles of Tailored Net Curtains, with 1-inch hems down front and 3-inch hems across bottom. In lacy, rough weave designs. 2¼ yards long. In Ecru color. At a price that will net you a large saving!

Another indication of good times is that bridal parties are growing larger. And here's proof—no less than 11 young women and one little girl will precede Laura Evans when she goes up the aisle of Calvary Episcopal Church October 7 to meet her bridegroom, Emory Moran Ford, of Detroit, at the altar.

The bridegroom, son of Emory Leydon Ford, of Detroit, is no relation, by the way, to Henry Ford. The bride is the younger daughter of the Howard Salisbury Evanses.

Evelyn Evans, sister of the bride-to-be, will be maid of honor, and charming little Elaine Darlington, daughter of Mrs. Harry Darlington, Jr., of Sewickley, will be flower girl.

There'll be 10 bridesmaids, many of whom "came out" the same year as the bride-elect.

Girls in Party

Two Drake girls will be bridesmaids. Virginia and Mrs. Chester H. Lasell, of New York, the former Ruth Drake. And the former Frances Kier, now the Baroness Jean Pellenc, of Paris, who is the guest of her parents, the Frank J. Kiers, will be a bridesmaid.

Virginia Wright, Mary Elizabeth Floyd, and Elizabeth Daly, of Denver, will be bridesmaids, and so will Barbara Vander Poel, of New York.

Ushers Named

Henry T. Bodman, of Detroit, will be best man, and William M. Doolittle and Charles Lockhart, of Sewickley and Pittsburgh, and Thomas Cover, III, of Baltimore; Henry T. Lathrop, Harold W. Snow, Merrill B. Stubbs, Charles B. Warren, Jr., and Robert Warren, all of Detroit; Percy Owen, Jr., of New York; and Herbert R. Stratford, of Bethlehem, will be ushers.

The wedding will take place at 5:30 o'clock with the Rev. Dr. Edwin J. Van Etten, the rector officiating.

Laura's wedding and that of Mary Franklin Robinson and William D. George, Jr., on Monday will be the two largest weddings of the autumn.

To Make Debut

Young Katherine Leila Ward, the C. S. B. Wards' daughter, will bow this winter to Pittsburgh's social world.

Mrs. Ward tells me she hasn't had time yet to decide on the date of the "coming out" party or the place or the form of the event. The Wards are just home from Hyannisport.

Announcement is made today of an engagement to be concluded with a November wedding. The news comes from the Uriah W. Tinkers, of South Dallas avenue, who are making known the betrothal of their daughter Betty Wainwright Tinker to Meredyth Hanway Ewing, son of Mrs. John K. Ewing, Jr., and the late Mr. Ewing, of Bellport, L. I.

Luetta McMunn Married to Ned Brown

Announcement is made of the marriage of Miss Luetta Blanche McMunn, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Daniel George McMunn, of Cape Charles, Va., formerly of Wilkinsburg, to Ned Brown, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Walter Brown, of Wilkinsburg.

The ceremony took place Monday in the Methodist Episcopal parsonage in Hollidaysburg. Officiating was the Rev. Benjamin Hart.

The wedding breakfast was served in the home of Miss Myrtle E. Wilson, a cousin of the bridegroom.

Mr. and Mrs. Brown left on a motor trip through the New England states. They will be at home in Hay street, Wilkinsburg, after October 1.

Sewickley Cot Club Play in Rehearsal

Now that the cast has been selected for the Sewickley Cot Club's opening play October 26 in the Edgeworth Club, rehearsals are being held three nights a week in the Sewickley Academy. The play will be Tom's Cushing's "The Devil in the Cheese."

Rebecca Doyle will have the juvenile lead. Others in the cast will be Mrs. Strickland Kneass, Jr., William Bradford, J. R. Rose, John Slack Schroeder, W. Dudley Livingston, Francis C. Foote, David Chaplin, and C. Morrison Fitch.

Mary Louise Jageman To Marry October 10

Miss Mary Louise Jageman, daughter of Joseph P. Jageman, has chosen Tuesday, October 10, as the date for her marriage to J. Louis Wenzel, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph M. Wenzel, of Jackson street.

Eva Mae Stanyard Is Married to J. J. Klekner

Miss Eva Mae Stanyard, sister of Mrs. Anton Schnubel, of Beaver Falls, and Julius J. Klekner, son of Mr. and Mrs. Julius Klekner, also of Beaver Falls, were married Tuesday in the parsonage of the Sharpsburg Methodist Episcopal Church by the Rev. J. H. Enlow, the pastor.

The bride, who wore powder blue crepe and carried Briarcliff roses, had as her attendant Miss Mary Elizabeth Wright, of Beaver Falls. Donald E. Zimmerman, of Whitaker, was best man.

Mrs. Mabel Coast, of Beaver Falls, and Carroll Frederick, of Pittsburgh, furnished the music. A dinner at the William Penn Hotel followed.

Mr. and Mrs. Klekner will be at home in Massillon, O.

Epworthians to Give Four Plays Tomorrow

The Epworthian Players, the dramatic club drawing its members from the 11 Methodist Episcopal churches in the South Hills, will make public the results of its summer experimental theater when it produces four one-act original plays tomorrow night in the Dormont Church.

The plays are, "Say It With Taffy," directed by H. B. Trautman; "A Bargain's a Bargain," directed by J. J. Davis; "Rats," directed by Wilda Morris, and another play the title of which its director, Ralph S. Davis, Jr., is keeping secret.

The plays are to be given on a competitive basis, with the audience scoring them on a program-ballot. The entire production, which is under the direction of the club's director, D. M. Hall, who will rate and criticize each play, is open to the public without admission fee.

Federation to Destroy Mortgage on Tract Donated to State

By MRS. CHARLES M. BREGG

Just about the time the club observer thinks the convention program for the State Federation of Pennsylvania Women is entirely completed along comes news of a few more loose ends that have been tied up into the comprehensive whole. On Thursday morning of convention week (October 9 to 13) the $6,500 Wilkins Farm mortgage will be burned with an appropriate ceremony. This property, if you remember, was bought by the federation and presented to the state.

On Thursday, too, the music division will present its prize for the best district song, and the other awards in the various contests will be made. There's an award for the greatest number of subscriptions to the Pennsylvania Clubwoman; one for the best survey of local government, one in the winter bouquet and canning contests, one to the district organizing the most clubs, another for organizing the greatest number of junior sections.

The district bringing the greatest number of clubs into the federation also will receive an award and so will the organization making the greatest general progress. The best advisory program and the best year's program will receive awards, too.

Will Irwin, distinguished journalist and author, is the American citizenship department's speaker for Tuesday night. At the press and publicity dinner that evening, Dr. Harvey B. Gaul, of the Post-Gazette, will talk about "Music and the Press," and a radio speaker will also be on the program.

Miss Charlotte Carr, secretary of the State Department of Labor and Industry, will address the public welfare meeting, as will C. Cameron Beck, personnel director of the New York Stock Exchange, and Dr. B. L. Scott, director of the bureau of restoration, State Department of Welfare.

"What the Juvenile Court Demands of Society" is Judge Benjamin Lencher's topic at the public welfare dinner at which Miss Carr and Dr. Scott also will speak.

Jolly Girl's Club to Give Dance This Evening

The Jolly Girls' Club will hold a dance this evening in the new Aldine ballroom, Liberty avenue. On the committee are Miss Winnie Rosche, Miss Alma Earl, Miss Rose Porter, Miss Mary Ulrich, Miss Marie Myers, Miss Sally Thompson, Miss Jean Barry, Miss Mary Semple, Miss Helen Harris and Miss Betty Patterson.

Juniors of Sheraden To Open Season Monday

The Sheraden Juniors will hold their first meeting of the club year in the home of Miss Elizabeth Swoger, Tyndall street, Sheraden, on Monday. A style talk will be given by Mrs. Morgan B. Schiller. Mrs. Alexander B. Kiser, Jr., is leader for the evening.

NEW SILHOUETTE APPROVED AT RECENT SMART FALL SHOW

THOSE FASHION shows that take place at the start of every new season are highly important to the audience. Often, women sitting there so complacently, unwittingly or knowingly, decide the fate of some wavering advance trends. Their reaction to a new high closing, a new side-swiped drape, a new full or a plain sleeve, a new cape collar, or a very new high neck can assure its success of failure.

THE RECENT fashion parade given by society girl models in the blue and white outdoor dining room of the Atlantic Beach Club, Long Island, proved to be this kind of occasion. A swanky audience weighed the offerings placed before them carefully, and most women decided approvingly on their fate. The new silhouette is distinguished, it is ladylike, it is feminine, it is flattering.

TO BE SURE, for the new evening gowns, beautiful movement is a necessity. Long tight-fitting skirts, with little or no freedom till below the knees, requires a lesson or two in walking. No more athletic strides. Hobbled hems, eel-like trains, and long tight clinging lines, call for graceful steps.

AS YOU CAN see by the accompanying illustration, in which we've had two formal type dresses from the show sketched for you, the new silhouette is almost unreservedly tight in the bodice from the armholes (wherever that may be—it varies) to the knees. From there on it can do one of several things. Either it flares out extremely full and crisp, or it remains quite slender with fullness obtained by a few low placed godets front and back, or else the skirt continues to stay slim, and then it needs to be slit up halfway to the knees.

THE NECKLINE is next in importance, then the hips, which are emphasized because of the slim fitting. The bodice is passed by, completely unnoticed. Should the eye by chance halt there, it is because of some clever manipulation of the neckline that also draws the attention to the waist, as in the case of the very medieval gown on the seated lady in the sketch.

* * *

HOWEER, whether it be the neckline or the hem that is highest in importance, the knees become the boundary line. That takes place on the dress usually occurs below them. Look at the stunning black cire satin dress in the same sketch. This is by far the smartest type of evening gown you could possibly get this fall. It has a tunic top—one that is cut exquisitely to give you a tall slim look. Below it, the mermaid train of accordion pleats falls gracefully—just a sheath of shining satin. The other formal dinner dress, one especially created for a new kind of formality after dark, is demure and high-cut in front, belying the siren back, very dramatically slit. This is the most popular expression of this seasons sophistication.

'BUTTONS' GOES TO LUCKY HOMES

"Buttons" is still calling on homes in Pittsburgh and leaving presents of real cash. "Buttons," you know, represents the Sun-Telegraph in the campaign urging Pittsburghers to "Spend a Dollar . . . Make a Job . . . Buy in September and Save."

"Buttons"

"Buttons" distributes $15 in cash every day to the Sun-Telegraph readers named on the Want Ad pages of this newspaper. These names are "paged" every day and it is "Buttons'" happy job to deliver the cash awards that make it possible for the fortunate ones in the list to get in the buying campaign. One of these names gets an award of $5 and the othar 10 get $1 each.

"Buttons" does not know on whom he is going to call until he sees this list of names in the Sun-Telegraph each day. And you won't know whether or not "Buttons" is going to ring your doorbell and hand you a surprise in cash unless you watch the Sun-Telegraph for your name to appear.

Now if your name has not yet appeared in the list on the Want Ad pages, don't get discouraged. If it isn't there today, it may appear tomorrow. There are going to be a lot more names published and yours may be among them any day.

Watch the Sun-Telegraph, find your name when it appears and get the thrill of a call with cash from "Buttons."

FIRE RITES HELD FOR DR. BESANT

MADRAS, India, Sept. 21.—(AP.)—The body of Dr. Annie Besant, world Theosophical leader who died yesterday, was cremated today on a pyre of sandalwood near the mouth of the Adyar River. A large gathering chanted verses from the Bhagavad Gita, an ancient philosophical poem.

Nominations for the presidency of the Theosophical Society, made vacant by her death, will be called for within three months and members throughout the world will vote. Meanwhile A. P. Warrington will serve as acting president.

The sandalwood pyre at today's service was lighted by Bishop C. W. Leadbeater, who was named by Dr. Besant a year ago to succeed her as the head of her school.

Loved ones need you!

NO ONE has to tell you that mental distress and nervous strain, overwork, colds, the "flu," sickness or a deficient diet weaken the body. You can feel it.

Now medical science attributes that tired-worn-out-let-down feeling to deficient hemo-glo-bin (skin and tissue purifier) in the blood—so necessary for carrying the vital oxygen from the lungs to all parts of the body—even to the skin—and in throwing off body poisons.

Even a sufficient and well balanced diet cannot properly nourish the body, unless the blood contains sufficient hemo-glo-bin.

Today tens of thousands take a course of S.S.S. Tonic once or twice a year to regain lost strength, restore the appetite and to clear up the skin.

Take S.S.S. just before meals. No need to change your diet . . . S.S.S. will not interfere with any other medicine you may be taking. You will be happy with the beneficial results obtained. Start taking it today. At all drug stores in two convenient sizes. The larger size is more economical.

GUNMEN LOOT TWO HOTELS

International News Service.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Sept. 21.—Guests and employes were terrorized by machine gun bandits who staged daring holdups of the Antlers and Roosevelt hotels in the downtown section here early today, obtaining an estimated loot of $2,000.

For more than an hour one bandit waved a machine gun about the lobby of the Antlers Hotel, robbing guests and employes as they entered, while two companions demolished the hotel safe with a pickaxe.

TIBBETT, GIRLS GET TAGS

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 21.—(AP.)—Lawrence Tibbett got a traffic tag and so did two pretty girls who Highway Patrolman Augustine Terragno said claimed they were "only trying to get a good look" at the noted singer.

Terragno charged that Tibbett's automobile sped through South San Francisco at 45 miles an hour just ahead of one in which the two girls were riding. He stopped both machines.

The girls were Miss Jean Fay, Woodside, and her house guest, Miss Kathleen Fitch, Pasadena.

Tibbett and Miss Fay were directed to appear in Police Court Tuesday morning on speeding charges.

IT TAKES HEALTHY NERVES TO BE A SHARPSHOOTER

He always has to be a brilliant marksman — regardless of sun, wind, or rain. There is no question about his knowing the secret of healthy nerves!

A MATCHLESS BLEND

IT IS MORE FUN TO KNOW

Camels are made from finer, MORE EXPENSIVE tobaccos than any other popular brand.

Steady Smokers turn to Camels

VIRGIL RICHARD, in discussing smoking and shooting, says: "People often ask me if a professional sharpshooter can smoke as much as he wants. I've been enjoying cigarettes for years, without difficulty in keeping my nerves in shape for making record scores in tournament shooting events. That's because I have long been a Camel smoker. I have experimented with all the popular brands, and I find Camels are better for steady smoking. They're a much milder cigarette, and they never interfere with my nervous control, no matter how much I smoke."

Switch to Camels. You'll like the remarkable mildness . . . the fine, rich flavor of Camel's costlier tobaccos. You'll have satisfying proof that Camels do not interfere with healthy nerves.

TELL IT TO ELSIE

Follow This Unusual Feature Day by Day

By ELSIE ROBINSON

We Must Defend Our Own Rights in This World

Are you listening to some married man telling you how he's "misunderstood"—

And what a swell egg he could be, if he "just had a little girl like you?"

Linnie listened to a line like that, and now see!

Dearest Elsie:

Can I bring my problem to you? I feel that I can, because you'll understand how I got into the trap I seem to be in, and I feel that you can tell me what to do about it.

Six years ago I met a married man. I didn't know he was married when I met him. He had great charm, and he seemed to like me. It was not long before he told me that he was married, but unhappily; that his wife neither loved him nor understood him, and that, for the first time in his life, he had met a woman who seemed to fill the empty spot that had been in his life for years.

By that time I was deeply in love with him. I believed him when he told me that he needed me; that he would divorce his wife, who cared nothing for him. Then we would be married, he said, and have the real home he had always longed for.

At first his excuse for not doing this was that his wife would want big alimony, and he wasn't in a position to give it to her. Then he seemed to just drift, from day to day, while I went out with him and comforted him and waited.

For six years now I have been waiting—living on stolen hours with him and promises.

Now I am beginning to believe that he has no intention of getting a divorce. I know that he doesn't love his wife. He says that he truly loves me. But he and his wife have a position in the community. I think he doesn't want to jeopardize that.

GETTING BITTER

Now I didn't intrude on his life, nor on his wife's. I know from other people that they weren't even good friends when I met him. He sought me out himself—won my love by pleading with me for it.

Now I am beginning to see that he thinks we can just keep on as we are. Is that fair? What do you think of a man who takes everything from a woman, and gives nothing?

I am wretched. I love him deeply, in spite of everything. The thought of breaking with him, not seeing him any more, breaks my heart. But the position I am in breaks my heart, too.

I am getting older every day. I have given him the best years of my life. What shall I do? I am nearly frantic, and I am getting bitter about it all.

LINNIE.

What shall you do?

What you should have done in the first place, sister—tell him to either make good or get out.

"But this story was true. She didn't understand him. He didn't love her——"

That may all be so. There are plenty of wives who don't understand their husbands, and vice versa. And perhaps it would be better for all concerned if such couples would separate.

AS MUCH TO BLAME

But that decision is up to them.

And if an outsider barges into the situation before they have reached that decision, the outsider does it at his or her own risk.

Meaning what? Meaning I'm sorry for you, sister—but you wished it on yourself!

You're better because he has broken his promises? "Taken everything and given nothing?" All right. How about you sitting back and letting him get away with it?

You blame him, but make no mistake, my dear—you're just as much to blame as he is. You accuse him of "drifting," of wanting to eat his cake and have it, but could he have "drifted" if you hadn't let him?

We have to defend our own rights in this world, whether they're rights in love or rights in business. And if we don't, we can't expect other people to.

So cut him out. Break loose from your losing game. If you can't have life with him, dig up spunk and pride enough to go out and make a new life without him. You may think you have given him the best years of your life, but the years ahead are up to you.

MAKE A WINTER PROGRAMME FOR YOURSELF AND LIVE UP TO IT

By FAY KING

Labor Day is accepted as the end of summer and the beginning of fall and winter.

Many who like summer best look upon the nine long months from September to May as a forced exile. But it is really a precious time that can be passed in study and preparation for a happy summer.

One should take a good walk every day in the winter to keep in condition. Next to swimming, walking is said to be the one exercise that puts every muscle into action. It is not a strain, and keeps one in perfect condition.

Make a program of reading and study for yourself and live up to it. Accomplish every day something that you have planned to do. Begin today!

Avis Arlen Tries to Explain to Madge About Letter

So Avis Arlen had stolen my letter to Philip Veritzen, telling him of the date of Noel's marriage to Mary!

"It's your letter to Uncle Phil," she said. "It never reached him, and I am responsible, though innocently. I must beg of you to believe that."

"Suppose you tell me all about it," I said quietly.

She looked at me, a surprisingly steady and searching glance for one playing the ingenue role as assiduously as she was doing. Then her head drooped plaintively to one side, and her eyes veiled themselves behind her long lashes.

"It's all because I wanted to help Uncle Phil," she said, with what she evidently believed to be infinite pathos in her voice, which, in Harry Underwood's parlance, "had the tremolo stop pulled out as far as it would go."

"I thought, being so close to him, I could take care of his letters marked 'personal' so much better than anyone else could," she said. "So when the mail came in, I just took out the letters marked 'personal' and 'private' and waited my chance to put them on his desk when I knew that either he would be in the office or had only left it for a moment, so that his secretary wouldn't have a chance to open them.

DISBELIEVES STORY

"I haven't much confidence in these private secretaries," she went on with a maddening little air that I maliciously wished efficient Miriam Brown, Philip Veritzen's tried and trusted private secretary, could see; "and I watched my chance, so that I could put them on his desk when she was in another part of the office. When I went in Uncle Phil was out of his office for a minute or two, and I put the little pile of private letters down by the side of the other mail Miss Brown had put there, and then came away."

She paused, and I guessed that she was going over her highly improbable yarn to see if there were any flaws in it. As for me, I did not believe a single word she had been saying. She would have had no chance to separate Philip Veritzen's private mail from the other without Miriam knowing it. She might have had the chance to look it over and abstract this one letter, but the others—never!

"How I ever missed this one, I do not know," the tremulous voice went on. "It must have slipped under a letter of my own which I put into my bag. At any rate I did not see it until after Uncle Phil made an awful fuss about missing a letter, and had every desk in the office, even his own, searched thoroughly and everything taken out. After it was all over I was in the wash room, and when I opened my bag I saw that I had two letters instead of one, and I can tell you my heart just stopped beating for a second."

LETTER STEAMED OPEN

Was she really so self-absorbed, so conceited, that she thought I was believing this rigmarole? She was reeling it off with such gusto that I wondered if she were not hypnotizing herself into believing a part of it, at least, to be true.

"You know, perhaps, how terrible Uncle Phil can be when he is angry," she went on, the "tremolo stop" more in evidence than ever. "I simply did not dare to tell him that I had made such a terrible mistake. You see what he gives me for my work is almost all that my mother and I have to live on, and if he should discharge me we'd simply starve, I'm afraid.

"So I just didn't dare say anything. I pushed the letter way down in my bag, and just as soon as I could, after Uncle Phil and Miss Worthing let me play with the switchboard, I telephoned you. I knew you'd be able to think up some way to help me."

I had been turning the letter over in my hands as she talked, examining it when at intervals her eyes dropped beneath her long lashes. To the casual eye it had not been opened, but I, who had sealed it, saw certain traces which made me certain that the letter had been cleverly steamed and opened, and then closed again.

"When was it that you put those letters on his desk and lost this one?" I asked her, wondering if her natural stupidity would lead her into the very obvious trap I had set for her.

Household Hints

Before using new clothes pins soak them in cold water for 24 hours and they will last much longer.

Never polish pewter. When dirty, wash with warm, soapy water applied with a soft brush. Afterwards, dry with a clean cloth.

An orange stuck through with as many cloves as possible and dried in a cool oven is an excellent moth preventative if placed among one's clothes. At the same time it gives out a delightful fragrance.

Correct Manners

By MRS. CORNELIUS BEECKMAN

Notes of Appreciation

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

May I come to you for some advice? My husband had always lived in this town and of course knows most every one, but I am a stranger here, as we just moved here about three months ago, and I have a large family and so do not visit much. Last week we lost our darling little boy . . . the first in the family. Everyone was so sweet to me . . . it seems the whole town tried to do something.

Here's my question:

It seems to me that it would be right to send a little note of thanks to those who were so kind to me when they didn't know me . . . especially the singers who were teachers of our older boys, and the minister whose words have helped me so much through the long, lonesome hours. I don't like just a card of thanks put in the newspaper. It seems too business-like. Should I send each a note and could you show me how it could be worded? I don't mean to try to "put on," but I would like them to know how much I appreciate what they did.

MOTHER.

Please may I too say how sorry, how very sorry, I am that this shadow has come to your life? Your letter was very touching, and I understand so well your deep grief. You sound so brave, so galliant . . . bless you.

Yes, I do wish that you would act on this definitely right instinct of yours, to write each kind person a note of thanks. A card of thanks in the newspapers is not in good taste; it is the personal note that must be written, especially when the acts-of-kindness are so thoughtful as were these.

Your note would read something like this:

Dear Mrs. Allen:

Please let me tell you how deeply touched my husband and I were by your goodness to us during those dark days of our sorrow. Your beautiful message of sympathy was most friendly, and we found great comfort in it. Thank you for your kind thought of us.

Most sincerely yours,
Jane Thomas King.

May Invite by Telephone

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

What is the correct way to ask a girl out? I have not seen her since I was in grade school about five years ago. Is it correct to telephone her and ask her to go to a movie or picnic

L.

It will be quite correct for you to telephone the girl to invite her to go to a movie or picnic with you. Or, if you hesitate to do this, it would be gracious to write her a note.

FREEDOM
Do you realize that specialists have conquered "regular" pain? Midol will prove this to any woman in a few moments. One tiny tablet, and the pain is gone. And it's as harmless as the aspirin you take for an ordinary headache. No narcotics. No let-down later. But don't be fooled by general remedies now being offered as a specific for such suffering. Midol acts directly on the organs affected. It is not a mere measure of relief, but ends this pain. Insist on Midol.

Contract Bridge

HOW TO PLAY and HOW TO WIN

By JOSEPHINE CULBERTSON

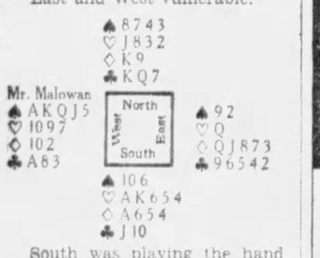
Beating a "Laydown" Hand

Bridge players as a class are perhaps too prone to be guilty of shallow surface reasoning. They frequently fail to find the defensive play which will beat even a "lay-down" hand. However, occasionally a player does rise to the heights of real brilliancy and make a play which stamps him as belonging in the master class. Unusual defense is frequently logical defense. This is absolutely the case when a player can see that the ordinary defensive measures will not be sufficient to cope with the situation which confronts him.

Take as an example a brilliant and unusual defense on a hand recently played at a club in New York, in which Mr. Walter Malowan, one of the holders of the American Whist League Team-of-Four title, held the West hand.

South, Dealer.

East and West vulnerable.



South was playing the hand at a contract of four hearts. A superficial view might be that West had a cheap save at four spades, but this is a very superficial view, indeed.

An Opening trump lead and a continuation of trumps when either opponent got in would give North and South three heart tricks, two diamonds, and two clubs. In other words, West could only cash six tricks because North and South would not think of permitting him to utilize either of Dummy's trumps for ruffing purposes.

Against the four heart contract Mr. Malowan opened the spade King and continued with another high spade. At this point it was fairly apparent that ordinary defense would not defeat the contract. The Ace of clubs in Mr. Malowan's hand was, no doubt, good for a trick, but where was the setting trick to be obtained? There was just one chance, as West saw it: if his partner held an honor in trumps and could be induced to ruff a spade with it, then his own apparently worthless trumps could develop the setting trick. Nothing could be lost by trying apparently, so Mr. Malowan now laid down the spade 5 and East, playing up to the brilliant lead, ruffed with the Queen. The Declarer overruffed and was later compelled to concede the club Ace and a trump trick to the opposition. An apparently laydown hand had been defeated by sound and brilliant defense.

Starched Neckbands

Most husbands like a starched neckband in the soft shirt, but otherwise do not care for the stiffness. Dip a toothbrush into the starch and draw it across the band and cuffs of the shirt. You will have the stiffness where you want it and no place else.

"Three washes a week · · yet their clothes stay bright"

mother of three babies says

HARVEY JUNIOR
MRS. HARVEY FELL
BOBBY
BETTY JANE
"THREE TIMES A WEEK for two months," Mrs. Fell told us, "a quick squeeze through safe Chipso suds has made this sheer baby dress ready for more good wear."
"NO THIN SPOTS, or frayed edges, or dull, dirty color on this year-old yellow suit that Chipso regularly soaks clean," says Mrs. Fell.
Bright, strong; good for MANY MORE MONTHS OF WEAR, this pink novelty cotton dress is washed regularly with Chipso.
FIFTY TIMES or more, this white dotted Swiss dress has gone into Chipso suds dirty and come out DAZZLING WHITE—with no hard rubbing to wear it thin.
Chipso
Big Box Low Price

"I began using Chipso several years ago because a neighbor said it made the best suds," Mrs. Harvey Fell of Wilmington, Del., told us. "When I tried it I thought so, too. But I found out something even more important—Chipso doesn't fade colored clothes, or hurt my hands, or harm even silks and woolens!

"The children get so many clothes dirty that we wash two and three times a week. It wouldn't take long for the clothes to wear out if we put them into harsh soap as often as that! But with Chipso the colors hold up and the materials don't get thin and sleazy.

No hard rubbing

"Besides, with Chipso, you don't have to break your back scrubbing. Dirt soaks right out in those good suds! One washday's hard rubbing is equal to months of actual wear on clothes, so I think they are bound to wear longer if you wash them this softer Chipso way.

"I certainly do like Chipso suds. They don't break down no matter how much dirty work you call on them to do in the wash tub, or in the dish pan and scrubbing pail. Yet they are as easy as a good toilet soap on my hands."

Chipso is not adulterated with the harsh substances contained in inferior soaps which gradually weaken fabrics and dull their color. Chipso loosens dirt harmlessly by RICHER SUDS. That is why Chipso-washed clothes stay new-looking for years.

Don't endanger the clothes you have spent good money for by washing them in cheap flakes or strong granulated soaps and powders. Get Chipso from your grocer. At its low price, Chipso is the biggest value in rich, safe soap on the market today!

Chipso makes clothes wear longer

Delay Is Dangerous in Tuberculosis of Kidney.

Dr. Copeland

Alarm and anxiety about disease are usually quite unnecessary. But to be told you have tuberculosis of the kidney is certain to cause a shock. It is a discouraging bit of news.

The sufferer is sure to believe he has an incurable disease and that he will be the victim of a sudden and early death. But, as a matter of fact, early recognition of tuberculosis of the kidney means that the sufferer will not be the victim of such a fate. When it is definitely known that the kidney is diseased, infected from the germs of tuberculosis, the diseased organ can be removed by a comparatively simple operation.

It is only when tuberculosis of the kidney is not suspected and the disease is allowed to exist for some time that the outcome is unfavorable. In such instances, the general health of the patient suffers and it is probable that the other kidney may become involved. Tuberculosis of both kidneys is indeed a serious experience.

How can we guard against this danger?

Many minor disturbances of the kidney are falsely referred to as "lumbago," or "backache," and too often neglected. Vague and often significant pain of the kidney may be an early sign of tuberculosis of the kidney.

This is especially true when there is tuberculosis in the family or a story of long continued ill health. The presence of blood in the urine should always arouse suspicion of this trouble. Burning and discomfort on urination; frequent urination; and cloudy urine; are other signs that must never be overlooked.

A problem that arises in tuberculosis of the kidney is the question of when the operation should be performed. The patient often delays matters in the hope that the condition may clear itself. Unfortunately this is a false and unfounded hope.

All authorities agree that once the kidney is involved and definite signs of tuberculosis infection are present, surgery must be restorted to as soon as possible. Delay is dangerous.

With the perfection of modern instruments, special apparatus and particularly the improvement of the modern X-ray machine, it is now possible to detect tuberculosis of the kidney in its early stages. If you suffer from pain or discomfort of the kidneys, regardless of how mild it may seem to you, it is a good plan to consult with your physician. Do not assume that the pain is due to a cold but allow your physician to recommend certain examinations and X-ray pictures that will reveal the truth.

I am glad to say that a study of recent statistics shows that tuberculosis of the kidney need no longer be regarded as a fatal disease. As a result of early and prompt operation the average span of life of the sufferer has been increased to such an extent that it is often greater than that of the supposedly healthy person.

Bear in mind that removal of one kidney does not interfere with the function of the opposite kidney. The body is able to maintain its normal activities in spite of surgery.

Answers to Health Queries

A Steady Reader. Q.—What do you advise for fallen arches?

A.—Properly fitted shoes and arch supports should bring about results under such circumstances. Consult an orthopedist for examination and advice.

G. W. J. Q.—My husband is 28 years of age. For several years he has been troubled by a pounding in his head. His heart also seems to beat hard, and lately he has had a ringing in the ears. He does not seem sick otherwise. What would you advise? Could these symptoms be due to high blood pressure, in view of the fact that he is so young?

A.—It would be well to have his blood pressure tested. This will help to fix the cause of the trouble. For further particulars send a self-addressed, stamped envelope and repeat your question.

U. S. PRESSING FOR ARMS SLASH

WASHINGTON, Sept. 21.—(AP.)—The United States was said today by Secretary Hull to be pressing for the formation of a definite disarmament plan, but with further conversations needed before any concrete proposal could be put forward by this country.

Asked if the United States could be reported definitely in favor of the French plan for disarmament after a trial period, Hull told newspapermen no definite understanding had yet been reached, so far this this country was concerned, toward any one plan.

Referring to conversations in Great Britain and France by Norman H. Davis, America's ambassador without portfolio, Hull said that from reports reaching him the conversations appeared to be in a preliminary stage.

With proposals and counter proposals being made by various nations, Hull said, the disarmament situation appeared to be changing almost hourly.

He added Davis would continue his discussions with foreign statesmen in an effort to arrive at a concrete proposition to place before the arms parley in Geneva on Monday.

Monessen Bank To Pay Dividend

MONESSEN, Pa., Sept. 21.—J. F. Odland, receiver for the First National Bank and Trust Company of Monessen, today announced a 7½ per cent dividend to depositors. The amount to be paid out is $180,000.

Odland has collected $112,500 of the sum and has borrowed $58,000 from the Reconstruction Finance Corporation. It is the second dividend paid since the bank closed in October, 1931. One of 12½ per cent was paid several months ago.

Councilmen Seize Fire Engine, Fight Blaze

Councilmen and the Community Improvement Association have been squabbling over the engine since the Council decided to form a new fire company.

Recently, when Chief Carrigan arrived to call a fire drill, the engine was missing. A deputy sheriff had seized it. Carigan sounded the fire alarm—and to his amazement the missing engine dashed down the street — manned by Councilmen.

'DEVIL' MURDER DEFENSE ENDS

SULPHUR SPRINGS, Tex., Sept. 21.—(AP.)—The trial of Coy Oakley, religious zealot accused of murder for the "devil" slaying of Bernice Clayton, 3-year-old cripple, reached the argument stage today. The defense rested after calling as a witness Mrs. Mozelle Clayton, mother of the child.

Mrs. Clayton said Coy Oakley and his brother, Paul Oakley, self-styled "faith healer," had come to the Clayton cabin several days before the death of Bernice, which occurred December 19, 1932.

It was while Paul Oakley was performing weird rites over the child that she was choked to death, according to Mrs. Clayton. Paul Oakley purportedly was trying to "drive out a devil" he believed to be responsible for her ailment.

Last May at Paul Oakley's murder trial in Linden, he was found guilty of slaying the child and sentenced to 50 years' imprisonment.

MORGENTHAU NAMED RUSS TRADE AIDE

International News Service.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 21.—Another indication that recognition of Soviet Russia will take place before Congress meets, as exclusively reported by International News Service Tuesday, was seen today in the designation of Henry Morgenthau, Jr., governor of the Farm Credit Administration, as co-ordinator in matters of Russian trade.

Russia has already been granted a $4,000,000 credit in cotton purchasing and is negotiating for $50,000,000 to $75,000,000 more in cotton and non-ferrous metals.

Settlement of American claims is one of the hurdles to Russian recognition. The Czarist government and the Kerensky government that followed it are indebted to the United States Treasury to the extent of some $300,000,000, to which must be added the claims of American corporations for property confiscated by the Bolshevists when they came into power.

Against these claims are those of Moscow for damages to Russian property and loss of life in the American "invasion" of Russia in the latter days of the World War. No amount has ever been fixed.

A mixed claims commission probably will be formed to adjust the claims as was done in the case of conflicting American and German claims arising from the World War.

Famed Pathfinder Of Rockies Dies

BANFF, Alberta, Sept. 21.—(AP.)—Tom Wilson, 74, last of the Kicking Horse Pass pathfinders and one of the most colorful characters in the history of the Canadian Rockies, died last night at his home here. He was the discoverer of the famous mountain beauty spots, Lake Louise and Emerald Lake.

Police Radio Tells Officer Stork Has Arrived

SAN DIEGO, Cal., Sept. 21.—(AP.)—"Calling car No. 16! Calling car No. 16!"

"Special message for Officer Pickering. Your wife gave birth to a six-pound boy. Both are doing nicely."

AUSTRIA TURNS TO FASCISM

VIENNA, Sept. 21.—(AP.)—The new government of Chancellor Engelbert Dollfuss, which marks the crushing victory of Austrian Fascism over democracy, was sworn in today by President Wilhelm Miklas.

The administration's program was announced in the semi-official Reichspost as "economic rehabilitation, internal peace and order and external independence and sovereignty".

In other words, the government is definitely committed to carry on the Dollfuss fight against anschluss (union with Germany), and the presence of Maj. Emil Fey in the ministry as vice chancellor insures most vigorous continuance of the campaign against the Nazis.

Mayor's Thumb Print To Safeguard Bonds

KANSAS CITY, Kan., Sept. 21.—(AP.)—The thumb print as well as the signature of Mayor Don C. McCombs will appear at the bottom of all municipal bonds this city may issue in the future. He decided on the extra identification mark after inspecting forged copies of his signature on duplicate bonds.

2 NUDIST CAMP APOSTLES GO ON TRIAL

International News Service.

ALLEGAN, Mich., Sept. 21.—Two of the Mid-West's apostles of nudism, Fred C. Ring, 40, and his wife, Ophelia, were arraigned in Justice Court today on charges of indecent exposure at their nudist colony near here.

The case is the first court test resulting from nudism's invasion of the Middle West. The Kalamazoo dancing master admits he owned and operated the Sunshine Sports Club in the woods west of Allegan, where prominent Chicago and Michigan couples came to gambol unclad, in the sun.

SURPRISE WITNESS

A prominent Chicagoan, who said he did not know the Sunshine Club was being run in violation of the law, took the witness stand as a surprise prosecution witness. He was Edward J. Murrey, connected with the R. G. Dunn Company.

The dapper dancing master and his attractive wife are the only members of the colony facing trial, although authorities say they have the names of 17 patrons of the club, including prominent Chicagoans and a university professor. All were trapped in a raid made on the Sunshine Club three weeks ago.

Raiding officers said a number of the patrons were engaged in a rollicking game of volleyball clad only in their shoes. Other nude patrons were swimming or engaging in other sports, the officers said, and a dozen children, including Ring's two daughters, were present.

'DISGRACEFUL CHARGES'

Mrs. Ring, in answer to the indecent exposure charge, declared:

"There is absolutely nothing to warrant these disgraceful charges. We believe that modern life is lived under the wrong conditions so we indulge in free physical culture—exposure of the entire body to the sun and air.

"In our Sunshine Sports Club we never wore any clothing except shoes unless it grew cold in the evenings. Men and women were segregated during the sleeping hours."

One member said:

"In all the time I was there I heard no risque jokes, not even swearing. There is nothing wrong morally in the nudist's practice. It is only the warped thoughts of narrow-minded neighbors that make nudism 'wrong.'"

Johnson Made U. S. Official of Fidac

Girl Health Champ Seeks Perfect Rating

MOUNT PLEASANT, Ia.—(INS.)—When Clista Millspaugh, state 4-H club girls health champion, arrives in Chicago in December for the national health contest, she will be as nearly perfect as possible, if her parents have their way.

At the recent Iowa contest where she won her title, Clista was "docked" a tenth of a point because her tonsils had not been removed. As soon as she returned here, her parents ordered the tonsils taken out.

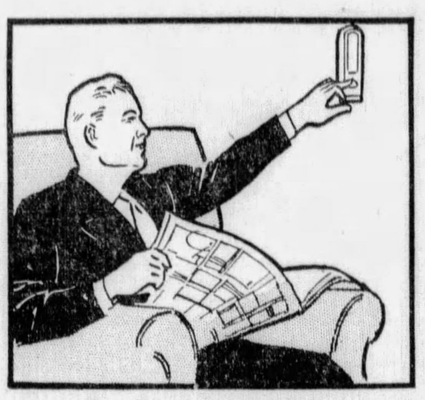
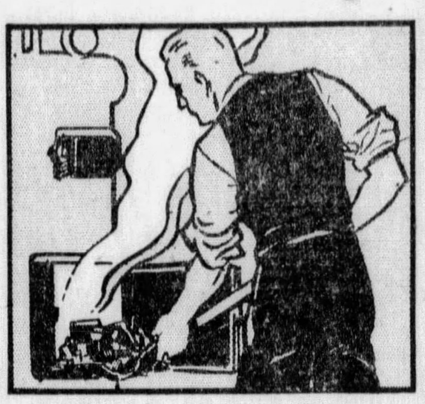
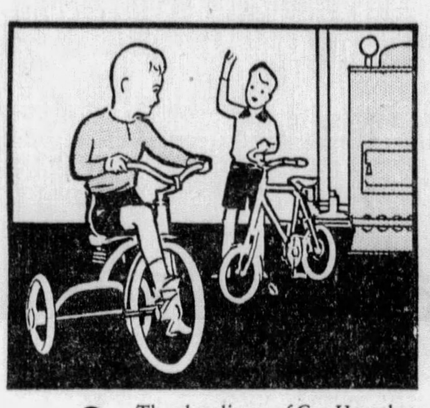
WHICH do you PREFER?

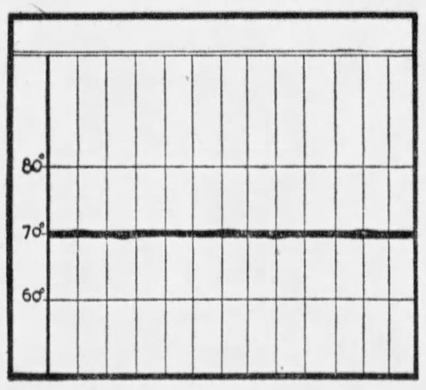


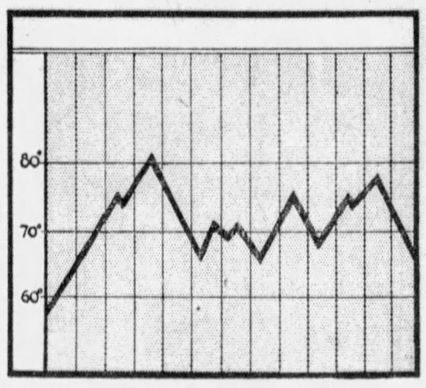


1. The completely automatic, attention-free, comfort and convenience of Gas Heat—or the never-ending disagreeable drudgery of furnace-tending with bulky smoky fuels?



2. The cleanliness of Gas Heat that gives you an extra room in the basement and extra cleanliness all through the house—or the dirt and dust and soot and smoke and ashes that are always a part of bulky fuels?





3. The automatically controlled constant temperature of Gas Heat—that safeguards health and cuts down the number of colds in your family—or the up and down, hot and cold unhealthful variations of old fashioned fuels?

GAS HEATING COSTS ARE LOWER

OTHER FUEL PRICES ARE GOING UP!

4. The low and non-fluctuating cost of Gas, which is paid for after you use it and not before—or the uncertain and definitely advancing cost of other fuels which you must always pay for before you use them?

THERE is only one answer to these questions. Everyone wants Gas Heat—and at present low gas rates, more people than ever before are planning to enjoy Gas Heat this winter, because of the many advantages it offers that you can get no other way. Find out exactly what Gas Heat for your home will cost. Call, write, or telephone your Gas Company or Heating Contractor for an estimate of the cost for your own home. There is no charge for such estimates—and more than likely you will be surprised at how inexpensively you can heat your home this modern way.

J. A. CAMPBELL, NOTED STEEL LEADER, DIES

YOUNGSTOWN, O., Sept. 21.—(AP.)—James A. Campbell, 79, chairman emeritus of the Youngstown Sheet and Tube Company and a leader in the proxy battle over the proposed $1,000,000,000 merger with the Bethlehem Steel Company, died last night at his home, of a heart attack.

He stepped into the forefront of one of the bitterest court battles in the annals of American business when he actively championed the proposal to merge Sheet and Tube, third largest steel concern in the United States, of which he then was president and chairman, with Bethlehem.

The merger was blocked when Cyrus S. Eaton, of Cleveland, whose financial empire since has dwindled, and other stockholders spent nearly a million dollars in the legal battle against it. Eaton, then the largest single stockholder in the $300,000,000 Sheet and Tube company, claimed he had not been consulted concerning the merger, which was favored by officials of both companies.

Although in failing health since his retirement from active business in February, 1932, Campbell's death came unexpectedy at his residence near here, not far from the Ohltown home where he was born September 11, 1854.

Do as your dentist does . . .

USE POWDER

100% Cleansing Properties
Twice that of toothpaste

No Grit — No Pumice
Cannot possibly scratch the softest enamel

Lasts Longer — Costs Less

Powder Cleans and Whitens Teeth — as nothing else can

THERE is nothing known that will clean and polish teeth so quickly and leave them so gleaming white—as POWDER.

That is why your dentist, when cleaning your teeth, as you know—always uses powder.

As it is only the powder part of any dentifrice that cleans, a dentifrice that is ALL POWDER just naturally cleans best.

Dr. Lyon's Tooth Powder is ALL POWDER—100% cleansing properties. This is more than twice the cleansing properties of tooth pastes.

Dr. Lyon's Tooth Powder cleans off all stains and tartar, and polishes the teeth in a harmless and practical way that leaves them sparkling—many shades whiter. Free from all grit or pumice, it cannot possibly scratch, or injure the softest enamel.

Dr. Lyon's Tooth Powder keeps your teeth REALLY CLEAN and clean teeth mean — firm, healthy gums, freedom from pyorrhea and the least possible tooth decay.

Once you use powder you will never go back to a less scientific way of tooth cleansing. It leaves your teeth feeling so much cleaner, your mouth so refreshed, and your breath so sweet and pure.

Dr. Lyon's Tooth Powder is not only doubly efficient, but it costs only half as much to use. Even a small package lasts twice as long as a tube of tooth paste.

Psst!

An inkling of what's going to come! Psst! We're tipping you off that something is due to happen in the Sun-Telegraph Monday, September 25.

Stasheens! 1.95

Only two weeks ago, we put a reminder in the paper about what has happened to Stasheen's re-order price. (It's gone up like a sky-rocket.) We nearly had a riot . . . with people shouting "I'll take a dozen". Frankly, 2x2 broadcloth shirts at 1.95 are as scarce as hen's teeth . . . and if you know what's what, you'll stock up on plenty.

White, blue, grey, tan or green collar-attached shirts. White neckband shirts. Sizes 13½ to 18—sleeve lengths, 32 to 36 inches.

This is the twelfth illustrated editorial—of a series now appearing in the Hearst Newspapers—on the importance of the Buy Now movement as a contribution to National Recovery.

"I bought a New Car AND I'M PROUD OF IT!"

TODAY putting your name on the "dotted line" is a PATRIOTIC ACT!

THE MAN IN THIS PICTURE has just bought a new car. A year ago his friends might have frowned on him as "extravagant" . . . "wasteful" . . . "putting on a show." He might have been called a spendthrift. Today he throws out his chest and says, "I'm proud of it!"

It's an interesting change in psychology!

Today, it has become sort of fashionable to buy the things you need and can afford.

Buying a new car brings cheerful news to lots of people. Before the ink is dry on the order, its effects are felt all over the land.

The miner feels it down in his pit. The steel puddler knows it. Men who make tires — and upholstery — and glass—all have a little more work to do.

Even the merchant who takes your order is better able to meet his increased costs. He's signed the code requiring shorter hours, higher wages—and the money he makes from you helps him in maintaining the larger sales force.

Manufacturers, wholesalers and retailers by the thousand have subscribed to the various codes of the NRA.

They have added men—shortened hours — burdened themselves with additional overhead. They have done this at the request of our President—to aid in Recovery.

Many of them—particularly the smaller ones—can ill afford to make this outlay. They have made no preparations for it. Conditions of the past two years have been too difficult.

Now, to break even—to keep on employing people at higher wages and shorter hours—they must have orders for their goods from the public. Not later—when times get better — but now — this month — today!

The untapped savings of this country total more than eleven billion dollars. A small part of that sum, spent sensibly for things people need, will keep all the re-employed men at work. And every man at work helps keep up the demand for goods; helps make your own job more secure. Without jeopardizing your future—without drawing on reserves — you can help by spending. Not extravagant spending. But sound sensible buying of things you need and can use.

Perhaps you need a new automobile. Buy one if you can afford it. And remember, there are thousands of smaller purchases, too, that will help recovery.

New linens, new rugs, new furniture. New paint for the house, new paper for its walls. New clothes for the family.

It isn't how much you spend that is the test—it's the buying. Will you do your part? Just start spending normally. And start NOW—in September.

Buy in September. Buy anything and everything you need and can afford. Buy in September—not just the things you've been needing—but the things you know will be needed and used later.

Pawnbroker Slain Soon After Being Visited by Durant

CHAPTER XIII.

A man in livery opened the door of an old-fashioned house on West Twenty-third street, but before he opened it he had looked through a peephole at the man in the blue flannel suit with the straw hat set jauntily upon his head. No visitor was admitted to Tony Gazotti's house unless he had passed this scrutiny.

"The big fellow's upstairs in bed, Mr. Durant," said the liveried man. "He'll see you, though."

The servant looked sheepish. "It costs him twenty bucks a week more to put this monkey stuff on me, but Tony likes it, so what the hell? You know the way upstairs."

"I think she's grand," said Durant.

"Fifty-fifty and nobody stung, then," grinned Gazotti. "Well, that hooey about the things she didn't know she knew. Or did you forget all about those matters?" he asked with sly malice.

"I didn't forget them. And I feel like a dog to think that in any way I tried to use her."

"Now, don't get moral," counseled Tony. "Gertie would be glad to spill anything. If you

Synopsis

Jackson Durant, young lawyer, has alienated his society friends and lost his fiancee, Sue Leonard, because of his success as the "mouthpiece" who won the acquittal of the notorious Tony Gazotti. Miss Leonard then becomes engaged to Tom Siddall, youthful broker. Shortly afterwards Siddall is arrested, charged with the murder of Mimi Montagne, who was shot dead on the terrace of a penthouse owned by Jim Crelliman. Sue begs Durant to get busy in Siddall's behalf. Durant believes the broker is innocent and secures the aid of Gazotti, who introduces him to Gertie Waxted, closest friend of the murdered entertainer. The lawyer takes Gertie to his apartment for questioning. She agrees to help Siddall's defense. Durant borrows her ring and visits the pawnshop of Levitoff, pawnbroker, who told police he sold a gun to Siddall. Levitoff recognizes the lawyer and refuses to do any business with him.

COUZENS SPURS BANK CHARGES

DETROIT, Sept. 21.—(AP.)—Continuing his promised presentation of evidence which he charges he was "prevented" from placing before the now-closed Detroit bank jury investigation, United States Senator James Couzens in a public statement today, declared that certain officers of the closed Guardian National Bank of Commerce knew in September, 1931, that the solvency of the bank was "doubtful."

The Senator also took issue with Judge Harry B. Keidan, who sat as the one-man grand jury which investigated the closing of the Guardian National and the First National Bank-Detroit, in regard to the judge's finding that the two banks were solvent when they closed.

The Senator's statement said:

"I have a letter from John N. Daly, a former assistant vice president of the Guardian National Bank of Commerce, pointing out that his suspicion of the solvency of the Guardian Detroit Union Group, Inc., (the holding company) was first aroused in September, 1931, when he received a telephone call from a vice president of a Cleveland bank which carried a very large account with them."

CROONER HELD IN 2 SLAYINGS

JERSEY CITY, N. J., Sept. 21.—(AP.)—A young singer from the South who wanted to be a Broadway crooner completed a 3,500-mile round trip today—with a murder charge against him at each end.

He was arraigned here today, the self-confessed killed of a Paterson showman and a Nashville businessman, and held without bail.

The counts against Neu, who was arraigned as a fugitive from justice, were based on his alleged killing of Sheffield Clark, of Nashville, in a New Orleans hotel Saturday night and the theft of Clark's car.

Throughout the arraignment Neu remained cool and aloof. However, he told his guards he felt "very much relieved" to have told the whole story of his crimes. He said:

"If I'd gone on any longer I'd have killed somebody else. I had promised a girl to show her the bright lights of Broadway, but my funds were running low."

Influence of Herron Victory Far Reaching

By MARK SHIELDS

Mayor John S. Herron's astounding victory in the Republican primary Tuesday may have a far-reaching influence on the leadership of the party in Pittsburgh and Allegheny County if the Mayor weathers the Democratic attack in November.

Mr. Shields.

Had Mr. Herron gained the nomination over Register of Wills Joseph E. Mackrell and Councilman P. J. McArdle by a bare plurality, and had either of his opponents seriously challenged his victory, the situation would have been different. Mr. Herron then would have owed his victory entirely to the heavy vote he secured in the so-called controlled wards, where organization leaders are supreme.

But that is not what happened. It is true that the First, Second, Third, Fourth and similar wards snowed under the Mayor's opponents. But it is also true that in such wards as the Eleventh, Thirteenth, Fourteenth, Nineteenth and Twenty-sixth Mr. Herron finished far in front. In fact, he lost but two wards, the Eighteenth and Twenty-seventh, and in these the margin of victory for Mr. Mackrell, who led in each, was small.

It may be contended that the failure of voting machines to work in some of the wards militated against the final totals of the Mayor's adversaries,. But even had every voter who for any reason was deprived of his vote, or did not trouble to cast a ballot, handed in a verdict against the Mayor, he still would have won in substantial fashion.

Herron Can Be Leader If He So Desires

Further, it may be asserted, a number of Republicans stayed away from the polls because they were not enthusiastic over the two so-called independent onslaughts. But even that was more of a displeasure against the strategy of the independents than against Mr. Herron.

Analyzing the results ward by ward, it is admitted that Mr. Herron owes much of his success to the usual sources of organized political success. But as he looks about the thought must inevitably come to him that there were other factors, that he received votes which would not have gone to some other organization mayoralty candidate.

In such circumstances it is entirely reasonable that the Mayor may determine himself to be the real leader of his party in the city. He may conclude that an interpretation of his vote does not require that he divide this authority. Naturally he must feel extreme gratitude to ward leaders, and the slightest sense of appreciation will restrain any impulse to flout these friends.

But they will not run the city unless the Mayor permits.

In other words, the boss—or leader—can be Mayor Herron if Mayor Herron wants to be the leader, for the fall of the votes has left him in that unchallenged position. Indeed, it has placed him under an obligation to accept that position, and thousands of votes were cast for him in the belief that he would assume it.

All of this, of course, is predicated upon a second victory at the general election in November.

November Victory To Bring Big Chance

Another incident which may have an influence on party affairs is the victory of W. A. Magee in the Council fight. If the Republicans elect their slate in November the complexion of Council, on past records, will be five attached to the Mayor and four acting independently, including Mr. Magee in the latter category.

That can be a good thing for the Mayor. It may result in some five-to-four decisions, but a more reasonable view is that councilmanic deliberations and conclusions will be more co-operative than they have been. Mr. Herron probably will seek the assistance of those who have opposed him. He is not a man who hunts for conflict. He will realize—or should realize—that the vote he received was not a mandate to set up any clear-cut divisions in City Council, and that the victory of Mr. Magee was indicative of a desire by the electorate that things should be different.

To illustrate, there was no "administration" councilmanic victory similar to that accorded the mayor. Had there been possible anything approaching a combination of opposition votes in the councilmanic contest, four of those attached to the Mayor's ticket would not have succeeded.

This possibility of a new political leadership in the city is one of the most interesting results of Tuesday's election. It has given the Mayor a great opportunity to rehabilitate the so-called organization—if he wins in November—and it has placed on him a real responsibility.

WILL ROGERS SAYS

BEVERLY HILLS, Cal., Sept. 21.

To the Editor, Sun-Telegraph:

Will Rogers

To inflate, or not to inflate, that is the Democratic question. Whether it's nobler in the minds to suffer the slings and arrows of southern politicians, or to take up inflation against a sea of economists, and by opposing, end them.

To expand, to inflate, to inflate perchance to dream. Aye, there's the rub. For in that sleep of inflation, what dreams may come puzzle the will, and makes us doubtful whether to bear those ills we have, than fly to others we know not of. Yours, WILL.

SUBWAY STRIKE THREATENS N. Y.

NEW YORK, Sept. 21.—(AP.)—Strikes involving about 100,000 workers were in progress in New York City today and a walkout of transit employes appeared a possibility.

The American Federation of Labor, through its affiliate in the street transportation industry, prepared to seek a showdown between A. F of L. unionization of 30,000 workers and the company union policy maintained at present.

Patrick J. Shea, official of the Amalgamated Association of Street and Electric Railway Employes and Motor Coach Operators, announced his union had organized men on subway, elevated, surface and bus lines.

He said his union would file a request with the NRA asking a plebiscite to determine whether the men preferred company unions or the A. F. of L. union. He said failure of the companies to abide by the result and recognize the union chosen would bring strikes.

WAR HERO ASKS FOR FORD JOB

DETROIT, Sept. 20.—(AP.)—Sergt. Edgar M. Halyburton, first Yankee captured by the Germans during the World War and the inspiration for the "Captured But Not Conquered" posters advertising the Third Liberty Loan, applied today for one of the 5,000 jobs the Ford Motor Company is filling from the ranks of former service men. He said:

"All I want is a chance to work."

It was November, 1917, that Sergt. Halyburton stood at bay before his captors, fists clenched, and shouted, "Shoot and be damned!"

A hidden German camera caught his defiance, and the picture later was smuggled into the United States. From it, Cyrus E. Dallin chiseled a statue with the words on the base, "Captured But Not Conquered."

Halyburton explained that the closing of Detroit's national banks last winter caused the failure of his barber shop and threw him into the job line.

PLANE CARRIES HOPE ACROSS CONTINENT

'Mystery Motive' Key To Defense in Rich Man's Slaying

A plane leaving Pittsburgh today, bound for California, carried a heavy freight of hope for Frieda Wilhelmina Augusta Weltz, jailed in Santa Cruz, Cal., charged with the murder of a wealthy retired shipping magnate.

An expert trial lawyer—John Duggan, Jr., of Pittsburgh—retained by Miss Weltz's Connellsville, Pa., family, was flying to her aid. His engagement indicated the gradual shaping of plans for a strong defense.

The woman, a 43-year-old nurse, has been held since September 11, after allegedly admitting the shooting of Francis Joseph Morgan Grace, Sr., wealthy former capitalist.

CHEER VS. DESPAIR

When her plight became known to her brother and sister, William and Meta Weltz, in Connellsville, they made plans to fly to her support. A telegraphed message of cheer was met only by despair, as she wired back:

"Would love to see you. Don't con - Useless."

They went, regardless.

But her situation today looked not quite so hopeless. Duggan will be aided by Attorney Stafford G. Smith, of Santa Cruz.

'MYSTERY MOTIVE'

A feature of the trial will probably be the mystery motive that led the nurse to plot and plan the killing for 18 months, if the confession is correct.

It is this motive that Miss Weltz said was "trivial" in the eyes of the ordinary person. It isn't romance, she is purported to have said.

But about that motive, trivial or weighty, will revolve the defense, according to present indication. It has been guarded closely by Attorney Smith and by her. It must come out at the trial.

Duggan will bring it out.

SCHOOLS UNFIT, EXPERTS SAY

Universal Service.

NEW YORK, Sept. 21.—Thousands of children throughout the country are attending school in buildings which do not meet even the minimum standards of lighting, ventilaton, sanitation or safety.

This was the charge leveled today by Dr. N. L. Engelhardt and Dr. George D. Strayer, professors of education at teachers college, Columbia University.

Basing their assertions on state and city surveys made in all parts of the country during the last decade, they urged replacement of thousands of school buildings with modern structures. They declared that 80 per cent of all rural schools and 50 per cent of all elementary school buildings in our cities are unfit for use by school children.

The federal government should start an immediate campaign to assist in eliminating these undesirable school buildings, they recommend, adding that good school buildings are as necessary for the advancement of teaching as good school teachers.

Seek to Free Flier Arrested in Mexico

MEXICO, D. F., Sept. 21.—(AP.)—The American consulate intervened today in the case of Mack R. Ayres, former Hollywood stunt flier, who is charged with simulating an airplane accident in the bay of Lower California.

Ayres was arrested in Mazatlan and freed in bail with permission to come to Mexico to attend to business matters, but on his arrival here was picked up by police and rearrested.

Latest Bedside Bulletins From The Ailing Dollar

—By ARTHUR 'BUGS' BAER—

Our dollar is weak in Paris because Europe is worrying over what is happening in America.

We got into a jam once worrying over what was happening in Europe.

We should sign a sudden treaty with the old world. From now on each continent is to do its own worrying.

The best recipe for health is not to get gray hairs in another man's toupee.

We will relieve Europe's anxiety by informing it that we are doing twice as good as it expected and 15 times better than it hoped for.

We had a tough four years. But a hard tooth brush is good for the gums.

Hope

There's a new moon tonight, and so I wonder
If you will see it—and if it will start
Some vague regrets for all the crashing thunder
Of bitter phrases rooted from the heart;
Is it not strange when pride has slowly cooled down
How one can miss a glance—a touch of hand—
And how the timid bow-boy that we ruled down
Can raise his havoc with the peace we planned?

How do you spend your time—are you pursuing
The fevered lures that help you to forget,
Or like a certain lad—are you renewing
Your joust with grief through nights as black as jet?

There's a new moon tonight—perhaps you'll see
Its radiance—and muse a bit on me!

"Swell," said Rogers, "then git a bit man to do it!"

"Yes, yes," replied the impatient chief, "what is the question?"

"Guess," was the teaser, "who this is."

Nick, the Greek, is the one sportsman in America, according to the widely known legend, who risks his coin on anything. The Greek, you must have heard, has won and squandered millions in a night.

"What'll we bet?" he was asked, "two-bits?"

"Naw," said Nick, "a dime."

Observation

Two of the cuties in one of the Broadway shows were felled by serious ailments last week and hastened to hospitals. It was revealed that at one hospital one of the gals was threatened with removal to a ward unless money was forthcoming within two hours. What some of us can't savvy is this. Both girls have been favorite companions of well known dandies—big money men—who were phoned about the girls' plight. That's the only good thing in being ill—it helps you find out which of your friends really are.

Helen Hayes As Tragic Queen

By GEORGE SEIBEL

The news that Helen Hayes is to appear under the auspices of the Theater Guild promises something that may be another theatrical landmark. Her play is by the same author who wrote "Elizabeth the Queen" for Alfred Lunt and Lynn Fontanne, and the heroine of Maxwell Anderson's new work is Mary Stuart. That revives memories of many famous plays, from Friedrich Schiller to John Drinkwater, and Anderson should produce a drama that will rank with any of them. His last play, 'Both Your Houses," had its premiere in Pittsburgh, was approved here, and afterward received the Pulitzer prize. Let us hope that we shall also have the first glimpse of "Mary of Scotland."

Mr. Seibel

The title of Anderson's new play revives many memories of great actresses who have appeared in this role, especially Modjeska and Janauschek. It also brings to mind the curious irony of that chapel in Westminster Abbey where those two queens, Elizabeth and Mary, who disliked and distrusted each other so much during life, lie peacefully a few feet apart from each other in death.

And I was also reminded of Edinburgh, of the long street that runs down from the Castle through the Canongate to Holyrood, where Mary spent some tragic years and is supposed to have bathed in wine while conniving at the murder of her husband in revenge for the murder of her favorite Rizzio.

Her life was the tragedy of a beautiful woman's weakness and sorrow, and Maxwell Anderson should be able to do it full justice. As for Helen Hayes—hardly any other actress could be so perfectly fitted for the insinuating pathos and passion of the Scottish queen.

Helen Hayes leaving the screen to return to the stage recalls what was said by Alfred Sutro, the English dramatist who died last week. He was best known by "The Walls of Jericho," which James K. Hackett played before over 2,000,000 people, and "The Two Virtues," in which E. H. Sothern scored one of his greatest hits. Sutro said this about stage and screen:

"The actor or actress loves to act, craves to act, and the apparently desirable proposition by which he or she could eliminate the hardships of the road and appear luxuriously but once in a play, is really, to the great actor, not desirable at all. The question of the lost applause and acclaim, and the fascination of the limelight, too, must be taken into account. These are things which can never be changed into dollars. The star's shadow would fail to satisfy."

Vaudeville

Frank Richardson, singer who has appeared in musical films, will be seen in the first vaudeville bill in the made-over Pitt, opening Friday, September 29.

Plays and Players

By WILLIAM J. LEWIS

With seats now on sale in the box office of the Nixon for the opening attraction of the new year in the legitimate theater, the season has at least reached the tangible status. Yet it is rather hazy, too, for nothing at all is known about the play that Eugene O'Neill has written, and which the Theater Guild will present with George M. Cohan at the head of the company. It has been intimated that "Ah, Wilderness" is a comedy. Well, Mr. O'Neill is full of surprises. That goes for the Guild, too, for who would have thought of Mr. Cohan as a Guild actor before it was announced he would be? Who except the overlords of the Guild?

The new management of the Pitt has lined up its show for the coming week, which will begin Friday, September 28. There will be eight acts of vaudeville and a feature picture, "Dance, Girls, Dance," the cast of which will be headed by Alan Dinehart and Evalyn Knapp. Among the variety acts will be Monica and Ann Skelly, singers and dancers. They are sisters of Hal.

Picture Minus Stars Is Lasky Plan

Jesse L. Lasky, producer for Fox, will shortly conduct a radical experiment in motion picture production when he will start work on a film without benefit of stars.

He will make this picture with "nonentities," he says, because he wants to veer away from trends—and the popular trend for a picture is to have from one to a dozen stars.

The production will be written by an accepted author and directed by one well known. But every player will be an "unknown."

Co-Ed Named Betty Gets Film Part

Betty Stoddard, Phoenix girl, who enters the junior class at the University of Southern California this fall, will play a part in "Wallis of Gold" with Sally Eilers and James Dunn. Her photograph was seen in a school paper by a casting agent.

All in a Day

By Mark Hellinger

The Columnist Returns to the Office

THE ELEVATOR MAN: Welcome back, Mr. Hellinger. We all missed you. How does the foot feel? That's good. Sure looks funny to see you on crutches. Ha, ha, ha. Yes, sir. Sure does look funny.

Guess those crutches make the arms pretty sore, eh? I thought so. I've been all through it, boy, and I know just what it feels like. Got your cast off yet? Oh, just today, eh? Well, you'll feel tougher now than you did before. I've been all through it, boy, and I know just what it feels like.

Here's your floor, Mr. Hellinger. Take your time getting out. As a matter of fact, you want to take your time in everything these days. Exercise your knee all you can, but don't overdo it. That's what my doctor told me, and he had me cured in less than a year.

I've been all through it, boy. I know just what it feels like. . . .

VOICE ON THE TELEPHONE: Hello, Mark, old kid. This is Dave Levy, of Nat Lewis, Inc. Just took a chance on calling you, and it certainly makes me happy to know that you're back on the old job again. Boy, I wouldn't take a million for this conversation!

By the way, you have a little bill with us that has evidently escaped your attention, and——. . .

A REPORTER: Remember that five I borrowed just before you broke your back? Well, if you'll lend me five more, I'll give you the whole ten back as soon as I get it. . .

AN ALVERTISING SOLICITOR: Now that you are back, Mr. Hellinger, we can finally go over something that I have had in mind for a long time. The basic principle of advertising salesmanship is first to convince the prospect that the medium is thoroughly practical as regards his needs.

With that thought in mind, I have prepared a little booklet that I carry with me at all times. If the prospect displays a propepsity to disagree with my assertions, I produce my booklet and show him letters that have been received by valued members of our staff. You, I might add, are included in that category. That should make you feel better, ha, ha, ha.

Accordingly, at your earliest convenience, I trust you will favor me with several hundred letters that I might include in my folio. It will assist me to an exceptional degree and I, once again basing my belief on the psychology of advertising, will endeavor to—

What's that? Did I hear you say you didn't know what the hell I was talking about? Why, Mr. Hellinger! . . .

IZZY KAPLAN, THE DEMON PHOTOGRAPHER: Vot's de idea of de crautches? Deed someting heppen to your foot?. .

VOICE ON THE TELEPHONE: Hello, Mr. Hellinger? This is MacDougall, of the MacDougall Ambulance Service. Just though I'd call and ask if that ambulance trip to Atlantic City was satisfactory and if you had a good time down there.

Everything was fine, eh. Well, that's great. I'm certainly happy to hear you're feeling well. And, by the way, while I'm on the wire, that little bill I sent you has evidently escaped your attention and— . . .

AN OFFICE BOY: You're no longer in show business, eh, Mark? You're out of the cast now! Ha, ha, ha . . .

AN INSURANCE AGENT: I told your secretary that it was most important that I see you. And it was, too, Mr. Hellinger. Important for you and highly important for your future.

I won't beat around the bush, sir. I'm an insurance agent, and I want to bring to you our combination policy that will appeal greatly to you and your loved ones. For as little as a dollar a week—imagine that, Mr. Hellinger, a dollar a week!—you will be protected against those doctors' bills that make such inroads into a man's salary.

We cannot insure your bad leg at this stage of the game, but we are ready to take a chance on the other one. You're liable to break the other leg or arm any day, you know, and we will be happy to pay you the sum of $50 a week while you are recovering. If you break both legs, we will pay you the tidy sum of $100 a week. And should you die, your widow will receive the sum of $10,000! Imagine how happy that will make her, Mr. Hellinger.

Then we have another policy that we call the super-marvel. The super-marvel covers not only leg and arm injuries, but applies equally to cracked skulls and broken backs. You never know, Mr. Hellinger, when your next accident will put you—

Here! Wait a minute! You can't have me put out like this, Mr. Hellinger! You can't do it, I say! You—you—you . . .

EDITOR—What do you think we're running here—an institution for your benefit? Why is it that you're the only guy on the staff who can't get his copy in on time? The paper was 20 minutes late last night just because of you. You've got to cut this nonsense out, you understand? Who do you think you are?

By the way, how's your leg? . . .

THE WATCHMAN—Got a great joke on you Mark. Thought of it one night when you was in the hospital. Well, it's more like a riddle than a joke. But anyway it goes like this:

Why is Hellinger like an actor now? Because he's in a cast! Ha, ha, ha, How's that, boy? I thought it up all myself. Ha, ha, ha . . .

THE BARBER: Well, Mr. Helling', how'sa you? Believe you me, I missa you here in thisa shop. Be careful how you getta into the chair, 'Attasaboy.

How'sa the knee? Looksa prett' stiffa to me. An' he'sa gonna be stiffa for a longa time. You betcha my life. I gotta frien' an' he'sa have the very same ting. He goa here. He goa there. He paya this doct'. He paya that doct'. And how much good it'sa do him? None!

There's onl' ona cure, Mr. Helling'. You go to Naples quick like you can go. You sticka your foot in the mud in Naples, and—boom! In two days you kicka your knee like a footsball player.

THE CITY EDITOR: Welcome home, kid. And let me give you a tip. Some of that stuff from the hospital was excellent. Keep it up. Just because you're out now, don't stop writing stuff along similar lines.

THE PUBLISHER: Welcome back. And now that you are back, cut down on that hospital stuff. Enough is enough.

* * *

THE WIFE: That's fine! You come home, and now you're all tired out. Didn't I tell you not to go downtown, you dope! . . .

Two Popular Stars Help Extras

By HARRISON C/ L

HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 21.—Extra people in Hollywood are singing the praises of Charles Farrell and George O'Brien as two stars who have risen from the ranks and who have not forgotten.

Handsome checks from Charlie and George went into the warchest which enabled two extra men, Casha and Read, to go to Washington and sit in on the film code hearings before Sol A. Rosenblatt.

Mr. Farrell

"I went into the thing because I was an extra myself for two and a half years," he said.

Unfortunately, the memories of some of the other stars are shorter. Charlie wrote letters to a dozen of them who once worked as atmosphere people. The only check received in reply was from George O'Brien.

Credit Rowland Brown, director, with the latest squelch elegant. He recently gave Sammy Finn a part in his picture and Sammy kicked about the scarcity of dialogue.

"Listen," snapped Rowland. "There's a guy around here named Charlie Chaplin, who never spoke a line on the screen in his life. And he's done all right."

Wonder what Lew Ayres thinks of this.

Miss Rogers

When Dorothea Wieck's picture, "Cradle Song," comes to your theater, watch the nuns and see how many famous stars of the past you can recognize.

There'll be Maud Fealy, former Morosco stage star; Margaret Fealy, also of Broadway; Rhea Mitchell, once a well-known film leading woman; Julanne Johnson, the dancer; Mary MacLaren, star of silent days; Carol Halloway, once with Vitagraph, and Ann Lehr, Ann Dvorak's mother and a well-known Broadway actress of a few years ago.

In addition Louise Dresser will play the prioress and Georgia Kane, of musical comedy fame, will portray the vicaress.

After waiting all this time to begin his picture, Francis Lederer took sick the day he was supposed to go to work . . . Too bad about a former well-known screen comedian. His friends are so worried about him that they are considering swearing out an insanity warrant.

Amelia's Mechanic Granted Divorce

CHICAGO, Sept. 21.—(AP.)—Louis E. (Slim) Gordon, mechanic for Amelia Earhart's transatlantic flight in 1928, was granted a divorce yesterday from the former Ann Bruce, of Brookline, Mass.

Gordon testified Miss Bruce deserted him in 1931. He said she was a member of Mayor James J. Walker's welcoming party on the tug Macon when they returned to New York from the flight, and that they met at that time.

Richest Race In Screen News

THE GLOBE TROTTER

The winning by Singing Wood of the Futurity, richest race in the world, is pictured in the current issue of Hearst Metrotone News. In the race, at Belmont Park, N. Y., Sir Thomas was picked as the probable winner and odds were 12 to 1 against Singing Wood. There was a terrific contest between the two. The Globe Trotter describes the race.

CRAFTON BANK REOPENING SPURRED

Depositors of the First National Bank of Crafton, which has been under restrictions since the banking holiday, have formed a committee to seek to speed the reopening of a bank.

A meeting will be held Monday at 8 p. m. in Crafton High School.

While independent of the old bank and of the proposed Crafton National Bank, the committee will seek to influence depositors in the old institution to subscribe for shares in the new.

Up to this time, about 60 per cent of the $110,000 necessary for the capital and surplus of the new bank has been subscribed, according to Roy A. MacGregor, chairman of the depositors' committee.

Officers in the new bank have been calling in the depositors of the old bank for conferences, and they have been slow to respond, MacGregor said.

The plan approved by the Comptroller of the Currency would make 60 per cent of the deposits in the old bank available for depositors as soon as the new bank is opened. From this amount, depositors are being called upon to subscribe for stock.

MacGregor stressed the point that members of the committee have all subscribed and are seeking to persuade others to do likewise in order to get action beneficial to all depositors.

Others on the committee are Frank Douglas, Dr. W. Earle Craig, Charles J. Bitzer, Charles H. Korns, John B. McClelland, W. J. Coulter, Roy J. Miller, Lawrence O'Toole, Daniel T. Felix and Frank Brady.

Forty additional members are to be appointed later.

The old fable of the hare and the tortoise is often applicable to saving. Small amounts deposited regularly in a Savings Bank grow amazingly.

It is an interesting experience to save—interesting and profitable. There is always a way.

TIME AND CHANGES TO IMPROVE LOCALS

National League professional football has won a home in Pittsburgh. The introduction of the commercialized gridiron sport under league auspices in this city last night was a great success from every angle, barring the defeat of the home team in the game itself, and that defeat was to have been expected in the first appearance of a newly formed eleven in the fastest and strongest division of American football. A perfect night, a fine turnout of 20,000 fans, the individual brilliance of the passing wizard, Harry Newman, and others, and a generally excellent exhibition that demonstrated present-day pro football is a game of the highest merit, made the debut of the salaried pastime here most auspicious.

Art Rooney

Ordinarily there wouldn't be much nourishment for the home fans in a 23-to-2 defeat, or in a game in which it was clear from the beginning that the visiting New York Giants were the superior team by a wide margin.

But it must be borne in mind that this was only Pittsburgh's start. It takes time to build up a team capable of coping with the best in this powerful league of post-graduate stars.

First you've got to get a full string of players of the right caliber, and then you've got to develop teamwork like that of the older and smoother machines in the league.

It can't be done in a jiffy, and, everything considered, it must be said that Art Rooney has laid a very promising groundwork on which to build, and that the showing of the Pirates on the whole was all that could have been expected of a green team that was just feeling its way in its first professional test. The locals have a game under their belt now and will improve with changes and experience.

Pittsburghers like pro football and they're going to like it more. There is plenty of room for the game here without interfering with the popularity of the college game.

STEEL BRACE USED TO MEND PITCHING ARM

Schoolboy Rowe, who looked like one of the pitching finds of the year for the Tigers until he suffered an arm injury on July 15 that refused to yield to treatment, is undergoing a new kind of doctoring which is expected to put him back in shape for a fresh start next spring.

To assure the absolute rest prescribed by the medicos, Rowe's right arm is propped up almost shoulder high by a steel and wire support. The brace starts at the pitcher's hip and runs to the shoulder, where it branches out in a half square that provides a perfect resting place for the arm. Rowe cannot change the position of the ailing wing. Whether he is walking, sitting, or lying in bed, the arm does not move. The contraption will not be removed for three weeks.

FREDERICK PREFERS BERTH WITH PHILS

Believe it or not, to borrow from Ripley, there is a ball player in the National League who wants to be sent to the Phillies if he is traded next winter. Most diamond athletes dread a transfer to the Quakers as the last word in baseball exile, but that's where Outfielder Johnny Frederick prefers to go if he has to leave the Dodgers.

Johnny Frederick

Frederick doesn't want to be traded, but he has been mentioned in rumors of coming Brooklyn deals, and he says that if he must depart from Flatbush a berth with the Phils is his preference. Other players probably will say it shows again that there's no accounting for taste. It's the bandbox park in Quakertown, with a chance for a fat batting average, that lures Johnny. He always hits well there and says if he could play 77 games in the undersize yard he would come close to leading the league in batting.

RISE OF ROSS RETARDED BY MAKEOVER

Boxing men say that Barney Ross, lightweight champion, might have arrived a year earlier, if it had not been found necessary to make him over. Starting out in Gig Rooney's stable, which featured Jackie Fields, Ross naturally copied the latter's style. Fields based his effectiveness on fast foot work, merely pawed with his right hand, and never set himself long enough to put much power behind a punch. Ross tried to do the things that Fields did and got nowhere.

When Barney left Rooney's stable to sign with Art Winch and Sam Pian, there was a change. The boxer's new managers proceeded to make him over, led him to give up the methods of Fields, and gradually shifted him to a combination of the fighting styles of Charley White and Earl Mastro. The wisdom of the course is reflected in the march of Ross to the championship.

DETZEL FOLLOWS IN MONTGOMERY'S STEPS

From 1927 to 1929, the Pitt Panthers had a very versatile football player on their squad, Ray Montgomery by name. He subbed for Alec Fox, one of Pitt's greatest guards, in 1927, started out at tackle in 1928, moved to center after the first game, and wound up his career in 1929 as an all-America guard.

Montgomery's counterpart, in the matter of shifts at least, may be found this season in Art Detzel, rugged Erie youth. Detzel came from East High in that city with a great reputation as a guard, and at that position he was the outstanding linesman on the Pitt freshman squad last fall.

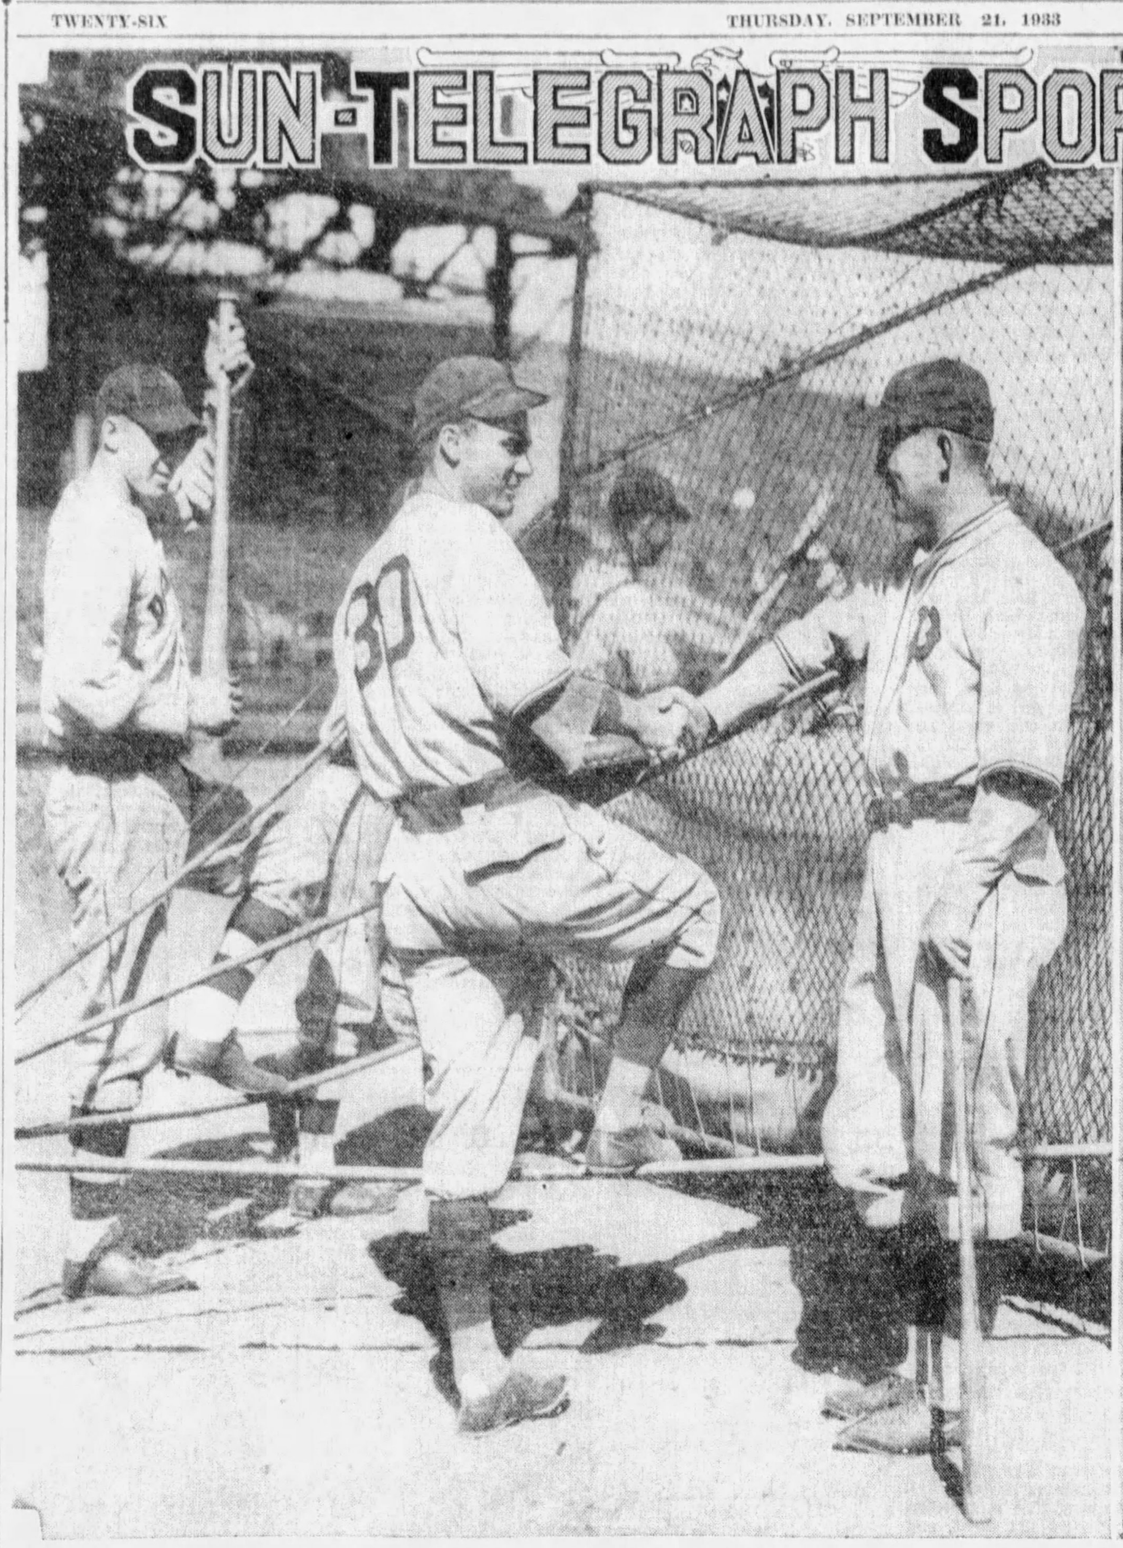
TRIED AT CENTER AND BECOMES TACKLE

In spring practice, Detzel was moved to center, as Coach Sutherland was seeking a permanent replacement for the graduated Joe Tormey. Art was still there when the spring drills ended, but later Dr. Sutherland revised his plans, and when the fall workouts opened, the Erie lad started with the guards. But one day the Panther coach looked over his roster and the tentative schedule for 1934, which calls for the Pitt gridders to go against Southern California, Notre Dame and Minnesota within a span of four weeks, and immediately he found another place for Detzel.

Art Detzel

The glance at the roster revealed to Jock that three of his present crop of tackles will be among the missing when the 1934 season arrives, Frank Walton, John Meredith and John Love all being due to leave in the meantime. This would leave only Stanley Olejnicsak to leading the league in batting.

and Bob Hoel, of the tried material, and Gene Stoughton, a lightweight sophomore who has yet to prove his worth. So Detzel was moved to tackle, and there he's scheduled to stay in the hope that the shifting will work out as well as it did in the case of Montgomery at guard, which is what might be called a large order.



LARRY FRENCH (RIGHT) AND EARL GRACE SAY GOODBYE FOR YEAR TO FORBES FIELD . . . . THEY'RE FINE BATTERY MATES

"Well, Earl, old top," says Pitcher Larry French to his catcher, "it looks as if they don't want us around here any more until next spring. They're bringing in the Football Pirates and I guess it's time for use to scram." Which marks the farewell to arms for baseball at Forbes Field for the 1933 season, the home schedule having ended yesterday as Bill Swift pitched the Buccos to a fine 3-0 triumph over the Brooklyn Dodgers. Young Etten, 19, is the promising outfielder and first baseman bought from Davenport, of the Western League, who will get a thorough tryout next year. He's a good hitter. These are Pittsburgh Spn-Telegraph pictures.

PIRATES WIN FINAL CONTEST AT HOME

The Pirate household today was busy packing, but the boys will be unable to take along second-place honors and money when they shove off for St. Louis tonight. Nevertheless, the feeling in the Buccaneer family was that it would cut the largest piece of world series pie, other than that which goes to the flagwinners.

The Buccos achieved a neat victory over the Dodgers yesterday as they closed the Forbes Field season. Bill Swift limited the visitors to four singles as he landed a shutout success. The score was 3 to 0.

Six out-of-town fights remain on the Pittsburgh playing card. Four of these will be run off in St. Louis in a series that gets under way at the home of the Redbirds tomorrow. After finishing up at St. Louis, the Buccos will barnstorm for a short period before traveling to Cincinnati to ring down the curtain with two games.

Swift pitched one of his best games in the local finale yesterday. Bill did not allow a batter to reach first base until two were out in the fifth inning. He was opposed through seven rounds by Walter Beck.

Adios, Lads!

FORMER JOCKEY DEAD

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Sept. 21. (AP.)—William Walker, famed Negro jockey of the '70s died yesterday. He won the 1877 Kentucky Derby astride Back Baden, and rode Ten Broeck to victory in his famous match race with Mollie McCarthy at Churchill Downs in 1878.

SPORT VIGNETTES

All Carnegie Tech has lost from last year in the way of football timber are Hooks Sample, guard; George Kavel, halfback; Red Jones, center; Harry McCurdy, quarterback; Stu Dueger, quarterback; Wilbur Plummer, tackle; Ray Tesser, end; Tony Ostrosky, end; Tony Kebe, guard; Jacques Croissant, tackle; Tom Coulter, halfback, and Jerry Seigel, center —that's ALL . . . Which is why Coaches Howard Harpster and Don Lovewell have real reason to "fear Purdue," which is met on November 4.

Leonard Litman, formerly of Braddock, now is publicity director and editor of the newspaper at Shenandoah College, Dayton, Va. . . . Harry Gordon, of Braddock, is down there with him and is on the football squad.

It is estimated that the new rule in college football calling for time out while the ball is brought in 10 yards from the sideline any time it is declared dead within that area will add upward of 12 minutes to the time required to play an average game . . . It is figured the procedure will kill about 30 to 50 seconds per operation and that it will be repeated an average of from 15 to 20 times . . . Which is something you probably hadn't thought about.

The success of Ted Yarosz, the Monaca middleweight, with his speed and awkwardly clever style against Vince Dundee and other leading contenders reminds us of the case of the late Harry Greb, who went on to win the world middleweight and American light-heavyweight titles, although in the beginning his opponents were inclined to disparage his efforts . . . There was, for instance, the time Greb met Battling Levinsky at Forbes Field . . . Levinsky had gained fame by slapping around the big heavyweights, although he himself was only a light-heavyweight.

Greb started off at a blistering pace against the cagy veteran and piled up a sizable lead . . . Dan Morgan, Levinsky's manager, pleaded with the Battler to step on the gas, to which Levinsky smiled a knowing smile, the while saying: . . . "Don't worry; he'll slow down." . . . But Greb didn't slow down . . . Instead he kept getting faster as the bout wore on and finished in a swirl of speed that left his opponent dazed . . . In time Greb's ring genius came to be generally recognized and he was accepted as a fistic marvel, which is just about what young Teddy Yarosz is at the moment.

Only failure to land a championship match can keep Teddy from following in the footsteps of three other Western Pennsylvanians, Frank Klaus, George Chip and Greb, and winning the middleweight championship of the world.

Maybe we should have locked up Harry Newman and Ken Strong with the Trained Seals when we had 'em in the WCAE studios last night, and then the Pittsburgh Pirates would have had a chance against the New York Giants at Forbes Field a few hours later. . . . But Newman said this pro business was new stuff to him, and Strong said he wasn't in shape and hadn't had time to learn the signals and probably wouldn't get into the game, anyway. . . . Well, we all learn. . . . It all comes under the head of being taken in by a couple of city slickers.—HARRY KECK.

39,963 Fans See A. A. Title Series

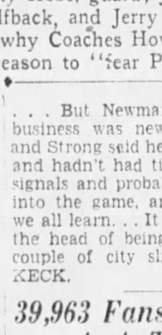
The championship series was won by Columbus, four games to two.

BASEBALL COMEDY

By NICK ALTROCK

WASHINGTON, Sept. 21. — Griff said to me today, "For the world series, Nicholas, you have been officially named a coach."

I said, "If I can't be a Pullman, then being coach is the next best thing."



Nick Altrock

Griff said, "Your duty will be to coach the runners at first."

I said, "That is right up my alley. When base runners reach first, I deliver 'em at third if I have to send 'em through the pitcher's box."

"Griff said, "In addition to coaching at first I will expect you to do your comic antics all over the field."

"I said, "I see. I'm supposed to coach at first and be funny all over the field. You ain't got me mixed with the Four-Marx Brothers, have you?"

Griff said, "And in your spare time I'd like to have you paint some fresh foul lines and sweep out the dugout."

"I said, "That's fine, boss. When I used to pitch in world series, I was always afraid of a sore arm. But the only thing I'm liable to get this world series is housemaid's knee. Oh, well—c'est la guerre!"

HUBBELL MAY BE DECIDING SERIES FACTOR

(This article, dealing with the pitchers, is the first of a series of five comparing the different departments of the Giants and Senators as they make ready to clash in the coming World Series.)

By CHARLES J. DOYLE

Back in 1905, a pitching gent named Mathewson painted an unmatched World Series masterpiece as he reeled off shutout victories while the Giants trimmed the Athletics in the competition for baseball's biggest title. Yes, Matty was the real McCoy.

The scene changes to 1933 and the Giants have another Mathewson. At least this writer, in midsummer, figured Carl Hubbell to be great enough to be known as a lefthanded Mathewson and since that time, Honus Wagner, who speaks with real authority on the question, believes the New York southpaw deserving of a niche near Matty's.

CRONIN'S CREW AGGRESSIVE

Now the sequence of this chapter may not be as you expect it to be. It will not be written here that Carl Hubbell, with his screwball on tap, will shut the door in the faces of the Washington Senators for 27 innings. In the first place the Athletics of 1905 were not fighters to be compared with Joe Cronin and his band; besides, Carl will likely discover a rabbit when he essays to throw the American League ball. The presence of the great lefthander in the National League lineup should serve to offset any advantage otherwise held by the hustling lads under the Cronin banner.

One great pitcher often dominates a World Series. The short competition is in the alley of a team which expects its ace to come through twice or even three times. The Giants and Senators each has three outstanding sharpshooters ready for duty. The pitchers referred to are Hubbell, Schumacher and Fitzsimmons, of the Giants, and Whitehill, Crowder and Weaver, of the Senators.

Over a long stretch of games a fair verdict doubtless would give the American League team an advantage in the pitching department. But with Hubbell working with his own ball and in his home park the whole situation is changed.

WHITEHILL HAS COURAGE

Whitehill gets a lot of stuff on the ball, and there are quite a few lefthanders who have as much natural skill.

The two young managers are likely to deal out some pitching thrills. Cronin has two clever southpaws in Burke and Stewart, who may have a say in the coming clashes. Terry, Ott and Moore are not so hot against the southpaws.

He expects to have an important announcement to make within a few days.

POLICE LINES SWEPT ASIDE BY FANS

NEW YORK, Sept. 21.—(AP.)—Having survived one riotous welcome, the New York Giants were scheduled for another today before playing their first game as 1933 National League champions against the Brooklyn Dodgers.

When their special train pulled in, last night, from St. Louis, the Giants found a crowd of some 20,000 excited fans waiting for them; two bands were tooting away as hard as they could, and Manager Bill Terry and his men had a hard time escaping undamaged as police lines were swept aside in a mad rush to greet the team.

PLAYERS CHEERED

In the midst of the tumult the crowd smashed through the police lines. They tossed Terry around like a double-play ball, and tiny Hughie Critz was continually coming out from under somebody's elbow. Mel Ott, Lefty O'Doul, George Davis, Carl Hubbell, Hal Schumacher, Roy Parmelee, Travis Jackson, Blondy Ryan, all fought for their breath as the shouting fans, most of them youngsters, ripped at their clothes, howling:

"Atta boy! Atta boy!"

Terry refused to commit himself about his plans for the World Series in the few moments he had for answering questions before the rush started last night. He said:

"I don't know who'll pitch the first game against the Senators. I'm going to rest the boys all I can. I haven't had time to think about anything yet."

NATS STILL OUT

Delayed by a belated rush of the New York Yankees and by their own failure to win a couple of games from the last-place St. Louis Browns, the Washington Senators were still waiting at the door of pennantland today.

The Senators were only one game away from a mathematical certainty today after snapping their brief losing spell with a 13-to-5 triumph over the Browns yesterday. They could clinch the flag this afternoon with another triumph over St. Louis or by winning any one of the next six contests.

Once they were counted out of the race in actual if not mathematical terms, the Yanks eased up in their efforts and promptly began to play better ball. When they defeated the Chicago White Sox by a 5-3 count yesterday, it was their thirteenth victory against two defeats and a tie in their last 16 games. And Danny MacFayden, who went the full route, was the eleventh successive Yankee pitcher to hurl a complete game.

Pittsburgh's entry in the big league of professional football turned out to be a financial, if not an artistic success. Although the local Pirates were routed in decisive fashion by the powerful New York Giants last night at Forbes Field, 23 to 2, the disappointment of the crowd of 20,000 in the defeat of the home eleven was more than assuaged by the thrills provided by the spectacular play of Harry Newman, Ken Strong and Reb Russell, crack Giant backs.

The locals demonstrated that they are not yet ready to play on even terms with such elevens as the Giants. The Pirate kicking was poor and the aerial defense sadly lacking. Also, the Pittsburgh line was unable to withstand the pounding of Russell late in the game, when New Yorkers piled up their big margin.

NEWMAN BIG STAR

Newman, all-America quarterback at Michigan last year, more than lived up to advance notices. He passed and ran like the champion he is and gave a generally thorough demonstration.

Ken Strong, the former New York U. star, who, back in 1923, led the Violets to a victory over Carnegie Tech here that cost the Tartans the Eastern intercollegiate championship, tallied the first touchdown in the opening period when he intercepted a pass by Angel Brovelli, local halfback, and raced 33 yards for the score. He followed by booting the extra point.

This score stood until the third quarter, when the Pirates received a break. Holm's punt was batted out of bounds by a teammate on the Giants' two-yard line. Strong dropped back to kick out of danger, but the boot was blocked by Oehler, Pirate center, and converted into a safety.

The next shift of fortune favored the Giants. They punted from their own goal line. Jimmy Clark fumbled and Jones recovered for the Giants in mid-field. Then the big parade started.

RUSSELL HARD HITTER

Hard pressed the locals punted, and Newman, to show his versatility, kicked a field goal from the 30-yard line. Just before the finish, Newman threw a perfect 38-yard pass to Burnett, who trotted over the goal line for the final score.

Football fans once before had a taste of Strong. He has not changed in the years. Before the game he told the writer he likely would not start because he had been with the club only one week and was not sure of the signals. After the game he said he did not have to know signals to intercept passes, but just needed to be in the right spot.

Coach Jap Douds and President Art Rooney, of the Pirates, were satisfied after the game that the team will come through. It takes time to weld together a good professional club. A good punter would have made all the difference in the world last night.

The Giants scored 14 first downs to one for the Pirates. The Wolverine's famous passes found seven out of 14 attempts being completed.

CARDS BEAT HOOSIERS

INDIANAPOLIS, Sept. 21.—A blocked punt for a safety gave the Chicago Cardinals a 2-0 victory over Indianapolis in a National Professional League football game here last night. The Cards twice got to the five-yard line.

'All-America Stars On WCAE Program

Two of the members of the All-America Board of Football All-America team of last fall were guest speakers of the Trained Seals of the Sports Department of the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph in their weekly broadcast over WCAE at 7 o'clock last night. They were Paul Moss, end, of Purdue, now playing for the Pittsburgh Professionals, and Harry Newman, Michigan quarterback, now with the New York Giants.

Others on the program included Ernie Quigley, National League baseball umpire and famous football official, explaining the rules changes, and Angel Brovelli, Jap Douds and Jim Tanguay, of the Pittsburgh Pros, and Ken Strong, of the New York Giants.

Beginning next week, Harry Keck, sports editor, will present his Trained Seals programs on Thursday nights at 7:15.

GRID OPENER TONIGHT

The Rox Rangers and the Tarentum Firemen will inaugurate the Sandlot Conference football season tonight at Tarentum. This is a Section 1 duel.

EXPLANATION OF RIPLEY'S CARTOON OF YESTERDAY: THE REVOLVING MONUMENT—The Granite Monument over the grave of W. A. Hulbert, president of the National League from 1876-1882, originally was set up in such a fashion that the inscription representing the Western teams of Chicago, Cleveland, Buffalo and Detroit faced in a westerly direction, while that representing the Eastern teams of Boston, Providence, Worcester and Troy faced East. The designer of the monument, who visited the cemetery one day, was greatly astonished to find that the Western teams faced East, and vice versa. The ball seemed very steady on its base. A short time later it was discovered that the ball again had begun to turn slightly. A study of the problem led to the conclusion that, due to the action of the sun, the ball was steadily and slowly revolving on a pin which fastens it to the base. It turns a little faster in the winter, due perhaps to the absence of a shading foliage in the cold season.

BYE ADVANCES LOCAL NINE TO FINALS

Dayton and Youngstown meet in a semi-final clash in the National Baseball Federation tourney at Greenlee Field this afternoon at 4:30 o'clock with the winner meeting Pittsburgh tomorrow and Saturday for the title.

Immaculate Heart, representing Pittsburgh in the tourney, suffered its first defeat yesterday at Greenlee Field losing to Youngstown, 5 to 3.

While his mates were hitting Gomski and Anderson freely, Costello, Youngstown twirler, limited the local attack to six hits. Four of these came in the third inning when two runs were scored.

Youngstown got to Gomski in the second frame, and the third stanza found Swede Anderson going to his relief.

While the locals were being tamed for the first time in the tourney, Cleveland, the defending champion, was eliminated at Frick Park by Dayton, 9 to 0.

STARS ADVANCE IN TOURNEY

By PAUL G. SULLIVAN

Quarter-final play stands out on this aftenoonr's card of action in both the Harvard Cup interscholastic singles title tourney and the Stanton Heights invitation men's doubles conelave. Hostilities in the Crimson event shift today from Shady Side Academy to Arnold School.

Three tussles loom on the school card, Ralph Bald, Mt. Lebanon star and tourney favorite, having achieved the semi-finals yesterday by out-steadying diminutive Allerton Miller, Shady Side contender, 6-0, 6-2.

Yesterday's lone Stanton match, involving Bob Schmertz and King Moore, Edgeworth pair, with Sam Keller and Bill Servick, College Avenue duo, was postponed until today. Meanwhile Frank Broida and McCook Reed, Edgewood array and second outfit of the seeded group, battle their clubmates, John Brown and Eddie Alcorn, in quarter-final feature.

Billy O'Loughlin, captain of the 1932 Pitt tennis team, left last night for Washington, D. C., where today he will matriculate at Georgetown University to begin four years of medical study.

A Pittsburgh team of four performers will trek to Leechburg Saturday for the second annual tussle with the clever crew representing the Kiski Valley town. John Brown, Eddie Alcorn, Russ Unger, and the writer will comprise the Steel City delegation.

FIGHT RESULTS

HEARST SWIM ENTRY GROWS

Universal Service.

CHICAGO, Sept. 21.—The field of entrants in the first annual William Randolph Hearst-Herald and Examiner 15-mile swim marathon continues to grow daily. Eighteen entries were received today, bringing the total to 144.

A perusal of the entries discloses the fact that there are more out of town entrants than local ones, the majority being from distant points both in United States and Canada.

Europe is represented by its champion, Gianni Gambi, of Ravenna, Italy. Indiana, Michigan, Pennsylvania, Texas, Ohio and Maryland, were the states represented in today's entry list.

NIGHT WORKOUT ENDS TRAINING

By JESS CARVER

There has been a Bachtel at West Virginia Wesleyan almost as long as there has been college, which is a pretty long time, and as long as there has been a Bachtel playing football Wesleyan elevens have been unusually prominent and formidable for a small school.

There's another, the third of a trio of brothers, at Wesleyan this year and he'll be in there at quarterback against the Dukes here tomorrow night as the Night Riders play the second game of the season. This Bachtel, young Howard, is said to be as good as were his two brothers, Art and Roy. If he's only half as good as Art, he'll be plenty tough.

TO DRILL TONIGHT

The Dukes will taper off for tomorrow's encounter with a lengthy drill under the light tonight. Coaches Layden and Bach are withholding the announcement as to the starting lineup, but it figures to resemble very closely the one that went to bat against Waynesburg last week.

Judge Walter P. Steffen, the well-known Chicago jurist, who'll never go by anything but Wally hereabouts, is checking his law books for a few days and will arrive here tomorrow for a brief stay with Coach Howard Harpster and his Carnegie Tech gridders.

Judge Steffen (get that respect angle, Wally?) resigned as head coach at Tech last year, but was retained on the school's football committee. During his stay here, he'll go over plans for the season with Harpster and Don Lovewell, the line coach, and check the work accomplished by the youthful mentors to date.

NICKSICK SHINES

When the Panthers first were called together, Howdy O'Dell and Leo Malarkey figured as the outstanding candidates for the job, but now, sturdy Mick Nicksick has entered the picture and his entry has been a forceful one. Mike was Heller's understudy last year until he lost a couple decisions to his books and was waived out of the league. But he's back again, tougher than ever, and may beat O'Dell out for the job.

In the see-saw fight for the fullback berth between Dutch Weisenbaugh and Izzy Weinstock, the Tarentum Dutchman scored yesterday by being placed on the first team ahead of Weinstock.

OPEN GOLF TEST ON

CHARLESTON, W. Va., Sept. 21.—Kermit Hutchinson, assistant pro at the Kanawha Club, and Braxton Davenport, of Charleston, carded a 71, one under par, to win yesterday's pre-amateur golf event, a preliminary to the state open championship tournament opening here today.

HARRY NEWMAN KEN STRONG

Newman, All-America quarterback at Michigan last year, and Ken Strong, former New York University star, heroes of New York Giants' 23-2 victory over the Pittsburgh Pirates in the latter team's first National Professional Football League game at Forbes Field last night before 20,000 fans. Newman's exhibition was especially dazzling. Pair are shown here looking over Fintex trophies to be awarded local high school teams and recalling the days when they, too, battled for trophies and letters instead of for money as professionals in football. These are Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph pictures.

Tidball Beats Vines In Coast Net Play

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 21.—(AP.)—Ellsworth Vines ended a disastrous tennis season in the tournament from which he started his rise to international heights.

After driving to match point in the quarter-finals of the Pacific Southwest singles yesterday, the tall Pasadena youth suddenly broke and dropped seven straight games and the match to Jack Tidball, national intercollegiate champion, 1-6, 6-4, 7-5.

The other two quarter-final matches ran true to form. Fred Perry, England's Davis cup star, easily defeated John Van Ryn, of the American Davis cup team, 6-1, 6-3. Lester Stoefen, Los Angeles giant, turned back Ryosuke Nunoi, young Japanese star, 6-4, 6-4.

A mild upset was scored by Miss Carolin Babcock, Los Angeles, when she won her way to the semi-finals by defeating Miss Mary Heely, England, 7-5, 7-5.

Miss Alice Marble, San Francisco; Mrs. L. A. Harper, Oakland, and Miss Dorothy Round, England, also survived the quarter-finals.

FOOTBALL SAFE --WARNER

By GLENN S. (POP) WARNER,
Member, All-America Board of Football

Several days ago a great many newspapers throughout the country carried headlines to the effect that Dr. Mal Stevens, former head coach of Yale, predicted that there would be between 30 and 40 fatalities among football players this season.

Pop Warner

Dr. Stevens was giving a talk on the prevention and care of football injuries and 40 fatalities to a large group of coaches gathered in New York. I heard that talk and Dr. Stevens was calling attention to the reduction of serious injuries which the recent changes in the rules had brought about. He explained there might be that number of fatal injuries if the young men and boys playing the game were not properly safeguarded by proper coaching, by thorough medical examination, by the right kind of equipment and by intelligent treatment of minor injuries. My young associate writer, Eddie Casey, of Harvard, very effectively has expressed his views on Dr. Stevens' remarks, but I would like to add a few thoughts from the standpoint of an oldtimer.

STATEMENT STARTLING

It is natural that the statement of a prominent coach, that 30 of 40 fatalities might result during the approaching football playing season, may startle fond parents whose boys are playing the game, but we only have to analyze the situation to learn that even that number of deaths actually proves that football is a pretty safe game to play. It is very conservative to say that there will be over 500,000 boys and young men playing football this fall and even if there were 50 deaths there would be only one for each 10,000 who are playing the game.

Investigation has proved that at least three-fourths of the fatal accidents to football players are among boys who are playing on vacant lots or fields unsuitable for the game, and among boys who are not properly protected by the right kind of equipment and who are not in physical condition to play such a strenuous game.

NOT DANGEROUS GAME

Compared with other sports and recreations of young men and boys, it is my opinion that football is not a dangerous game. In 40 years of active association with the game I never have seen a more serious injury than a broken bone in the lower leg.

Parents can rest assured that if their boys are playing football there is not as much chance of them being brought home on a stretcher as there would be if he were swimming, boating, fishing, hunting, bicycling or automobiling.

STOCK MARKET SKIES AGAIN OVERCAST

NEW YORK, Sept. 21.—Security market skies were again overcast today and only an occasional ray of optomistic sunshine broke through the lowering trade clouds.

A continuation of yesterday's sharp liquidation lapped over into the early hours and prices of both stocks and bonds broke 1 to 3 or more points before some moderate support stemmed the tide. As in the previous session, the activity expanded on the downswing and slowed down perceptibly on the rallies. Grains and cotton gave no encouragement to equities, both categories showing renewed weakness. Other commodities were rather heavy. The dollar at the same time, recovered in foreign exchange dealings.

A number of leading shares got back part of their morning's losses. Some of the more depressed utility stocks displayed resistance, notably Consolidated Gas and Public Service of New Jersey, which moved up a point or more each. American Telephone just about held its own. The rails were heavy most of the time, declines of 1 to 2 or more being registered by Union Pacific, New York Central, Baltimore and Ohio and Santa Fe. The metals retrieved some of their lost ground. Among losers of fractions to around a point or more were American Can, du Pont, Allied Chemical Western Union, Chrysler, Case, General Motors, National Distillers and United States Industrial Alcohol.

One of the reasons for the recent eccentric gyrations of security prices, in the opinion of Wall street, is the extremely low level to which the short interest has fallen. Higher taxes and margin requirements, the stringent regulations on pool operations and general uncertainties regarding the government's fiscal program have thinned the ranks of bear traders to such an extent that sizeable short transactions are rare. Brokers claim that a substantial short position is necessary to cushion and stabilize any declining movement. Without this covering support, it is contended, stocks are quickly unsettled by even moderate liquidation.

Aside from the lack of a large short interest, market observers report that over-extension of some operators, especially in the erstwhile buoyant metals, was a disconcerting factor. With the price of gold reaching new daily highs, and the dollar slumping to historical lows, a huge following was attracted to the mining issues which were expected to benefit by the gold situation. Under the present close scrutiny of margins, however, it was found that various bulls were more heavily committed than the rules allowed. Attempts to correct unbalanced accounts found the market thin in some issues and sharp reactions followed.

The recent decrease in the velocity of credit is generally viewed as a reflection of the slowing down of industrial activity from its July peak. The August turnover of demand deposits in banks, allowing for seasonal factors, was found to be some 18 per cent slower than in July and around 2.5 under that of the same 1932 month. The velocity of bank deposits in September, advance estimates indicate, may show a moderate decline from August.

GRAINS SUFFER SETBACKS

CHICAGO, Sept. 21.—Sharp setbacks of grain prices early today followed a steep tumble in British exchange, together with weakness of securities and cotton at New York. Large Russian shipments of wheat were a bearish factor. Opening 1¼-2⅛ cents lower, wheat afterward held near the initial range. Corn started ⅝-1⅛ down, and subsequently altered little.

More than 3 cents downturn of wheat values as compared with yesterday's finish was soon witnessed. Selling was general in character. Corn and oats prices gave way with wheat. Despite hog price upturns, provisions reflected grain market weakness.

Facts Reveal Real Response By Consumers

—By B. C. FORBES—

A SHOE salesman in a high-priced retail store declares that last Saturday was the second-busiest day this year—the busiest was the Saturday before Easter.

Mr. Forbes

Another shoe clerk, in a low-priced store, states that the rush of customers was so great last Saturday that it was impossible to wait on them promptly and properly.

Both noted this fact: Many of the customers were wearing shabby footwear. Obviously, they had delayed buying until the last moment possible.

From other mercantile sources I learn that buying has lately picked up notably. Some of the buying has been prompted by the "buy now" campaign, but not a little of it is due to sheer necessity. It is clear that many individuals and families have used up all their reserve supplies of necessaries.

ONE WOMEN'S hat store, which announced a special sale, was so swamped with customers that it had actually to lock its doors until the crowd inside could be served.

Automobile dealers tell me that the once chronic used car problem has been largely solved, that a greater percentage of buyers than ever before do not offer any "trade-ins." Here, also, buying is prompted by absolute necessity.

Evidence comes from many diverse sources that people now can be induced to buy. One example: General Mills, Inc., states:

"Advertising by millers and bakers throughout the United States during a week's intensive campaign increased consumption of farm products by a total of 65,000,000 eggs, 3,750,000 pounds of sugar and 1,327,500 pounds of flour. This increase was additional consumption over and above normal use of these products."

Again: President E. D. Levy of Fisk Rubber, recently launched newspaper advertising with the result that within a relatively brief period 2,736 men and women had to be added to the payroll.

In New York, at least, leading merchants cannot be accused of extending only niggardly NRA co-operation. Department store and specialty store advertising has been increased enormously. Such inquiries as I have been able to make suggest that consumers are responding encouragingly.

UNFORTUNATELY, similarly aggressive action is not being taken in the financial world; nor are all large industrial corporations going vigorously after business by increasing their advertising and their sales efforts.

Partly because the federal securities act has paralyzed new offerings of capital, partly because of acute uncertainty over what may be done inflationwise, partly because of hesitancy concerning the ultimate upshot of NRA's revolutionary activities, a disposition has become evident in high-up circles to act cautiously.

Caution is all very well under normal conditions, but caution carried to the extreme of cowardice under existing conditions simply courts chaos.

If the rank and file of consumers are willing to spend, surely it is shortsighted for bankers, manufacturers and other employers to hold back at this crucial stage of the program to bring about thoroughgoing recovery.

THE NEW president of Southern California Edison, Harry J. Baur, is quoted by M. S. Rukeyser as having told him that a dirt farmer will be added to the corporation's directorate.

This is significant as well as interesting.

Directors are destined to become less and less the exclusive bodies most of them have been heretofore. Two classes will be more adequately represented in the future, namely, ordinary stockholders and customers. Indeed, a third class, labor, probably will have a member on most boards.

Have you noticed lately that various corporations have been forced by stockholders to reveal the salaries paid executives? In the past, executive salaries were considered none of the stockholders' business.

The prospect is that stockholders from now on will sanction the payments of fewer fat bonuses to executives, and that they will insist upon voicing their views as to the maximum amount which should be voted any executive.

Our railway overlords in Washington, for example, are assiduously seeking to abolish $100,000 a year (or higher) payments.

In short, the real owners of American enterprises, stockholders, exhibit determination to delve into the actions of managements. It is a healthy sign and should have salutary results.

Serious Shortage Of Feed on Farms

WASHINGTON, Sept. 21.—(AP.)—American farmers face the most serious feed shortage in many years, exceeding even scarcity caused by the widespread drought of 1930.

This was reported today by the bureau of agricultural economics after a survey of this summer's drought damage. It said that the feed shortage this year is further complicated by sharp increases in the number of livestock for which feed is required.

FRANCE CHIEF GOLD PRICE FACTOR

By LEWIS HANEY

Professor of Economics, New York University.

NEW YORK, Sept. 21. — As pointed out yesterday, there is no reason to anticipate any decrease in the demand for gold.

The abandonment of the gold standard in the United States has not caused our central banking system to cease buying gold. Similarly, in England, the bank continues to buy gold.

As long as any central bank continues to buy, the value of gold is maintained at the bank's buying price. It may be said that the lower limit of the price of gold is the statuary buying price in the country which has the strongest currency. Today, therefore, France is probably the determining factor as to how low the price of gold might fall.

PRICE MAY RISE

But as long as people everywhere demand gold, and desire to hold it, the price is maintained, and may rise above the lower limit.

Gold has a unique position as a means of "hoarding." It stores and carries value. The more a country suffers from depreciation in its currency, the more its citizens seek to hoard gold.

In fact, the suspension of gold standards seems merely to increase the desire of men to acquire and hold the definite and relatively stable values which gold affords. Concrete evidence of this appears in the strength of gold mining shares on our markets, even though the government will not let us have the metal.

WAYS TO MEASURE

There are two ways to measure or express the value of gold. One is in terms of paper or other currencies. The other is in terms of commodities.

When the government announces that the price of gold is $31 an ounce, it is measuring the value in paper dollars. This "price" is more than 50 per cent higher than was formerly paid before the government started to weaken the buying power of the dollar.

In fact, the dollar price of gold is up just because the dollar is down.

When, however, we figure how much steel or cotton or wheat or other commodities an ounce of gold will buy, we are measuring its value in terms of real buying power.

Looked at in this way, gold has not risen much in value. When we reduce dollar prices to a gold basis, we find that commodities other than gold have not risen. This means that the value of gold in commodities has not fallen.

QUOTED IN PAPER MONEY

You see that under the gold standard, when prices rise all along the line, we know that the value, or purchasing power, of gold is lower. But when we are off the gold standard, and their prices rise as they have been doing, we don't necessarily know what change has occurred in the value of gold.

Gold then becomes like other commodities in that its price is generally quoted in paper money. As a matter of fact, gold has been rising in dollar prices somewhat faster than most commodities.

When the world situation is mixed, and some nations are on, while others are off the gold standard; then if we have a general rise in world prices both in gold standard nations and others, we may draw the following conclusions:

3—Measured by comparison with other commodities, gold tends to decline a little in value.

But if the price level rises more in the countries off gold than in the gold standard countries, exchange is against the "off" countries, and they lose gold. Then gold itself tends to become more valuable in comparison with other commodities.

In the United States, for example, gold has risen over 50 per cent in dollar price, while the average of other commodities has not gone up that much.

JURY FREES 6 IN SLAYING

HARRISBURG, Sept. 21.—(AP.)—Six men are free of murder charges in the death of Doris Whitmore, found slain in her home September 30, 1931.

The Dauphin County grand jury yesterday ignored the charges against James O'Hara, of Pittsburgh, Harry Crist, of Reading, and Aldo Magnelli, William W. Brashears, Michael A. Carricato and Michael Ceilicia, alias Skeets, alias Thomas Pinto, all of Harrisburg.

The case had been continued from the June session at the request of District Attorney Richards, who at that time informed the court there was not then sufficient evidence to warrant an indictment.

Since then, James Edward Maxwell, Harrisburg Negro, principal witness for the commonwealth, has been missing.

Lindbergh's Baby Son On Way to Jersey

ROCKLAND, Me., Sept. 21.—(INS.)—In the arms of his nurse, Miss Betty Gow, and guarded by detectives, Jon Lindbergh, son of Colonel and Mrs. Charles A. Lindbergh came here by motor boat from North Haven late yesterday and boarded a train for Englewood, N. J.

OBITUARY

Frost Funeral.

Funeral services for Thomas L. Frost, 62, of 2128 Colorado street, North Side, will be held at St. Andrew's Church, North Side, at 9 a. m. tomorrow.

Frost, one of the oldest motormen for the Pittsburgh Railways Company, died in St. John's Hospital Monday, after collapsing in the control compartment of his street car Friday.

He leaves a sister, Mary Frost, and two brothers, Joseph and Vincent, who lived with him; three other brothers, Charles B. Frost and the Rev. Brother F. Joachim Frost, of Pittsburgh, and James B. Frost, Jr., of Troy, N. Y., the family's home.

Samuel Silverblatt.

Samuel Silverblatt, retired merchant, died today at his home, 6358 Phillips avenue. Born in Poland, he had been a resident of Pittsburgh 43 years.

He founded Talmud Torah, a Jewish school, here, and was a member of Lodge 16, O. K. O. J. and of the Society of B'Nai Jacob.

He leaves five sons, Jacob, Ike, Louis, Max W. and Thomas, all of Pittsburgh, and five daughters, Mrs. Sarah Epstein, Mrs. W. S. Weiner, Mrs. George Levinson and Mrs. Abe Smith, of this city, and Mrs. Frances Wainstein, of Ellwood City.

REMEMBER WHEN 'Lectric Cars Were New?

CHARLES C. REEL DRIVING HARRY T. HIPWELL AND JOSEPH SAUERS 30 YEARS AGO

One of only two electric automobiles (the other was owned and driven by Dr. Rinehart, the late husband of Novelist Mary Roberts Rinehart, who then lived in Western avenue, City of Allegheny) in the parade celebrating the opening of the Manchester Bridge. This car was built in 1903, had a tire-pressing brake, hard tires of rubber, the doe-se-doe rear seat. Mr. Reel now lives at 215 West Ohio street.

dug up anything out of her brain, she'll be tickled to death. She's gone for you in a big way."

Tony Inquisitive

"I've gone for her in a big way," said Durant.

"Yeah?" The gangster stared at him. "Don't kid little Tony. Oil and water don't mix. You're no college boy, thrilled because a girl's good-looking."

"Just the same, I think she's swell," said Durant.

"Sure, sure. Why not? I told you she was a good egg. And no comeback. Just the kind of a girl that takes things as they come. If you want to be nice, be nice. But I'm not telling you how to act. You know. What did she know that she didn't know she knew?"

"Something that I wanted to tell you about last night, only you hadn't come in."

Gazotti grinned. "That was a stall about me and Lottie wanting to hit the hay. What you call tact. I wanted to give you a break with Gertie. Me and Lottie hit the high spots until five this morning. Was it pretty important, what you wanted to tell me?"

"I don't know; it may lead to something."

"Well, spill it," invited Gazotti.

Durant puffed at a cigaret. "Some time ago, when Mimi Montagne had quit Siddall, and before she went back to Crelliman, she was hard pressed for ready money."

Gazotti nodded. "Sure; those gals won't put it in the bank or in bonds. It's always in jewelry."

"Exactly. And she wanted to pawn her jewelry. And she did pawn her jewelry. She asked Jim Crelliman who was the most reliable pawnbroker he knew. She was paving the way for a touch, thinking she might be offered a loan, but Crelliman didn't give her any money. But he did suggest the name of a pawnbroker. And that pawnbroker's name was Levitoff.

A Coincidence

"Does that spell anything to you, Tony? You say Siddall killed Montagne. But the clinching evidence, the thing that proves premeditation and malice aforethought, is Levitoff's evidence that on the day before yesterday Siddall bought a revolver from him. Considerable coincidence, isn't it, that Siddall should have bought a gun from a man evidently known to Crelliman?"

Gazotti stared at him. "God knows I think you're an able man, Mr. Durant. I have reason to know that you're an able man, that you're the smartest mouthpiece in Manhattan. But I swear I thought you were goofy with all that chatter about the things she didn't know she knew. I get what you mean. You wouldn't know how to ask her to tell you those things. You have to wait until they sort of tumble out of her mouth; you have to just chat about this and that, hoping she'll say something sooner or later that you can use. And by God, right off the very first night she says something that means something."

"Maybe it does and maybe it doesn't," said Durant. "But I called on Levitoff half an hour ago. I wanted to look him over, so I pretended that I wanted a loan on a ring. And he recognized me. He told me to get out before he called the police. He knew that I was working in Siddall's interest. And all I learned was that I'd not be able to do anything with him. I'd hoped that he'd be the kind of man I could bribe or frighten. But I'm afraid he isn't.

"I couldn't make him talk but maybe you could. I'm in favor of due process of law, Tony, but when a man is face to face with the sort of thing that you and Crelliman represent he has to step outside the law. I never thought the time would come when I'd ask a gangster to use gangster methods to help me in a case. But I have to. Levitoff will stick to his story, so far as the police are concerned. All the third degree in the world wouldn't make him change it.

"Siddall is no murderer. Tony, you've said a hundred times that if I wanted anyone killed you'll put them on the spot ten minutes after I ask you to do it. I don't want anyone killed. But I do want Levitoff made to talk. What the devil are you laughing at?" He stared angrily at the grinning gangster.

"Go on. Finish what you have to say," said Gazotti.

"I hate to do a rotten thing. But Levitoff lies, or else I know nothing about people. And I know plenty about people. I know enough to be willing to risk my life on the statement that Tom Siddall did not kill Montagne. If I'd risk my life, Levitoff must risk a few broken bones. Tony, will you get hold of him and make him tell the truth about that revolver? Will you do that for me?"

Pawnbroker Slain

"How long ago did you see Levitoff?" asked Gazotti.

Durant glanced at his wrist watch. "I got there just before nine o'clock. Because I wanted to think, I walked from there down here. About 45 minutes ago. Why?"

"I wouldn't be telling too many people you dropped in to see him," advised Gazotti. "You see, the boys keep me in touch with whatever happens. Just about the time Denny downstairs was letting you in, one of the lads rang me on the telephone. He knows I like to keep in touch with things. At about nine-thirty this morning somebody walked into Levitoff's shop and filled him full of lead.

"Now, don't ask me who did it because I don't know. The man who phoned me didn't know. Maybe I could guess, but a guess doesn't mean anything. You can be dead sure that Jim Crelliman has an alibi. And maybe he thought you'd be able to get Levitoff to talk. But that doesn't matter.

"It doesn't look so good for Mr. Siddall. The police can't use Levitoff's testimony, but the jury will remember that they read the papers and they'll figure that if Levitoff was in court it would be just that much tougher for Siddall. Somebody wants that broker to fry. Anything else I can do for you?"

"I'm afraid not," said Durant slowly.

"Ain't it a scream?" said Tony. "The one night I ought to be at home I'm out making whoopee. Why, maybe if I'd been in when you phoned, and grabbed Levitoff, it might have saved Siddall's life as well as Levitoff's. I call that funny, don't you?"

Durant stared at him. "My sense of humor isn't what it ought to be, Tony. I just can't get up a great big hearty laugh over it. And if Crelliman—let's call him by name—would have Levitoff killed, how safe is Gertie Waxted?"

PICTORIAL EDUCATION

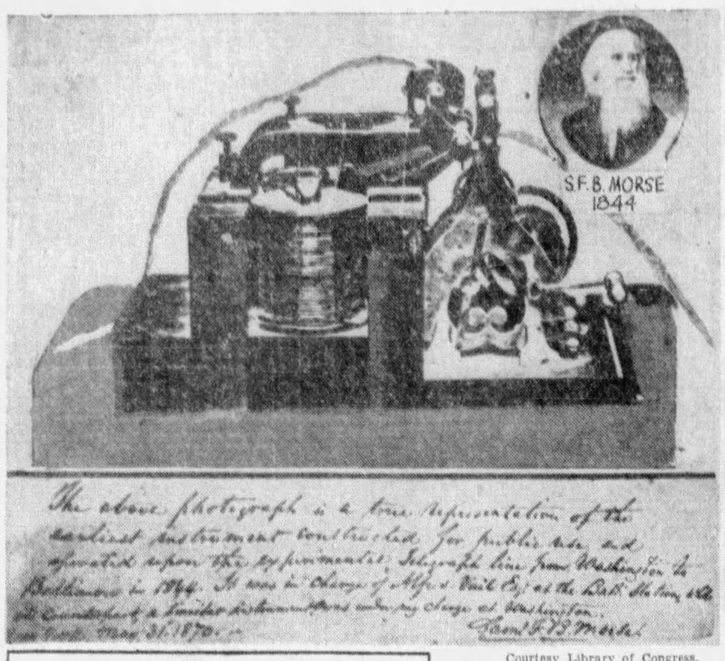
FOR SCHOOL PUPILS

SEPTEMBER 21, 1933. (For Section A.)

Approved for Pittsburgh City Schools, Allegheny County Schools and Parish Schools of Pittsburgh Diocese



The above photograph is a true representation of the earliest instrument constructed for public use and operated upon the telegraph line from Washington to Baltimore in 1844. It was in charge of Alfred Vail Esq. at the Bolt Station and the first telegraphic dispatch under my charge at Washington was sent May 24, 1870. Samuel F.B. Morse

THE FIRST TELEGRAPH AND MESSAGE (1844)

After six years of struggle, Samuel F. B. Morse obtained $30,000 from Congress to construct an experimental line for his electro-magnetic telegraph. The "miracle" he produced by sending and receiving the message, "What hath God wrought?" ushered a new era in communication. (U. S. History.)

FOUNDATION AND FOOTING

Foundation is the part of a building below the surface on which the superstructure rests. The bottom of the foundation, the footing, is enlarged to distribute the weight of the building, so it should not exceed the bearing value of the ground. This is for: Soft clay 1, firm clay or sand (wet) 2, (dry) 3, hard clay or gravel 4, rock 15-72 tons per square foot. Above are some footings shown with and without steel reinforcement. (Huntington: Building Construction.)

FRENCH SACKING THE PALATINATE (1674)

Anxious to expand his power to the Rhine, Louis XIV thrust French troops into the Palatinate (Germany), sweeping over portions of today's Bavaria, killing and plundering. The French were under the command of Gen. Turenne. This raid is the only stain on the career of this brilliant soldier, and then he acted on orders. (World History.)

CRACKING OF PETROLEUM-HYDROCARBONS

It is the decomposition of high-boiling point hydrocarbons into such of low boiling points under influence of heat (up to 1000° F.) and pressure (up to 1000 lbs.). By employing a cracking agent (anhydrous aluminum chloride) the change is brought about under atmospheric pressure. Cracking the middle fractions of the crude oil gives "cracked" gasoline almost equal in quantity to that won by the first distillation ("straight run"). Cracking may be represented: $C_{12}H_{26}$ (b. pt. 216°) = C_6H_{14} (b. pt. 69°) + C_5H_{12} (b. pt. 36°) + C. Above diagram shows the Cross cracking process. (Holmes: Intr. College Chemistry.)

GEOFFREY CHAUCER, "FATHER OF ENGLISH POETRY"

Chaucer (1340-1400) was the first English poet to command attention of contemporaries and posterity. Among his many works the Canterbury Tales are best known. His stories present a cross-section of the contemporary people mingling during the customary pilgrimages to the Shrine of St. Thomas in Canterbury. His characters are living, treated with humor, never offensively satiric. Above, Chaucer's Equestrian Portrait from a manuscript. (Garnett: English Literature.)

FRACTIONAL DISTILLATION OF CRUDE PETROLEUM

Crude oil, or petroleum, is the most important source of liquid fuels. It is a mixture of hydrocarbons and is found in great pools underground. Several theories were advanced for its origin. Most generally it is believed that petroleum derived from animal and vegetable matter decomposed under high temperature and pressure. Recent searches suggest as the cause the reaction of water on metallic carbides deep in the earth.

The oil is found by costly drilling and brought to surface by pumping or by pressure of the gases escaping from it (gusher).

Junior Patrol Mail Box

Did your parents and big brothers and sisters vote Tuesday, fellows?

Every good citizen should vote if he possibly can. Tuesday, you know, was what is known as the PRIMARY election when the voters of each party selected their choice of a candidate for the various offices. In November, there will be another election—the GENERAL election, when the voters will choose among the candidates of the various parties. Even though everyone you know who is old enough to vote in the primary didn't vote, you should urge them to vote in the general election.

To be a good election, which shows which candidates and policies the people really favor, just as many people as possible should vote. Junior Patrol members can help to get out the vote.

There's a letter today from Jane Mahady, of 1304 Ligonier street, Latrobe, Pa. She writes:

"I received a card and pin before I lost my pin but I have my card still. Please send me another pin. I am going to start a patrol if I can when school opens. I read the Mail Box every day."

We have quite a few members in Latrobe, Jane. Let's hope you can get them together. We will send you another pin.

Today Anita Swartz, of Box 132, Dravosburg, Pa., writes to tell us about her first meeting as a captain:

"We had a wonderful time. Mother served a delightful little lunch, after which games were played on the lawn. Thank you for the armband which I am very proud of and wear all the time. Our colors are orange and black."

Anita sends five more pledges of members to her patrol. Her club now has 15 members and she is going to have more soon now that school has started.

Dorothy Marie and Anna Marie Kazlanski, of 70 Ridgewood avenue, West View, write:

"We have heard so much about your club that we want to join it. We live in the country. We have four rabbits, peeps, chickens and fish so we are not lonesome. We both go to school and we like all the lessons we have."

Dandy, girls. Now how about starting a patrol? You didn't send any pledges or copies of pledges for your memberships.

JUNIOR PATROL PLEDGE

I promise to help children less fortunate than I am,
I promise to do my best to make my parents proud of me.
I promise to watch carefully when crossing streets and to aid other children in keeping out of danger.
I promise to study hard and do errands willingly.
I promise to be a 100% Junior Patrol member.

Talking Back to the Movies

We endorse the Brooklyn judge who slapped two days' grace on a razzberry merchant in a movie theater.

His oratorical buzzers annoyed the rest of the audience. The management gave him a military escort of 16 ushers who conducted him to the last frontier.

We have never heard anybody razzing a picture outside of the college towns. It seems like a waste of even a bum's time. It is as one-sided an argument as shaking your fist at a train you just missed.

In the old days of the speaking stage there was some logic in hazing an actor. You were sure of an answer. Great actors like Irving and Booth would often stop in the middle of Hamlet's gloomy monologue to pass the time of day with an infuriated admirer in the nickel seats. In those days, the speaking stage included the balcony and the gallery.

Many years ago we sat on the top shelf and watched Creston Clarke play Cyrano. After he was wounded we never thought he would croak. He staggered from tree to tree for 20 minutes until we thought he was playing pussy-in-the-corner. So we helped him out with verbal advice on the technique of kicking off gracefully and swiftly. That was why the oldtimer played for the gallery. Once he had them on his side they would swing the rest of the house. The gallery was a claque you couldn't buy.

But hooting a picture seems to lack the essential nutrition that is the joy of a kibitzer's heart. The people you are razzing are safe in Hollywood 3,000 miles away. Think of the ushers who have to look at it for the rest of the week.

There will always be people who waste the NRA's time by talking back to moving pictures, arguing with traffic policemen and drawing mustaches on billboards. There will never be a bear market in that kind of stuff. We intend to be neutral until one of them puts the razz on Mickey Mouse. With the aid of the ushers and 60 musicians we figure we should put up a pretty good battle for order and refinement. And, even if we lose, we are sure of quiet and no heckling in the hospital zone.

Mayor Herron's Victory

Notwithstanding the Coyne Organization's Triumph, There Is Little Reason for Gloom.

The Regular Republican organization, dominated by Senator James J. Coyne, won a notable victory in the primary Tuesday.

The organization often has given Pittsburgh and Allegheny County bad government. It has thrust upon us the spoils system under which men were given jobs in the civil service for political reasons without regard to their fitness for the jobs. It has sponsored candidates who proved corrupt and inefficient. The organization's triumph is accordingly calculated to arouse misgivings in many minds.

We do not see much reason for gloom.

Without taking into consideration the possibility that the Republican nominees may be defeated by the Democrats in the election on November 7, cause for cheerfulness may be found in the fact that the organization's victory was not 100 per cent complete, for several independents appear to have won nominations for important posts, and also in the fact that some of the organization's candidates are men of high caliber.

Mayor John S. Herron is one of them. His personal honesty has never been questioned, and there is no doubt of his ability. The fact that he ran far ahead of his ticket not only is a testimonial to his popularity, but demonstrated that thousands of citizens who mistrust the Regular Republican organization do not mistrust Herron.

Frank L. Duggan, one of the organization's Councilmanic candidates, is another man of high caliber. There is no need to fear that he may aid the organization in anything that is dishonorable or unfair to the people.

William A. Magee, an independent, appears to have broken the organization's slate and to have captured the Republican nomination for Council. Having served two terms as Mayor, Magee is exceptionally well qualified, if elected, to give good service.

The election of a new member to the body not only will be beneficial from the standpoint of the people, but also from the standpoint of the administration.

If the Republicans are successful in November, we shall have four avowed independents in the Council of nine—McArdle, Magee, Garland and Anderson—and we believe there is enough independence in some of the others to give assurance that we will no longer have occasion to refer contemptuously to a servile majority that does the organization's bidding without question.

Particular cause for gratification will be found in the outcome of the contest for the judiciary nominations. Judges Harry H. Rowand, Ralph H. Smith and M. A. Musmanno appear to have been named by the Republicans for the three places on the bench of the Court of Common Pleas.

Rowand was indorsed by the Regular Republican organization, but bears a good reputation and owes his election as much to his personal worth as to the organization's support. Smith and Musmanno are sturdily independent, of excellent character, and learned in the law. It is a splendid thing for the people of Allegheny County to be assured of the election of judges who are under no obligations to a political machine.

This is true, also, of the nomination of Judges Frank A. Piekarski and Benjamin Lencher for the County Court.

While Gustav L. Schramm appears to have lost the Juvenile Court nomination to Charles G. Lane, Jr., the organization candidate, he is still to be reckoned with, for he has captured the Democratic nomination.

The Sun-Telegraph finds much that is gratifying in the other Democratic nominations, also.

William N. McNair for Mayor, John J. Kane, Thomas J. Gallagher, Walter R. Demmler, George E. Evans and John M. Huston for Council—there is a city ticket of which the Democrats may well feel proud, a ticket whose election in November need give no one concern for the welfare of Pittsburgh.

A Foolish Assertion

Senator Pittman Makes a Mistake in Advocating the Annulment of the Monroe Doctrine

Upon landing in New York the other day, after attending the London Conference as an American delegate, Senator Pittman of Nevada announced:

"The cause for promulgation of the Monroe Doctrine no longer exists," and as the doctrine in the judgment of the Senator "no longer serves a good purpose," he advocates its annulment.

If Senator Pittman were only an obscure representative from a sparsely settled state, his fatuous assertion would probably pass unnoticed. But the rule of seniority has brought him to the chairmanship of the great committee of the Senate—the Committee on Foreign Relations.

For this reason and this reason only, the abysmal ignorance Mr. Pittman demonstrates regarding the origin of the Monroe Doctrine, and his inability to appreciate its enduring value, give to his words a michief-making significance.

Foreign governments may find it difficult to believe that the chairman of the Committee on Foreign Relations of the United States Senate would repudiate one of the fundamental foreign policies of the United States on his own initiative.

As Congress will not reconvene until next January, the silly statement of Senator Pittman ought promptly to be exposed as setting forth only the views of himself, lest someone should think he voices the sentiments of the President, the Senate, the House of Representatives or the Democratic Party.

The Monroe Doctrine is a fundamental American policy. It will be supported and adhered to long after Senator Pittman has left the Senate—speed the day. It will be respected by the world long after the disrespectful words of Mr. Pittman have been forgotten.

And the sooner the Democratic leaders of the Senate and House of Representatives make it clear to the American people that Mr. Pittman's absurd attack upon the Monroe Doctrine is contrary both to the theory and practice of the party of Thomas Jefferson, James Monroe, Andrew Jackson, Grover Cleveland and Franklin D. Roosevelt, the better it will be for the future of that party.

Voting Machine Fiasco

Judgment As to the Blame Should Be Suspended Until After the Investigation.

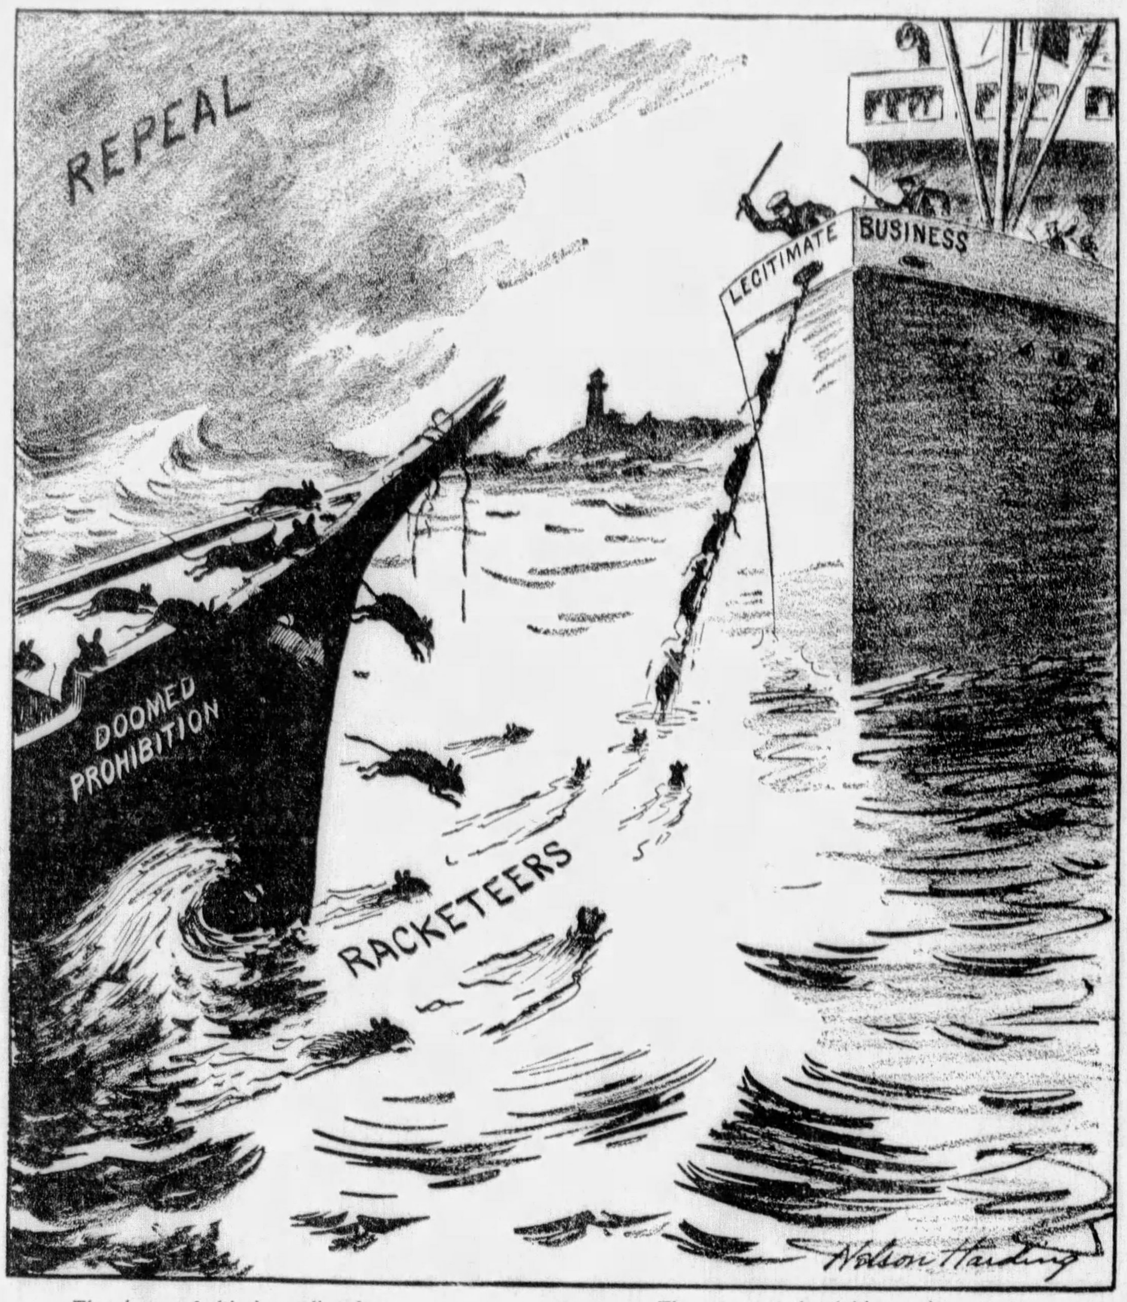
The County Bureau of Elections has promised a thorough investigation of the breakdown of a number of the voting machines in Tuesday's election.

In the meantime charges are flying thick and fast. It is charged in some quarters that the county authorities sent out the machines without having first tested them to see that they were running smoothly. In other quarters it is charged that the machines were "sabotaged." Again, it is asserted there was nothing wrong with the machines, but the election boards did not know how to operate them.

Judgment should be suspended until the facts have been established.

Beware of Rats from Sinking Ships -:- -:-

By Nelson Harding



The shattered ship is settling fast,
Her crew, in fear, departing.
And now another exodus
From that doomed hulk is starting.

The rats upon the sinking craft,
Desert their former shelter,
And toward a new place to infest
They scramble, helter skelter.

Marry-Go-Round

The Daughters of The American Revolution may soon have to give place to a brand new American aristocracy, consisting exclusively of people who can boast that they have been kidnapped.

You can always spot a woman of "class," because she doesn't feel that it's necessary to snub anybody, in order to PROVE her social standing.

The honeymoon has set in the west, when the bridegroom stops going out evenings, occasionally—and begins coming home only occasionally.

When a man begins talking of being "good pals," says Reno Ruth, a wise woman begins to plan her trousseau; because she knows that he is merely trying to put the LID on love, thereby hastening the combustion.

A man loves a vital, healthy wife, and many a husband has been devoted to an invalid wife; but a half-sick woman, who is continually complaining of a pain or an ache somewhere, drives him to destruction—or distraction.

Mrs. Solomon says: Verily, my Son, flattery, as in cigarets, every man hath his favorite brand: and of applesauce and banana oil there is no end. But ALL of it is sweet to a woman's ears; and no woman hath ever gotten ENOUGH! * * *

One thing that might improve orangeade would be to put a little orange juice in it; and one thing that might improve the modern man's love-making would be to put a little love in it.

Bo-Peep's Diary: Awoke early, this morning, and fell to pondering why some of the sweetest women I know have never found husbands. Yet, how many men have been martyrs for years to the caprices of self-centered women, and still continued to be in love! Can it be that in order to make a man happy a woman must be able to make him suffer?

Sometimes you can tell, just by the way he honks the horn, whether it's a lover saying, "I'm waiting, darling!" or a husband saying, "For gosh sakes, get a hustle on!"

PLYMOUTH DAY BY DAY

By O. O. McIntyre

PLYMOUTH, Mass., Sept. 21.—And some 300 years later another tiny band of pilgrims landed. But not from the Mayflower. This town has always seemed the core of the United States, the background of native pride. On way from Newport is New Bedford, architecturally bleak but an appealingly sturdy factory and fishing city.

Also Buzzard's Bay, of historical significance. Shops on its one main street heralding "Fish Bait" denote the anglers' paradise it is. Nearing Plymouth, the roadside flowers with chintzy and wickery Priscilla and John Alden tea rooms. And Pilgrim hot dog stands.

Plymouth, aside from marking the Mayflower landing, is the doorway to the Cape Cod country, on whose outer tip is the arty nook of Provincetown. We also saw Orleans, where Capt. John Smith landed on his expedition to New England, and Truro where pilgrims found the first drinking water.

It was from off Orleans the German submarine fired the only shot of the World War in American waters. Cape Cod Bay is a ruffle of blue and white, and on the shore clusters of fishing shack villages. The so'easter—or is it so'wester?—rain slickers of cod liver ads are numerous.

The Yankee twang did not become pronounced until we edged into the home-spun Cape Cod coast. Here are salty characters out of "Shore Acres" and "Way Down East." The girls, red-cheeked, plump and corn-fed. The men, lanky, blue-eyed, leather tanned and sufficient proof the bobbing Adam's Apple has not passed from the American scene.

* * *

The sentimental veneration that Plymouth so serenely inspires is miraculously contagious. The tourist is touched instantly by a slightly choked reverance for its trees, quaint homes with footscrapers and wealth of honorable traditions. In a whirling modern world, it offers nothing newer than a hundred years.

* * *

Naturally, a chief purpose of our visit was to see the rack upon which the pilgrims landed. No one approaches it casually, for it is a symbol of the most beautiful fortitude in American history. It is noticeable that a glisten of tears wells up suddenly among all tourists.

Youths, designated guides working for tips, sing-song a sketchy tra-la-la of the rock. The pilgrims totaled 104 and 47 lost their lives that first bleak, fearful winter. They sleep on Cole's hill, overlooking the calm bay. I was impressed by the manner in which the American-born chauffer, John De Carlo, was emotionally stirred. His handkerchief quickly went to his eyes in shaken privacy.

* * *

Plymouth Rock is now in original position, about three feet from the water line at high tide. It has been moved often, and erosion of years, coupled with constant chipping of souvenir hunters exacted a toll that would have eventually caused obliteration. Two-thirds are left. Once, dropped, it broke into three pieces, now cemented. It weighs 7 tons and a dozen could stand on its surface comfortably.

The rock is sheltered under a Grecian porch with pillars, probly 40 feet long and 15 wide. One looks upon it through an iron grilled square in the fashion of gazing into the seal pit at a zoo. A Plymouth mason carved on its top the figures "1620."

Motoring through New England reveals forlorn way-side stands now abandoned. Finest homes have meager yard displays of fruits, preserved and fresh, painted wooden lawn gadgets for decoration and the like. But the latter are merely outward embering of ingrained native thrift. Houses far back in the yard are snowy white, relieved by shutters of green, autumnal brown and jet black. It all offers a memorable and placid study of a beautiful provincialism, almost vanished.

* * *

Scituate, spiffy spa for rich New Yorkers and Bostonians, also looked down at heel. It was at Scituate my wife threatened to abandon the tour if I did not quit chirping "Kennybunkport," like a sudden skip up stairs. All the time they pick on me. All the time they do! When as a matter fact, I'm more fun.

LISTEN, WORLD

By Elsie Robinson

Love—is it worth while?

If you're under 20, you won't ask that question. You'll flame with indignation if you hear anyone else ask it.

But if you're over 30, you'll find yourself asking that question often and oftener, with increasing doubt. For by that time you will have made the unhappy discovery that love's a very costly thing; that it demands hardship and sacrifice; that it opens the way to heart-break and bitter disillusion.

Your brain will tell you how much further ahead you might be in life if you'd taken the trail alone; how much money you might have saved; how much work and worry you might have been spared.

Your body will remind you of all the tired days and sleepless nights; the fun you've missed; the vacations you didn't have; the far lands you didn't see.

And suddenly you'll find yourself feeling bitter and cheated. And the old memories which once were so sweet—those tender, whispered words, those lovely, twilight hours—will taunt you, jeer at you.

"See for what trivial things you sold yourself out!" they'll sneer. "A little fleeting glamour—and all your life mortgaged as a consequence."

Yes, no matter who you are—no matter how greatly you have loved—times like these will come. Times when you'll believe that love isn't worth while; when you'll wish that it had never come your way.

I know. Often and often, though I've squandered my whole life loving, I have felt that way—and have been caught in bitterness, as in a trap. But once I came across a little verse by Mac Knight Black that freed me, and armed me against the madness of such moods. Listen!

"Not knowing what life shall come out of its wholeness,

"Thundering the white pear branches of spring from its silent dark!"

Strange words, aren't they? A bit hard to understand, at first. But presently, if you will think about them, the meaning will be simple and sweet as bird song.

"GIVE NOT WITH YOUR HANDS." Don't depend on body love. Don't judge love by the things it does to your body. Bodies grow weary—bored—burnt out—run away. Love isn't worth while if you test it by the things it does to your body. Even life isn't worth while, if you test it that way.

"GIVE NOT WITH YOUR LIPS." Don't depend on lip love. Don't judge love by the wonder of its words. Words grow commonplace; grow cold. Lips falter, fumble, fall into nagging, whining ways. Love isn't worth while if you test it by the things you say, or the things that are said to you.

"GIVE WITH YOUR HEART!"

Give as the earth gives—naturally, abundantly, without counting the cost, without reckoning the harvest—because it was made to give; because giving is the greatest adventure in life, no matter what it costs.

The earth does not reason; does not demand reasons. The earth does not question or delay, wondering if giving "will be worth while." The earth accepts whatever comes; bows itself to the storm; opens its heart to the plough. And then, out of the long beating, the cruel breaking, the darkness and the waiting—comes the spring! The white wonder of blossoms, where yesterday there was only the lonely, weary soil!

Love with your heart! Never mind your doubting brain, your grumbling flesh. Brain and flesh are feeble, fickle things. Your heart—that is the great part of you, the god part.

And your heart was made for giving as the earth was made for growing. Never mind what it costs. Never mind what it brings. Give with your heart.

The Human Side of the News

France Plans to Abolish Its Famous Devil's Island Prison—A Place of Infernal Punishment—Few Escape

By EDWIN C. HILL

FROM France comes the news that the most notorious prison on the face of the earth is to be wiped off the map. Devil's Island off the coast of French Guiana, is to be abolished. With it will go almost the last surviving relic of medieval cruelty to erring or condemned men.

For close on to 80 years Devil's Island has been a blot upon the name of France. To Devil's Island and to a living death were sent thieves and traitors and murderers who escaped the far kinder guillotine. Lost to hope and decency, often tortured by brutal guards or by each other, weakened in body and spirit by a horrible climate, the exiles of Devil's Island had, when hope of escape was finally abandoned, just one prayer: God send me death!

If ever there was a hell on earth, Devil's Island completely meets the description. The entire island is a dungeon, the place of solitary confinement of the much larger colony on the mainland behind it. It is the place reserved for the worst type of punishment, a killer of men rather than a redeemer, as it was meant to be when it was conceived in the mind of Jean Jacques Rousseau.

From Rousseau's thought, indeed, that all men, however evil, should be given a chance to redeem themselves, came the name of the penal colony of which Devil's Island is the black heart. And the official name is "Iles du Salut," Salvation Islands. But there is no salvation for the unfortunates who once set foot on the ship which is to take them there.

Departure of Ship A Memorable Sight

LA MARINIERE is the name of that ship, and any one of its sailings from the port of La Rochelle is a sight to stain the memory. All shops along the line of march from the jail to the docks are closed, shutters down, as the wretched procession approaches, the files of men who gambled and lost. Four by four they come, dressed in coarse woolen suits, trudging toward the dock and the waiting prison ship, rows of steel-helmeted soldiers and a fence of bristling bayonets threatening them every step of the way.

Relatives are barred at the parting. To these utterly crushed men no Godspeed must be said. Wearily shuffling up the gangplank and down into the hold with its steel-barred cells they go, and there they will exist for the three and sometimes four weeks of the journey. Each cage holds 80 men. Hot steam is ready always to be poured into the cages in case of mutiny. And finally Les Iles du Salut and Devil's Island—with all of the tortures of Nature—torrid heat and torrential rains and the torment of insects—to add to the cruelty of man. It is well for France that after 80 years she has decided to abolish Devil's Island.

I have stood in the streets of La Rochelle and looked on while the procession of the condemned passed like dead through a dead street, and I have stood, too, outside the walls of Mexico City's grim old penitentiary while another such procession of lost souls began their wretched journey to the Devil's Island of Mexico, the Islands of the Three Marys—"Las Tres Marias."

Standing in a drizzle of rain I looked on while screaming women threw themselves at the feet of the soldier guards, imploring for a last kiss or a last word from a condemned husband, lover, father or son. I saw husbands torn from the arms of wives, fathers from children. The earth can scarcely offer a spectacle more heart-wrenching.

In exile there is something crueler than death, something indefinably terrible. France has Devil's Island. Italy has its dreaded Pianosa, Monte Christo and Lipari. Czarist Russia had its body-breaking, soul-smashing Siberia, as, indeed, has present-day Soviet Russia, which puts its criminals on the Island of Solovetsky far up in the White Sea.

75,000 Criminals Are 'Buried Alive'

DOWN in steaming Guiana France buries alive 75,000 of its most desperate criminals. There they are dumped twice a year from the iron cages of the prison ships. Men sentenced for treason or for inhuman crimes go to three islands off the coast. Devil's Island is the living death for traitors. St. Joseph gets the incorrigibles for solitary confinement. Royale is the cage of the most dangerous and cunning. In these islands men ask God for death in the silences of the night.

Rarely is there an escape from either the prison hells of France or of Mexico. Cannibals are the sentinels and sharks the warders.

And yet, I am told by a young Mexican official who made a study of the outcasts on Las Tres Marias that it is not the sun, or the poor food, or the monotony, or the punishments, or the diseases which finally breaks the strongest. It's the unendurable mental anguish of being separated from the soil from which they sprang. It is sickness for home that gives uneasing torture. Said this Mexican official to me:

"The only songs these men sing are of home and of their people. When a passage of birds goes winging over the island toward the sea every man stops at his task. His eyes follow the flight with a terrible intensity, with a gaze of dreadful longing—holds the flight and follows it—follows those free and joyous wings until they have passed out of sight beyond the horizon."

ONCE OVERS

By J. J. Mundy

You don't like to be held accountable, do you?

You don't want to assume all responsibility for errors.

But someone must stand the jar. Why not you, if you are capable of such a position of trust?

You have carried this spirit with you to such an extent that you are losing confidence in yourself.

You want someone to OK your work, instead of doing that for others.

If anyone tries to help you with your work, and something goes wrong, you try to make that person partially responsible, don't you?

The world is full of persons who do work in such a way that someone must check up on everything they do, to assure creditable performance.

But it is the ones who are willing to go ahead and stand for results who get the good salaries, and who stay on with the firm when retrenchment makes it necessary to cut down on the number of help.

There are comparatively few who are so reliable that none need supervise their work.

If you are low paid in your job, you have no reason for complaint, if you can't be depended upon to put out a superior job and assume responsibility if things go wrong.

ISN'T IT SO?

Beauty parlors furnish as much gossip as beauty.

He that scoffs at the crooked had need go very straight himself.

The opinion of a rich man bears more weight than that of a poor man.

The joys of yesterday are dead and those of tomorrow are not yet born.

Some people change their minds because a little change is desirable now and then.

Being poor and having to work is not nearly so bad as being poor and having no work.
